What sight is more beautiful than to see a whole family at church, the little children included?

M'INTYRE AND WIFE DIE IN WRECKAGE

Police Held at Bay for an Hour — Hundreds of Shots Exchanged.

Chicago, July 18.—H. J. McIntyre, a negro religious fanatic, becoming violently insane, today shot four persons to death, wounded three and was himself killed, with his wife, after 150 police had dynamited the house in which he was barricaded.

McIntyre's wife is supposed to have assisted him, at least to the extent of reloading his weapons, as a cartridge belt was found around her waist similar to the one worn by her husband. Her head was blown off by the explosion of dynamite.

The dead:

Stuart Dean, 60, policeman.

Mrs. Josephine Overmeyer, 28, neighbor.

Edward Knox, 34, negro, neighbor.

Alfred Matthews, 30, negro, neighbor.

H. J. McIntyre, negro, the crazed man, 30.

Mrs. Hattie McIntyre, negress, wife of the slayer, 30.

The injured:

Edward Clement, detective-sergeant, three bullet wounds; serious.

Grover Crabtree, policeman, wounds in wrist and elbow.

Mrs. Sadie Knox, wife of Edward Knox, bullet wound in back; serious.

Hundreds of Shots Exchanged.

Hundreds of shots were exchanged between the crazed slayer and the police, who besieged his flat in a two story brick structure at 320 North Irving avenue.

After three charges of dynamite had been exploded and an attempt made to fire the structure with gasoline, McIntyre and his wife, who were armed with powerful rifles, were shot to death. The police were held at bay for more than an hour.

The explosions blew the rear porch and part of the kitchen into the alley

CARGO NEARLY ALL ABOARD DEUTSCHLAND

Big Submarine Ready to Start Return Trip in Few Hours.

Baltimore, Md., July 18.—That the German merchant marine Duetschland would finish loading her cargo by tonight and be ready to leave within a few hours, was the belief today of observers who have been closely watching the boat and activities about her since she was docked here on Monday morning of last week.

It was recalled today that Captain Paul Konig had stated to customs officials when he entered his arrival at the customs house that he thought he would sail on his return voyage within ten days. That period is up tomorrow. The captain has not applied for his clearance papers at the custom house up to noon today. Captain Konig answered all questions as to the Deutschland's departure with a smile, saying "that would be very interesting information, I am sure."

Officials of the Eastern Forwarding company were as reicent as Captain Konig. "We cannot and will not say when the boat will start back," was their invariable response.

Stevedores said the crude rubber and nickel composing its cargo will be sored in the boat before nightfall.

TEN PULLMAN CARS AS HOSPITAL TRAIN

Washington, July 18.—A hospital train of ten Pullman cars, designed by the army medical department, has been ordered from the Pullman shops at Chicago. Five of the cars are to be equipped with regular hospital beds and have large side doors for loading and unloading stretchers; two will be of the regulation sleeper type, equipped with extra fans, medicine cabinets and ice tanks; one will carry a complete operating room and another a kitchen large enough to care for over 200 sick.

In addition to the regular army personnel the train will carry a special corps of army nurses to serve in the wards and operating car. The cars will be painted maroon, with the insignia of the army medical department.

WILSON ASKS MORE ACTION

Wants Workmen's Compensation and Child Labor Bills Enacted.

GOES TO CAPITOL TO SEE SENATOR KERN

Both Measures Had Been Side-Tracked by the Caucus Program.

Washington, July 18.—Shortly after noon today President Wilson went to the capitol. It was the first visit he had made there in many months.

At the capitol the president conferred in his private room with Senator Kern, the democratic leader. It was understood that the president is very desirous of having the workingmen's compensation and child labor bills included in the legislative program. They were sidetracked by the caucus.

It was announced at the white house last week that the president planned to write a letter to Senator Kern urging the adoption o fthe workmen's compensation act and the child labor bill. Yesterday aVnce McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee stated that the president did not want to be formally notified of his renomination until congress had adjourned and it was intimated a delay in adjournment was expected by the president's insistence that these measures be passed.

The president's visit to the capitol was entirely unexpected to administration leaders. When he reached the capitol building he went direct to his room. There was no one to meet him but at

MAIN VILLA BAND IS REPORTED IN FLIGHT

Driven Before a Sweeping Advance of Forces of Carranza.

Chihuahua, Mexico, July 18.—Dispatches to Gen. Trevino from Gen. Luis Herrera, at Parral, received today, said that the main Villa band had crossed the Durango line and is fleeing rapidly before the sweeping advance of Carranza forces.

The Villistas apparently are making for Tepehuenes, about 120 miles south of Parral, where it is expected they may make a stand.

Gen. Elizondo reported from San Francisco de Borja that the only bandits in the Benito Juarez section of Chihuahua state have been wiped out by troops at Sierra Baquischic. Seven Villistas were executed. Gen. Trevino announced reports in the United States of defection to Villa of several amnestied leaders were without foundation.

WIFE'S LETTER CAUSE OF [illegible]

Ft. Wayne Man Att[illegible]pts Suicide Along Country Road Near Van Wert.

FIRST TELLS OF BEING HELD-UP

Peter Anostosoff Will Die from Wounds Inflicted While Despondent.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Van Wert, O., July 18.—Peter Anostosoff, 23 years old, who is employed in Fort Wayne, is at the point of death at the county hospital from bullet wounds which he inflicted with suicidal intent. He cannot recover.

The confession that he had attempted suicide was made to the sheriff this morning, after he had told of having been held up by two Americans, robbed and then left dying at the side of the road.

About midnight a farmer living seven miles east of here heard somebody knocking at his door and pleading most pitifully to let him in. The farmer rushed to the door and as he opened it Anostosoff fell in, blood streaming from his mouth and from a bullet hole in his left side, just below the heart.

Anostosoff told the farmer of being held up and in resisting had been shot twice, one in the mouth and then below the heart. He spoke feebly and had scarcely finished his story when he lapsed into unconsciousness. The farmer notified the authorities and Anostosoff was removed to the county hospital, where he was given immediate medical attention.

Revolver Is Found.

Early this morning the sheriff visited the spot where Anostosoff claimed he had been attacked. Near a pool of blood he found a revolver. It had been thrown to one side and was in some high grass. There was no evidence of any struggle, no footprints of two other men and the sheriff became suspicious. The story did not sound good to him. He next visited the hospital and found Anostosoff conscious and apparently resting much easier. He did not question him long when Anostosoff between sobs confessed that he had shot himself. He told why he wanted to die.

Wife and Daughter in Old Country.

Anostosoff is a Macedonian. He came to this country two or three years ago to win his fame and fortune, leaving his wife and daughter behind. When he had earned a sufficient amount to provide a comfortable home he had intended to send for them and had looked forward to that time with great expectancy and anticipation.

Monday, he told the sheriff, he received a letter that had changed his dream into a nightmare and believing

HIGH PAPER COST TO RAISE PENNY SHEETS

Washington, July 18.—"The 1 cent newspaper will be a thing of the past within a short time," predicted Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield yesterday. "Prices have increased all along the line on nearly all commodities, and within the last few months there has been a steady increase in the price of the materials entering into the making of news print paper and an increased demand for paper.

"The indications are that early this fall when new contracts are made, or before, there will be further increases in news print paper prices, and publishers will be unable to get out 1 cent papers without a loss, and an increase in price will be imperative.

"From information which has reached me, I am of the opinion that advertising rates will have to be increased also, as it appears that the increased cost of paper cannot be made up alone by the increase in the price of the newspaper."

STORES MAY CLOSE SATURDAY NIGHTS

Many Fort Wayne business men were visited Tuesday by W. H. Rohan, of the firm of Wolf & Dessauer, getting their opinion regarding the closing of their stores at 6 o'clock every Saturday evening during July and August. The plan met with the approval of every firm he visited. They will be asked to sign an agreement to close later.

It seems very possible that this will become a city wide movement and that before another week has gone by all the retail stores of the city will enter into the agreement.

Business men state that all the people or nearly all have an opportunity to do their shopping on Saturday afternoon

J. B. Franke Again Named President

J. B. FRANKE.

J. B. Franke, of this city, was re-elected president, Monday, at the annual meeting of the Sylvan Lake Improvement association, composed of the summer cottagers at Rome City. Five new members of the board of directors were also elected. Officers named were as follows: J. B. Franke, president; W. J. Barr, vice president; Charles M. Niezer, treasurer, and A. H. Perfect, secretary. The new directors who will serve for a period of three years are: J. B. Harper, W. R. Klaehn, W. J. Barr, G. A. Berghoff and W. B. Donaldson.

ALL DEPENDS ON WHAT POLITICAL PARTIES DO

Suffragists Not Going to Stand for Anybody Who is Against 'Em.

New York, July 18.—The meeting called by the national woman's party to be held in Colorado Springs Aug. 10, 11 and 12, will be the most important suffrage conference ever held in this country, says Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the Woman's Congressional union, who came here today to make arrangements for the approaching campaign.

"The action of this conference," Miss Paul added, "will depend upon what the democratic party will do for the women or what Hughes will promise to do or what the socialist party or the progressive party will do. We will certainly not stand for anyone who is against us and the federal amendment."

Miss Paul said she was looking for twenty-four able women for campaign managers to take charge of the twenty-four districts into which the twelve suffrage states will be divided. The speakers already chosen for the campaign that will follow this conference are Mrs. John Rogers, jr., Miss Helen Todd, Mrs. Rita Child Dorr, Mrs. Florence Bayard Hillis, Mrs. Sarah Bardfield, Mrs. Wm. Kent, Miss Maud Younger and Miss Rose Winslow.

COUPLE MEETS AND COURTSHIP IS ENDED

Love Affair Was Carried by Means of Mail—Deception Was Practiced.

Hagerstown, N. D., July 18.—Because they resorted to the innocent deception of sending each other photographs of moving picture stars, Miss Esther Gulbranson, of Minneapolis, and William Benjamin failed to recognize each other when they met in Hagerstown, according to appointment, to be married.

"No wonder I did not recognize him," Miss Gulbranson said.

She had received, she said, a picture of Maurice Costello, while Mr. Benjamin said the photograph he got through the mail was that of a screen beauty, famous the world over.

The romance began through a matrimonial paper. The marriage was called off.

INTERURBAN CAR IS DERAILED; 20 HURT

Hartford City, Ind., July 18.—A northbound Indiana Union Traction company car was derailed north of here by a broken brace on a switch.

Miss Pauline Merrill, of Kokomo, sustained a dislocated shoulder and Mrs. George Hart, Montpelier, suffered a fractured right arm.

NEW REGION IN DANGER

South Carolin a is Now Seriously Menaced by the Flood's Peril.

WATERS SWEEP FROM MOUNTAIN REGIONS

Death List Now Stands at Fifteen, With an Equal Number Missing.

Atlanta, Ga., July 18.—As North Carolina fields slowly receded today the situation in South Carolina grew serious. High waters were sweeping down from the mountain regions, many streams were out of their banks and the state was threatened by the most destructive floods in its history. The death list from high waters in five southeastern states today stood at fifteen, with thirteen or more missing. The property loss was put at $15,000,000.

Rescue parties searched the swollen Catawba river all night near Belmont, N. C., for ten construction workmen who went down with the Southern railway bridge there Sunday. Ten others were taken from treetops late yesterday, but the missing men are believed to have been drowned.

While the situation was greatly improved in the region around Asheville and Biltmore, where six persons lost their lives, reports from other districts showed damage far in excess of that first reported. Three million dollars damage was done to property in Yadkin county, N. C., and a food shortage was reported. Many manufacturing plants were demolished; crops were ruined; railway damage was reported and the population was described as being in need of immediate help.

Floods around power plants in the inundated area have caused great loss. Textile and other industries have also suffered.

In Charlotte alone one million cotton spindles were made idle. No street cars are operating in that city and kerosene, candles and a limited gas supply furnished the only light last night.

Rivers in east Tennessee today were at their highest stages in fourteen years, and rising. Great quantities of debris floated down from the mountain districts. Railroads throughout the district were heavy sufferers, and the loss in bridges alone probably will reach more than a million dollars.

Greatly improved conditions are reported in Virginia and West Virginia. Streams are falling and normal conditions are being reported. The New river valley suffered estimated property loss of approximately $2,000,000, the Norfolk & Western railway sustaining about one-half the damage. Giles county is said to have been damaged to the extent of $2,000,000. Pearsburg was entirely inundated. The Holston and Clinch rivers are receding after causing damage that probably will reach a million dollars.

Railroad officials believe it will be several weeks before normal train schedules are restored.

ELKUS IS NAMED FOR CONSTANTINOPLE POST

Washington, July 18.—Abram Elkus, of New York, was nominated by President Wilson today as ambassador to Turkey to succeed Henry Morgenthau, who retired to become chairman of the finance committee of the democratic national committee. Mr. Elkus is a lawyer and was recommended by Mr. Morgenthau.

Mr. Elkus is fifty years old and was born and educated in New York city, where he began practicing law in 1888. He had been prominent at the bar and some time ago was considered by President Wilson for a place in the federal court in New York. He has been one of the leaders of the American Jews.

CRYING BABY CAUSES ALL THIS EXCITEMENT

Hammond, Ind., July 18.—A crying baby resulted in the serious injury of three men, the issuing of a riot call to the police and the arrest of two men charged with trespass.

When neighbors of Dan Opaich heard the screams of the child they thought Opaich was beating his wife and four men headed by George Kish and William Kovich were appointed a committee to go to the Opaich home to restore peace. When they arrived Opaich and his wife defended their home against the intruders so successfully that the police had to rescue the members of the committee, and the fracas charges followed.

BART THINKS FRIENDS STOLE HIS MACHINE

Louis Bart believes that his "friends" stole his big Hudson super six automobile Monday afternoon and caused him to put police on its trail. The experience cost Bart a neat sum for telephone and telegraph expenses and no end of worry. The turmoil in which all surrounding towns were notified, and police scoured the city, lasted half an hour.

Bart says he left his car standing on Fourth street while he transacted some business. It was gone when he returned for it a few minutes later. It was found around on Calhoun street, two blocks away. Bart says he thinks some of his jovial friends passed that way and recognizing the utomobile moved it for a joke.

DREW SALARY IN ADVANCE

State Examiner Testifies to Practice of Trustee Scherer.

RESTORED BEFORE GRAND JURY MET

Township Books Were Kept as Required by Law He Declares.

Testimony showing that Trustee Henry P. Scherer, on trial in the circuit court on the charge of misappropriating funds belonging to Wayne township, had been in the habit of drawing his salary in advance was introduced by the state Tuesday morning. According to James R. Haefling, a state accountant, who had examined the township books, Mr. Scherer always referred to withdrawals he made as salary drawn before it was due. Trustee Scherer's total withdrawal, evidence showed, was $7,248.

The last witness introduced by the state before adjournment for the noon recess was Miss Martha Branning, bookkeeper in Mr. Scherer's office, who, in addition to her testimony, produced books of the office, including the cash book, depository record and the bankbook.

Noticed Some Discrepancies.

Miss Branning testified to first observing discrepancies in the accounts of the office in February, 1915. The books,

EPIDEMIC HAS TAKEN NEW SPURT IN GOTHAM

Pronounced Advance After Belief Disease Had Been Checked.

New York, July 18.—After health officials had declared they believed the epidemic of infantile paralysis to be under control the disease made a pronounced advance today. The daily bulletin of the health department shows an increase of nearly 100 per cent in deaths and of more than 30 per cent in new cases.

During the twenty-four hours preceding 10 o'clock this morning the plague killed twenty-six children and there were 121 new cases reported. During the same period ending yesterday there were only fourteen deaths and ninety-five new cases in the five boroughs of New York city.

GAIN NORTH OF OVILLERS

Sweep Down German Front of More Than Half a Mile There.

GERMANS SCORE AGAINST FRENCH

Regain Section of Territory Along the Canal Near Biaches.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Following up their successes near Bazentin-le-Petit and Longuevall, where they have driven close to the third line of German defense on the Albert plateau, the British now have carried out a new thrust forward north of Ovillers, making substantial progress along a front of more than a half mile.

The British drive was launched near the left flank of the line active in the present offensive, southeast of Thiepval and if followed up seems likely to threaten seriously the strongly held German position at Pozieres, to the east.

The expected counter attacks of the Germans in efforts to recapture ground recently won by the allies in the Somme offensive have materialized along the front occupied by the French south of the Somme.

In an attack last night on the French lines between La Maisonnette and Biaches the Germans succeeded in regaining territory along the canal east of Biaches. Their assault on La Maisonette itself, a costly operation, was a failure, says this afternoon's Paris bulletin.

In the Verdun region there has been further activity. The French fire broke up a German raid on hill 304 west of the Meuse, while grenade fighting on the eastern bank of the river resulted in advantage to the French according to the Paris report.

Belgian troops have won an important success in German Africa, dispersing a German force near Lake Victoria in the northern part of the colony.

London, July 18.—(2 p. m.)—Substantial progress by the British on a front of 1,000 yards north of Ovillers was announced today by the war office.

FORT WAYNE AFTER NEXT CONVENTION

(Special to The Sentinel.)

St. Louis, Mo., July 18.—If Fort Wayne does not get the next annual convention of the Walther League in session here this week it will not be because of the boosters who have been sent here for that purpose. They are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts and the prospects are that they will succeed. They are working night and day and no delegate has escaped their appeal.

Fort Wayne Soldier Loses Life in Texas

Private Floyd R. Wolfe, member of Company E, First Regiment, Third Battalion, Indiana National Guard, son of C. A. Wolfe, 1626 East Wayne street, was drowned while in bathing in Llano lake, near Mercedes, Texas, where the company is stationed, according to a telegram received Tuesday by Captain John E. Miller from Captain Ray McAdams, in command of the Fort Wayne boys.

The telegram gave no particulars except to say the drowning was accidental. It reads as follows: "Private Floyd R. Wolfe drowned accidentally. See his people and wire us."

Immediately upon receipt of the message Captain Miller went to the Wolfe home. He was met by Mr. Wolfe, who at once knew that something was wrong.

"Tell me all, I know it is bad news," he told the captain. The telegram was then read to him. The body will be brought here for burial.

Young Wolfe, who was 18 years and nine months old, joined Company E a few days before its departure for Fort Benjamin Harrison. Captain Miller said he was developing into a splendid soldier and was liked by all the members of the company. His death is the first fatality in Company E since it left Fort Wayne some weeks ago. The father is employed at the Electric works.

Prohis Put Blame on Parker's Rallying Cry

St. Paul, July 18.—John M. Parker's rallying cry to progressives for a new national convention of the party in Chicago, August 5, was blamed by prohibition leaders here today for the collapse of their plans for a big "get together" conference, at which they had hoped to enroll as members of their organization scores of men who have been prominent in the progressive, republican and democratic parties. Instead of a "get together" event, the meeting became a prohibition love feast and revival service.

The leaders had expected William Allen White and Victor Murdock of Kansas; Judge Albert D. Norton, of St. Louis, and perhaps Col. Parker himself to meet with them and pledge their affiliation with the prohibition party. But none of these appeared today. Judge Norton's contribution to the "get together" conference was a telegram to Virgil G. Hinshaw, [illegible] pressed regret at his inability to attend the meeting, but assured Mr. Hinshaw he was "with him in spirit."

Judge Norton added that he was morally bound to support Col. Parker's candidacy. He said he would work for the incorporation of a prohibition plank in the new progressive platform, however.

"They are afraid to join until they know we intend to go after the votes with a ticket every progressive can support conscientiously," said Mr. Hinshaw, referring to the absent progressives. After sending a private telegram to St. Paul last night in which he declared he would not accept the prohibition nomination for president, Eugene Foss, former governor of Massachusetts, returned to the list of nomination possibilities today with a telegram to Mr. Hinshaw in which he said "I have thought someone else might better make the fight [illegible] in the judgment of the conference [illegible]

SIR ROGER'S PLEA FAILS

Casement's Appeal Against Verdict Declaring Him Guilty Dismissed.

HIGH COURT ACTS IN PROMPT FASHION

Irishman's Friends, Hoping for Reprieve, Set Out to Assist Him.

London, July 18.—(10:30 a. m.)—Without hearing the attorneys for the crown, the court of criminal appeal today dismissed Sir Roger Casement's appeal from the verdict of the lower courts, which found him guilty of treason, for which Viscount Reading, the lord chief justice, sentenced him to death.

For a day and a half Alexander Sullivan, Sir Roger's counsel, argued before the court, quoting many authorities in favor of his contention that the offense of treason depended upon whether the accused dwelt under the protection of the king and that the crime could not be committed without the realm. He abandoned his other points in regard to the lord chief justice's definition of the offense.

As soon as Mr. Sullivan had concluded his argument the court retired to consider whether the attorneys of the crown would be called upon to reply. It soon decided to the contrary, which indicated that the appeal had gone against Sir Roger, who was present under the argument and when judgment was given.

Further Appeal Possible.

A further appeal to the house of lords is possible only if the attorney general gives a certificate that the decision of the court of criminal appeal involves a point of law so exceptionally important that it is desirable in the public interest that a still higher court should deal with it. This has been done only twice since the court of criminal appeal was established eight years ago.

Justice Darling, in delivering the judgment, expressed the indebtedness of the court to Mr. Sullivan for his well considered and well delivered arguments as the justice characterized them, "as worthy of the king's courts," but declared he had been answered by the attorneys of the crown at the first trial.

Strong Hopes of Reprieve.

Attorney Michal Francis Doyle, of Philadelphia, of counsel for Sir Roger, expressed the opinion today that it was improbable the attorney general would certify the case for appeal to the house of lords as the appeal court did not consider it necessary to hear argument for the government.

Powerful influences are working for a reprieve, said the attorney, and there were strong hopes of one being granted.

Fiume is a city of about 40,000 at the northeastern extremity of the Adriatic sea. It is an important sea port. There have been several earth disturbances recently in the region of the Adriatic, principally in lower Italy and Sicily.

TAXI DRIVER FINED FOR FAST DRIVING

Charles Cooper Will Also Have License Revoked—Police Court News.

Charles Cooper, 48, taxi driver, was fined $50 and costs in the city court Tuesday morning, and his license to pilot a car will be taken from him because he was convicted of running his machine on Broadway while intoxicated, Monday afternoon.

"The two most dangerous things today are a drunken man with a loaded revolver and an intoxicated man with a loaded automobile. Of these the latter is the more dangerous," Judge Kerr told Cooper.

Mrs. Albert Graige, 1649 High street, who were in the jitney, testified that Cooper exceeded the speed limit while coming towards town and that he drove the car from one side of the street to the other. At the Broadway corner he struck an interurban car and they insisted on leaving the jitney. They deemed it unsafe to ride further, they said.

Cooper denied being intoxicated. He said he struck the interurban car to miss an ice wagon. He has lived in Fort Wayne twenty-six years he said.

Speeder Fined.

Walter Bechtol, 20, 1412 West Washington street, who drives an automobile for H. P. Perfect, was fined $35 and costs for exceeding the speed limit on Runnion avenue, Monday afternoon. Near the corner of West Main street he passed the board of works machine. In the car was Frank Singrey, Mayor Hosey and Frank Randall, city engineer.

Their hair stood on end as he whizzed past them, they said. Singrey testified that while they were traveling about fifteen miles an hour and in the same direction that Bechtol was running the Buick roadster, yet their machine would have been wrecked if Bechtol had struck them. Bechtol tried to make the turn at the Main street crossing and ran up on the sidewalk, the men claim. Hosey reported the affair to the police. Bechtol pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding.

Did Not Steel Rabbits.

William Ward, 25, did not steal the ten rabbits which Simon Hanes, 1813 Winter street, missed from his park last week, Judge Keer decided. Ward raised the rabbits which Hanes found in the Ward back yard. Ward has been keeping rabbits for two years, a dozen neighbors testified.

Hanes claimed that he know the rabbits were his because one of them had a mark on its left ear like the mark which one of his missing hares carried. Judge Kerr decided he was mistaken and found Ward not guilty of the petit larceny charge.

Negro Released.

James Holmes, the negro charged with assaulting Charles West, also colored, who was found by the police a week ago in his room on Lafayette street with a long gash across his back, was turned loose because of lack of evidence against him. As soon as West was sufficiently recovered he stole away from the St. Joseph hospital, where he was confined, and disappeared. His whereabouts are unknown.

Holmes admitted cutting West but said it was in self-defense as West struck him with a piece of iron.

Other Police Court Cases.

Ernest Thieme, charged with child neglect will be tried Wednesday morning. Witnesses for the prosecution did not appear Tuesday.

William Roemister, charged with public intoxication will be tried Wednesday. Edward Hamilton, colored, charged with loitering, was released. Bruno Striek, charged with loitering, was allowed to leave town.

YOUTH WHO SHOT AT TRAIN HELD IN JAIL

Condition of Wounded Passengers Will Determine the Final Charge.

Kenneth Galligher, 22, the farmer boy who shot and wounded five passengers riding on the vestibule of the Pennsylvania limited, last Thursday, does not know why he shot at the flying train, he told in police court Tuesday. He is held in jail under $300 bond for trial next Saturday. If any of those wounded by the scattering shots from the gun discharged by Galligher die, he will be charged with manslaughter.

Elmer Reimenshneider, 21, also employed on the Dave Smith farm, near Maples, and who sat by the side of Galligher, thirty yards from the track, said that Galligher gave no warning before he fired the gun at the train.

"Did you say anything to Galligher after the shooting?" the prosecutor asked Reimenshneider.

"'A person ought not to do a thing like that,' I told him."

Both the boys were dressed in faded overalls when they appeared in court Tuesday. Their light hair was disheveled. They are tall and gaunt and show marks of toil from their early youth. Reimenshneider is an orphan who has "worked out" ever since he can remember. Neither of them seem to realize the seriousness of the charge against Galligher.

If convicted, it will mean that the young man is subject to imprisonment for from thirty days to six months and can be fined from $10 to $100 for shooting at a passenger train. Judge Kerr intimates that he will make the sentence reasonably light, although he intends to discourage any practice of shooting at passing trains.

The gun belonged to Reimenshneider. The two boys had been hunting because it was too rainy to work in the hay field.

"I don't know what ever made me shoot at the train. I didn't mean to hurt anybody," Galligher said.

He confessed his guilt to Captain Stoll, of the Pennsylvania railroad detective service as soon as arrested, Stoll said. A farmer living near the scene of the shooting and who saw the boys with the gun crossing a field told the railroad police to hunt up the lads.

The people who were wounded by the scattering shots were injured in the legs and arms. One of them is in Pittsburg, one in Philadelphia and one in New York. Captain Stoll has been unable to learn of the condition of any of the patients during the past two days. He will report to the court Saturday morning. The fine shots pierced the skin in every case, but infection is the only danger.

WIFE'S LETTER CAUSE OF IT

the future held nothing for him but sadness he planned to end it all and purchasing a revolver had gone to the country road and at the midnight hour shot himself twice. His wife had written to him that she no longer cared for him and that she had found another. It was the first intimation that he had had of his wife's infidelity.

Lost His Nerve.

After he had shot himself, Anostosoff realized what he had done. After all life to him seemed brighter and far better than in his despair he had pictured it. So he crawled to the nearest farmhouse, awakened the household, and in an effort to hide his mistake told the story of having been held up.

The name Peter Anostosoff does not appear in the Fort Wayne city directory.

that moment a senate attendant passed the door. The president called to him:

"Young man," said the president, "could you get Senator Kern for me?" The clerk returned with the majority leader from Indiana. They conferred for several minutes after which Senator Martin of Virginia, and Vice President Marshall entered the president's room. The conference concerned the legislative program and the time of adjournment of congress which the democrats have tentatively fixed at August 10.

The president, it is understood, urged that the child labor and workmen's compensation measures be included in the imperative legislative program. He sought to bring about an arrangement that would not delay adjournment, as he wishes to begin the campaign not later than Sept. 1, and notification ceremonies necessarily must be held prior to that time.

Senator Kern, while not revealing the details of the conference, said he thought any change of plans would not mean any postponement of adjournment.

Besieged for Explanation.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance mommittee, joined the postmaster general and Senator stopped at the door to shake hands. Later Mr. Wilson sent for Senators Williams and Hughes. While he waited for them he stepped outside of hi soffice for a few minutes. He was besieged for an explanation of his visit.

"It is simply a matter of program," declared the president. "I wanted to see several of the senators about a legislative program and thought it would be simpler to come here rather than call them to the white house."

Senators asked the leaders what was going on and were informed that the president was interested in the child labor bill and that he was making argument to southern senators who were inclineed to hold the measure back.

The president returned to the white house after an hour of conferences. Senators James, Owen and Hughes were his last three visitors.

and when the police were able to enter the building it was a wreck.

Explanation in Note.

They found an explanation of McIntyre's deed in a note which he left scrawled in lead pencil on a soiled piece of wrapping paper.

"The Almighty God has made me a prophet unto all nations and also my wife, Hattie McIntyre," ran the note. "You shall know that the Lord has sent me to gather unto the Lord the remnant of the Adonic seed."

At this place in the scrawl the negro wrote three capital C's and the initials "P. H."

"The Lord has made me the saviour of all Africans of America and now I shall recommend all that are worthy unto my heavenly father, the great God of all creation. The Lord has given me a spirit to judge the quick and the dead.

"I must die in this land that I may carry my reports unto Almighty God concerning the land of the United States."

In the opinion of the police McIntyre wrote the letter just before becoming violent, although he had opportunity to do so between lulls while the bluecoats, having been repulsed, were under cover.

she said, were posted every month. Checks, she declared, drawn, but not returned from the bank, were recorded by her as missing checks. She said there were times when she placed white slips in her record to take the place of missing checks as she had to post her accounts from the vouchers. She testified that Mr. Scherer always brought the bankbook, with the checks, to her from the Hamilton National bank in order that she could post her office books.

Defense Takes Witness.

The defense took Miss Branning on cross-examination but a short time before the noon court recess. The defense was met with an objection of the state, which was sustained, to its question of whether or not the checks in Mr. Scherer's accounts were not outstanding as checks might be in any business. Judge S. M. Hench, of the state, objected to the cross-examination on the ground that it was speculation.

A question as to the accessibility of the records in the office of the township trustee was held admissible in evidence over the objection of the state. The state witness, Miss Branning, said the books of the trustee were kept in locked quarters.

State Accountant Testifies.

James R. Haefling, a state accountant, was a state witness at the opening of the Scherer trial Tuesday morning. He examined the report of the Wayne township trustee for the year 1915. He testified that Mr. Scherer always referred to withdrawals he made as salary drawn in advance. The witness testified to a total difference of $4,073 in Mr. Scherer's cash book, the one in which monies of the trustee's office were recorded, and his passbook, the one presented to the bank.

Cross-Examine Witness.

On cross-examination the witness said Mr. Scherer kept all the books required by law. Mr. Haefling started work on the Wayne township trustee's report January 22, examining the record for the fiscal year of 1915 ending December 31. He testified of conferences which Scherer held with him and said all sums which Mr. Scherer had drawn over those to which he was entitled had been restored before the grand jury was called. The sum of $100 used in paying labor Mr Scherer used in January, 1916, the evidence showed, and this was restored in February.

Question Over Evidence.

The court admitted evidence showing that Scherer paid 6 per cent interest on the money drawn over the amount to which he was entitled in salary in office. The banks pay 2 per cent. The state then showed that interest on county funds in banks reverted to a tuition fund.

The court sustained an objection of the state to introduction of testimony showing that Scherer at all times had a sufficient bond to save the township any loss. The state held the bond matteer immaterial.

Motion Overruled.

Judge Eichhorn Monday overruled a motion of attorneys for the defense that Scherer's case be postponed until the September term of court. It was alleged the case could not be tried while court was not really in session, Judge Eggeman having adjourned the circuit branch several weeks ago.

The court also overruled motion of Frank A. Emrick, prosecuting attorney, that Scherer be required to produce checks upon which he is alleged to have drawn money from the Hamilton National bank.

Accountant on Stand.

Leonard Schroeder, member of the state board of accounts, testifying Monday, said that in one year Scherer drew more than $6,000, applying it to his own use. The money was paid back, however, and the defense questioned the witness to prove that Scherer was charged 6 per cent interest on the township money borrowed, and that the money was better off in the trustee's hands at that rate of interest than in the bank at a lower rate.

ville)—Heavy attacks last night by the British against Posieres on the Somme front and positions to the east were repulsed as were attacks by the French at Biaches, La Maisonette, Barleux and Soyecourt, according to the official headquarter's statement today.

The complete repulse of Russian attacks in the region west and southwest of Lutsk was announced today by the war office.

South and southeast of Riga the Russian continued their strong offensive, but their assaults broke down before the German trenches had been penetrated.

ADMIT GERMAN GAINS

Paris, July 18.—The Germans made an attack last night on the French line south of the Somme and gained ground in the vicinity of Biaches, the war office announced today.

The German attack was delivered against the French positions from Biaches to La Maisonette. Several attempts to take La Maisonette failed with heavy loss to the Germans, the statement says, but groups of the attacking forces spread along the canal along the east side of Biaches where the fighting continues. A German raid on Hill 304, on the Verdun front west of the Meuse, was broken up by French infantry fire. East of the river there was fighting with grenades, in which the advantage rested with the French. The artillery was active about La Laufee and Chenois.

Praises Troops at Verdun.

In an army order in which he communicated to his troops, a congratulatory address sent them by the French Academy Gen. Robert George Nivelle, commander of the French forces at Verdun, says:

"Thanks to the heroic stand of the army before Verdun the allied offensive already has made brilliant progress—and the Germans are not at Verdun.

"Our work is not finished. No Frenchman has a right to a moment's rest while the enemy remains on the soil of France and Alsace and Lorraine. To enable the allies' offensive to develop freely and culminate in a rapid decisive victory, we will continue to withstand the assaults of our enemies, who notwithstanding the sacrifice of half a million men which Verdun already has cost them, still cling to their main hopes. Not satisfied with resisting soldiers of the second army, you will constantly harass the adversary so as to hold before you by ceaseless menace the greatest possible part of the enemy forces until the approaching hour of the general offensive."

Mrs. M. C. Frysinger, who has been very ill for the past two weeks at her home on South Harrison street, is still unable to be about.

IN THE CHURCHES

CATHOLIC CHURCHES WILL HELP POLAND

Special Offering for Sufferers Will Be Taken Up Next Sunday.

Next Sunday the Catholic churches of the diocese of Fort Wayne will take up a special offering for the sufferers in Poland. Rt. Rev. Bishop Herman Jos. Alerding has issued a call to the people of the churches to respond most liberally. The following is the letter of the bishop:

"From many sources we have learnt how the terrible war, convulsing Europe, leaves in its trail sufferings so great that we shudder to think of them. Of all the countries of Europe Poland is probably suffering most. Poland lies prostrate. Again and again opposing armies have passed and repassed over this unfortunate country, have made of it a desert, have covered it with ruin. Old men and old women, widows, fatherless children, cripples are all that is left of the once happy population. They are the innocent sufferers, actually in need of the very necessaries to sustain life. They are without food, without clothing, without shelter. And—let us not forget—Catholic Poland is of the 'household of faith.' The dire distress of this people, receiving but scant attention in this hour of need, should, it must, stir our charity to action. I request you, dear reverend father, to lay this most pressing case before your devoted people, setting a side a Sunday most convenient to you for a special collection, to be sent to me not later than August 1st. The apostolic delegate will be requested to transmit the same to the holy father for suffering Poland."

HINSHAW IN HINT OF PARTY NAME CHANGE

Prohi "Get Together" Meeting Held in Advance of Convention.

St. Paul, July 18.—Hints of a change in the name of the prohibition party, which opens its national convention here tomorrow were contained in the address by which Virgil G. Hinshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee, today called to order a "get together" meeting. He said in part:

"Eighteen months ago a call was issued from prohibition national headquarters which read, in part:

"'We, the undersigned, hereby issue a call to bring all voters and citizens of America together into one national conference, who believe in a political party committed by state and national platform declarations to the complete overthrow of the liquor traffic.'

"This call was signed by one hundred persons, including some of the foremost citizens of the land. It was signed by Ben B. Lindsey, the famous juvenile judge; by ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss, three times governor of the Massachusetts commonwealth; by Governor Arthur Capper, of Kansas; by ex-Governor Wm. Sulzer, of New York; by Thomas Wilson, ex-consul to Hawaii and Brazil; by John H. Light, four years attorney general of Connecticut; by Ira Landrith, president of the World's Y. M. C. A. convention; by Wm. Shaw, general secretary of the World's Christian Endeavor; by J. W. Bryan, congressman from Washington, and Charles H. Randall, congressman from southern California.

"The purpose of the call was to bring into one political organization all voters who believe in the national prohibition of the liquor traffic.

"During the past four years there has been carried on a supreme effort to obtain the enlistment of five million voters who sought either in person or by representation the adoption of a prohibition plank.

"There is but one party that stands committed by both state and national platform declaration to the prohibition of the liquor traffic. That party is the prohibition party. Hence there seems but two alternatives for the hundreds of thousands who have come to us, either to support the prohibition party or engage in the formation of a new party.

"And it is for this conference to decide what it will do. There are thousands who believe that the name 'Prohibition' has become so popular in sound that any other name would not be so good. There are still others, who believe that some other name could be chosen that might more nearly represent the multitudes who this year will join hands with us.

"The matter of a mere name, however, is insignificant. It is important though that we extend the hand of invitation to the millions of American voters who this year refuse to bow the knee to the Baal of political unrighteousness, that we shape a definite policy, a definite program, and that we look to an organization the character of whose platform is in harmony with the five million movement."

At the last survey there were 417 ocean cables in the world, representing 235,492 miles.

BRITISH STEAMSHIP FINALLY FILES BOND

Chinese Prince Sails from Manila After Covering Fine Imposed.

Manila, July 18—The British steamship Chinese Prince has finally filed a bond and sailed today. The amount of the bond, $25,000, covers the fine of 50,000 pesos which the collector of customs here imposed when it was discovered that 2,000 packages were missing from her cargo on her arrival in Manila from New York via Penang. These packages had been confiscated by the British authorities at Penang because some of the consignees had, it was reported, been blacklisted by the British. After the vessel's departure today court proceedings were begun in connection with an appeal made by her agents against the payment of the fine. The Spanish vessel Eizaguirre, which reported upon arrival at Iliilo on Sunday that the British authorities at Singapore had taken off 500 packages of cargo bound for Manila, reached here today. Her officers report that they filed a protest with the Spanish consul at Singapore who in turn communicated this protest to the American consul and that the latter declared he was unauthorized to accept the protest.

The Eizaguirre's captain reports also that the British seized 104 sacks of Manila mail, returning them to the vessel after eight hours. The local port authorities are unable to state at this time whether any packages were confiscated from the sacks.

This is the first report of Manila mail being tampered with on a through voyage, although at Hong Kong mail to and from Manila has repeatedly been seized when transhipped there.

Later it developed that the Eizaguirre's mail was opened and censored. Some of the registered parcels are missing.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three different kinds of baking powder on the market, as follows:

(1) Cream of Tartar Baking Powders, which add to food the same healthful qualities that exist in ripe grapes, from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Phosphate Baking Powders, which are made from a mineral known as Phosphate Rock, or from animal bones which are burned and changed by chemical action into white, powdered phosphate.

(3) Alum Baking Powders, which add to food some compound of Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

Royal Baking Powder is made from Cream of Tartar, derived from grapes, a natural, healthful food. No substitute exists for making biscuits, cake, muffins, and pastry of equal quality and wholesomeness.

WOOD WASTE EXCHANGE NOW VERY WIDELY USED

Forest Service Idea Has Developed Into Much Usefulness.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Extensive use by lumbermen and woodworking factories of the wood waste exchange conducted by the forest service is reported by officials who have just completed a short field study to determine the extent to which the opportunities offered are being taken advantage of. Only a small per cent of the total number of concerns listed were visited, but a comparatively large number were found to have benefited by the exchange.

Makers of wooden novelties, it is said, have been particularly successful in finding supplies of material near their plants. Other wood-working industries have been able to dispose of their waste at higher prices than they could otherwise have obtained. Many of the firms were located within short distances of each other, but until recently have had no way of getting together.

The wood waste exchange was established by the forest service in 1914. It consists of two lists of manufacturers, which are sent out quarterly to persons desiring them. One of these is of "Opportunities to Sell Waste" and contains the names of firms which use sawdust and small pieces of wood. This list is sent to plants having waste for sale. The other is of "Opportunities to Buy Waste" and gives the names of concerns which have waste to dispose of. This list is sent to firms who wish to buy material.

There is no charge for the service and any manufacturer who wishes to have his name added to either list can do so by writing to the Forest Service, Washington, D. C. A list of waste problems which the exchange has proved an effective means of meeting can also be obtained by anyone who cares to ask for it.

CALLS FOR HELP BUT HELP CAME TOO LATE

Colored Boy Drowns in Spy Run Creek Before Many Spectators.

Four times Sylvester Ahouse, colored, 21 years old, went down in the waters of the Spy Run creek dam near the municipal lighting plant, Monday night, before he stayed.

The first two times he called pleadingly for help, but by the time help could reach him he had gone down for the last time. The first time he called his cry was misunderstood. The group of boys sitting on the banks thought he was joking. The second time, however, the young man's plight was realized, but by the time help could reach him he was out of sight.

Ahouse was not an experienced swimmer. He did not know the depth of the water and in the darkness he could form no idea. He had been in but a few minutes when his strength gave way. Instead of trying to get back to the shore from where he had jumped in he swam to the middle of the stream and where the water is deepest.

The terrorized spectators gave the alarm and the police was immediately called. Captain Kelly, with a squad of officers in one boat and Lee Shirk and Louis Didier in another boat, dragged the creek with grappling hooks for three hours before the body was finally recovered. It was removed to Peltier's undertaking parlors at the direction of Coroner J. E. McArdle.

Ahouse roomed with Mrs. Martha Morning, 216 North Calhoun street. His home is said to have been in Tennessee and had been here since last fall. The young man was to have taken a job at the Electric works Tuesday morning. He has a father living in Champague, Ill., and a brother in St. Louis.

WOMAN WRITER TELLS OF WAR ON EPIDEMIC

Betty Graeme "Rides the Ambulance" to Secure Inside Facts.

(Betty Graeme was the first woman to "ride the ambulance" in New York in the great fight being made there against infantile paralysis. As a nurse, as well as writer, she attended cases from the time babies were taken from tenements until they reached the hospital. She tells here the real inside story of a great city's battle to halt the march of death.—EDITOR.)

(By Betty Graeme.)

New York, July 18.—"Are you on this call?"

The words were directed at me by a young interne and were the first spoken to me after I secured permission to "ride the ambulance" in the tragic fight being made in New York against infantile paralysis, the dread disease that is reaping a death harvest of one baby an hour.

To the interne I was, in my nurse garb, merely one of many nurses working in this great campaign against death.

"Have you got your blankets, nightgowns, pins? There will be five this trip."

There is an excitement about clinging to the back of an ambulance as you whiz around corners, everything giving way before you, which was intensified when the doctor said:

"There will probably be a scrap or two. Are you afraid?"

I said I thought I was but that it wouldn't prevent me going ahead with the job; that I would not faint, or scream. I did not tell him it was my first trip to the east side.

"Well, you know they are pretty excitable, these foreigners, and they object to giving up the children, so we have to take them by force. If there's any trouble we'll get a policeman. Somebody will get a knife before we get through."

I began to wish I had never come here to play.

We stopped at a grimy tenement on Henry street and immediately a crowd swarmed around us like flies at a picnic. Down a dark, narrow passage, up dirty stairs, flight after flight, the doctor, knocking at every door, making inquiries. But no one had ever heard of Mikel. For they are all banded together by ties of race or fear and none will give information. We finally located the room. The child was gone.

This is one reason for the spread of the disease. The victim is passed from family to family to escape quarantine. To these people contageon is not even a name. The plague is but an indication of the wrath of Jehovah. Often it is impossible to persuade them that the child is affected. They will explain with many gestures that it is only because "Ikey has a fraid on you," that he is unable to move one side of his face or unable to stand upon his pathetic little legs.

The next call was in the Italian quarter on Delancey street and they were prepared. The father blocked the door and when, with a quick thrust of the arm, the muscular young interne caught the man and pushed him out of the way, we were met by a flanking squad of male relatives.

Two policemen brushed me aside and bore down upon the fray, leaving the doctor free to examine the child. Wild howls of rage and anguish rose from the throats of the mother, grandmother, sisters, cousins and aunts. It was bedlam broke loose. Chairs were splintered, heads were bruised. I saw a big burley fellow hit a bluecoat on the jaw and the officer drew a gun.

For a second it looked like bloodshed and I felt my heart skip a beat. With the wild shrieks of the women, the curses of the men ringing in my ears, it is a wonder I heard the doctor say, as he grabbed the child and made a break for the door: "Let's beat it." Besides, I wanted to see how the fight came out.

By this time the women were pulling at me and screaming in my face so I turned and fled down the steps. The driver, hearing the rumpus, had the engine going and the car was under way as we tumbled in.

"What is the first name of this Zarra child?" asked one of the hospital attendants, who was writing their names on adhesive tape and labeling the children.

"I don't know," said the doctor, "we didn't stay for the christening."

At the home of a Syrian named Isaacs on Furman-st, Brooklyn, there was a terrible scene. Mother and father fought like tigers for the child.

The father succeeded in snatching it in his arms and, dashing up the fire escape to the fifth floor, threatened to jump if approached. When he was finally overcome and the child taken from him, he threw himself limply over the railing and screamed curses after the retreating ambulance.

The saddest cases are the nursing babies. At a time when the tie between mother and child is particularly strong, to part them is like severing the woman's right hand from her body.

"Oh, please, may I not go too?" they beg in low tense voices. "De baby, he is so little and he has a fraid on strangers. I would do anything. Oh, please, let me go."

Here as elsewhere, the presence of the nurse brought a certain solace. The mother heart felt that a woman would understand and be kind.

"Oh, nurse, be good to my baby," they implore, "my precious baby. He has never been away from me one minute. Promise me you will treat him kind and bring him back to me?"

As the nurse wraps the blanket tenderly about the little form that had been stripped and tucked into a hospital slip, the mother buries her face in the little garments and breaks into wild weeping.

"How do you stand it?" asked a big policeman when, instead of the anticipated fight, the removal had been of a particularly heart breaking nature.

"I don't!" I replied, battling to keep back the tears. But when I thought how much greater the baby's chances were at the big, airy hospital with clean beds and wonderful care, specialists and all that science has to offer, than this loving but ignorant mother in her squalid surroundings could ever give, I was glad the little one could have that chance.

Complexion Fresh As a Daisy--Not a Wrinkle in sight—Remarkable discovery of skin osmosis quickly enables women with sunken cheeks, wrinkles and marks of age again to become most beautiful, youthful and charming.

By Mlle. Mareix, France's Great Prize Beauty.

It's wonderful to look beautiful and youthful. The Countess de Chevanne, who at seventy years of age possesses a marvelously soft, smooth, velvet-like skin and an almost girl-like complexion without a wrinkle in sight, told the writer personally in Paris that she owed it all to the discovery of skin osmosis. With this marvelous discovery every complexion blemish can be banished in three nights in many instances and you can awaken in the morning with a beautiful natural rose colored complexion fresh as a daisy.

I have known dozens of hollow-cheeked, wrinkled, aged-looking women, who had given up all hope of ever looking beautiful and youthful again, to "Come back" and again become most beautiful, youthful and fascinating in from two to three weeks' time by this wonderful simple method.

No matter what your age or what you have tried unsuccessfully, skin osmosis will positively bring you new beauty and youth. Merely wash your face in warm water at night and rub in a teaspoonful or two of any good pure roseated cream which you can obtain from your druggist. In the morning wash the face with cold water and rub in more cream.

In three weeks or less watch the magic transformation. See how the old, hardened, coarse, rough skin turns into new, fresh, soft, youthful looking skin almost before your very eyes, all due to simple skin osmosis produced solely by warm water and roseated cream, but be sure to use only pure roseated cream, as it is an entirely different thing from ordinary face creams and must not be confounded with them. I personally prefer Creme Tokalon (Roseated), but any good brand will do. If you have wrinkles get a box of Japanese Ice Pencils and use them in connection with the cream and you get quick action on the deepest wrinkles, no matter of how long standing, in one night's time and awaken on the morrow to witness most astonishing results.

I personally guarantee success in every case, in any of my newspaper articles which I write on subjects relating to beauty, or I will refund the amount paid for any products which I recommend, provided you take your dealer's receipt at the time you make your purchase. My American address is Simone Marlex, 20 West 22nd street, New York.

NOTE:—The manufacturers of Creme Tokalon Roseated have such unbounded confidence in their particular brand, that they offer to forfeit $200.00 to any charitable institution, if it can be shown that it will not banish every complexion blemish and give most astonishing new beauty to wrinkled, care-worn, aged women in three days time in many instances. It can be obtained absolutely fresh and guaranteed pure from Meyer Bros. Co., ro most any good druggist in this city. —Advertisement.

Farsighted Policy in Harrison Hill Platting

Harrison Hill, the modernly platted addition located on Calhoun street, directly south of Rudisill boulevard, contains sixty-six acres of ground, which under the old style policy of securing as many lots as possible could have easily been cut up into three hundred and ninety-six lots, but under the modern system adopted by the promoters of this tract it now contains only two hundred and thirty-three. Ground of sufficient size to make one hundred and sixty-three lots has gone to make those desirable adjuncts to the modern city neighborhood. These includes parks, playgrounds, wide streets, and larger grass plots, and most people are amazed to learn that even with all these advantages the lots in this addition are selling at a price of $22 per front foot, including all improvements. Further details regarding Harrison Hill may be obtained from the promoters, Hilgeman & Schaaf, located in the North American building.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Acts 18:12-22.

12. And when Gallio was the deputy of Achaia, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment seat,
13. Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.
14. And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong or wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, reason would that I should bear with you:
15. But if it be a question of words and names, and of your law, look ye to it; for I will be no judge of such matters.
16. And he drave them from the judgment seat.
17. Then all the Greeks took Sosthenes, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat. And Gallio cared for none of those things.
18. And Paul after this tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the brethren, and sailed thence into Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila; having shorn his head in Cenchrea: for he had a vow.
19. And he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he himself entered into the synagogue, and reasoned with the Jews.
20. When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not;
21. But bade them farewell, saying, I must by all means keep this feast that cometh in Jerusalem: but I will return again unto you, if God will. And he sailed from Ephesus.
22. And when he had landed at Cesarea, and gone up, and saluted the church, he went down to Antioch.

The Delinquent and His Family.

"A man who makes $14 a week and has a wife and child to support hasn't a penny for the cash register of the saloon-keeper on the corner," is the terse fashion in which the hardpan fact was set forth by Judge Frank J. Lahr, of the Indianapolis juvenile court, in assessing a fine with a workhouse sentence upon a delinquent father arraigned before him for neglecting his wife and six-year-old son. Then, in order to test the value of his admonition in this particular case, Judge Lahr suspended the sentence so long as the convicted man keeps away from saloons and provides for his family. Judge Lahr did not raise the moral question involved. He was dealing alone with the economic side of the issue, and he volunteered, if the prisoner desired it, to suggest to him many better things than alcohol to buy with his money, but it is not of record that the man before him was seeking information of this character. At least he did not ask for specifications.

In connection with the case in point the court took occasion, also, to express the conviction that "a man's duty to his family does not terminate when he has supplied the barest necessities of life." The parallel of this Indianapolis case is to be found again and again in every court which is called upon to deal with parental delinquency. Despite the fact that his family barely escapes sheer want, there is the type of man who by some fallacious sort of reasoning argues that as the bread-winner he is entitled to some sort of relaxation or indulgence which his family may not share and that his taste must be gratified even at the cost of want and denial on the part of the wife and little ones. Singularly enough, too, this indulgence is rarely wholesome but almost invariably harmful to the individual as well as working its hardship to those dependent upon him. Pleasures and relaxations are important. All need them and should have them to counter-balance the strain and the hum-drum of unchanging toil, but they should be wholesome relaxations that the family may enjoy with the father. Judge Lahr is right. Too many delinquents and near-delinquents hold that duty to the family ends with the providing of food and clothing and rent. It doesn't. We shall have fewer cases of delinquency in court and much more happiness outside it when they get hold of this fact.

October 9 will be voters' registration day in Indiana this year, but there will be only one session of the registration board in each precinct in the state, instead of two periods as was the case two years ago. Voters who were registered in 1914 and who still live in the same precincts in which they were registered at that time will not be required to register again this year, but any voter who has moved since the 1914 election or who lives in a different precinct from the one in which he voted at that time will not be eligible to vote this year unless he registers October 9 in the precinct in which he now lives.

Telegrams from Col. Leslie R. Naftzger, commanding the First Indiana regiment on the Mexican border, say the Indiana troops are in excellent shape and are much better equipped than many other regiments arriving along the Rio Grande. As a matter of fact, Governor Ralston, Adjutant General Bridges and the Indiana officers generally labored assiduously before the departure of the soldiers from Fort Benjamin Harrison to see that every provision possible was made for them, both as to comfort and equipment. It is evident these efforts have shown results.

The house has passed the Rucker corrupt practices bill, which limits the campaign expenditures of a candidate for president to $50,000, while a candidate for vice president must not spend more than $25,000, a candidate for senatorial place but $5,000 and aspirants for representative in congress but $2,500. If candidates conclude they can evade the law against illegal combination in restraint of trade, they may do even better than that. They can get together and resolve to pay nothing at all. It might have the effect of killing off a lot of the demonsrative campaign enthusiasm, but what remained would undoubtedly be all wool and a yard wide.

That enforcement of the proposed jitney bus regulation by special inspectors who are to be paid from a fund raised by an annual license fee assessed against the jitney business will be helpful in controlling the traffic and reducing the accident liability to a minimum can scarcely be doubted, but it still leaves the individual outside of the jitney business to carry his own risk when it fails to exact a liability bond which would give recourse in case of casualty in which the blame of the driver was established. The Sentinel still believes the bonding requirement a real essential in the regulation of the jitney traffic.

And among the mysteriously missing these days is the confident individual who recently assured us we weren't going to have any summer this year, anyway.

A RAILROAD SEPARATION.

(Indianapolis News.)

The voluntary separation of the New York Central and the Nickel Plate is an incident of considerable importance to finance and transportation. Comparatively little is known of the transaction, although explanatory statements have been issued by the new owners of the Nickel Plate. From these it appears that the road, which for the last thirty or thirty-five years has been a part of the New York Central system, is hence forth to be operated as an independent, competing with other lines for the increasing business between the middle west and the Atlantic seaboard. The price paid was not made public, but as the New York Central, through the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, owned between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000 worth of Nickel Plate stock—a controlling interest—it may be assumed that this amount figured in the recent transaction.

The Nickel Plate is more properly known as the New York, Chicago & St. Louis. It owns its line from Buffalo to the Illinois state boundary. Crossing Indiana as it does in almost a direct line east and west, the Nickel Plate affords a valued means of communication in the northern part of this state. Years ago, when it was first operated, it appeared to have a profitable future. But, like certain other pioneer roads, which were unable to hold their own in the pressure of monopoly, the Nickel Plate lost ground, and even after it came under the more or less benevolent management of the New York Central it was unable to regain a position of prosperity. It is this fact which makes the sale of more interest. The new holders are Cleveland and New York capitalists. They insist that the road was not bought as a brokerage venture, but simply as an investment. The intention is to equip the road properly, to link it with trolley lines for freight "feeding," to enter into traffic agreements with both western and Atlantic coast lines, and greatly to increase the terminal facilities.

The New York Central has followed a policy of absorbing other carriers, wherever possible. It is said that if the Nickel Plate has not paid during the last few years as it should have, the line itself is not responsible. During rush periods the Nickel Plate handled much of the Chicago-Buffalo business of the New York Central system. In slack times it had to take such business as was offered it. Such an arrangement is uneconomic. It seems to have been unsatisfactory even to the New York Central. If the new owners of the Nickel Plate adhere to the policy announced, a large number of small cities and towns in Indiana are assured of much better transportation.

Much of Persia is now entirely dependent upon Russia for its foreign goods.

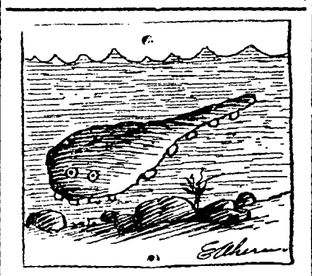
AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL?

Unnatural History, by Eugene Ahern.

THE ICHTHYOBDELLA PUNCTATA

Commonly known as the leech. We just use the tongue twisting title to make the study look like real stuff, and as though we know what we're talking about.

The leech is the hobo of the H-2-O,



but his relative on the flivver pasture is the medal-taker. P'haps you know one, George.

I think I do Ignatius. Isn't he the card that's always hanging aroun' a guy when he has some dough.

You're right, Stanislaus, gosh! the kid's getting clever.

The leech sticks around till you've loosened up all your change, part of it on him, then he hotfoots away to work the gag on someone else.

There are other popular leeches besides this one. There's the one that's always hanging around someone that has an automobile. You can't even go in the garage to wash the car unless the leech comes sliding around thinking you're going out for a ride. But the auto leech never offers to buy the gasoline.

Then there's still another one—the leech that's always talking big dough and is always sponging the "makings."

Following the chanting of the office of the dead at 9:30 o'clock solemn requiem high mass, coram Episcopo, was celebrated. Rt. Rev. Mgr. John H. Oechtering, V. G., rector of St. Mary's church, Fort Wayne, was celebrant of the mass; Rev. Joseph F. Delaney, rector of St. Patrick's and Rev. H. F. Jos. Kroll, pastor of St. Paul's, Fort Wayne, deacons to the Rt. Rev. Bishop; Rev. Joachim Ryder, Michigan City, deacon of the mass; Rev. George Moorman, Huntington, subdeacon; Rev. William C. Miller, secretary to Bishop Alerding, master of ceremonies; Rev. Otto Peters, Huntington, assistant master of ceremonies; Rev. Charles H. Thiele, rector of St. Peter's, Fort Wayne, chanter; Rev. John F. Noll, pastor of St. Mary's church, Huntington, and editor of Our Sunday visitor, delivered the eulogy.

COUSIN AT HUNTINGTON.

Huntington, Ind., July 18.—On reading of the appointment by President Wilson of John Hessin Clarke, United States district judge at Cleveland, Ohio, as successor to Charles E. Hughes as an associate justice of the United States supreme court, William H. Hessin, of this city, learned of one of the latest successes that has come to his first cousin and boyhood friend. William H. Hessin, who lives on the Flax Mill road, north of this city, was born in Lisbon, Ohio, where James Hessin Clarke, the new associate justice of the supreme court was born. Mr. Hessin's father and Mr. Clarke's mother were brother and sister and though the Huntington man is thirteen years older than his cousin, he knew him well. The two families at one time lived in the same block at Lisbon, Ohio.

INSPECT I. O. O. F. HOME.

Hartford City, Ind., July 18.—Deputy State Building Inspector Monroe has investigated the condition of the I. O. O. F. building in this city at the request of the lodge and it is expected that his report will be that the structure is in good condition. For some time it has been declared by some that the building was not safe. According to the inspector's report, however, this is not so. Recently the lodge made repairs on the building to prevent it from becoming in a dangerous condition at any future time. The coping at the top of the front was repaired. The structure is the largest and most expensive lodge home in the city.

RESCUES YOUNG WOMAN.

Warsaw, Ind., July 18.—Albert Hand, a driver for the Kutz coal company, proved himself a hero Sunday evening when he rescued a young lady, reported to be Miss Mildred Gardener, from drowning in Pike lake. The young woman with a party of friends was bathing near the ice houses and in following a boat rowed by one of the party, got into deep water and sank from sight. Mr. Hand was in a boat nearby, but was not aware of the girl's danger until she was going down for the second time, when he hurried to her rescue. But for his assistance she undoubtedly would have drowned, the water being about fifteen feet deep. However, she soon recovered from her experience.

SAVED FROM DROWNING.

Bluffton, Ind., July 18.—John Whittacker, whose home is on Wabash avenue, was overcome by exhaustion Saturday evening while swimming in the pool at the east end of Wabash street, and had a narrow escape from drowning. He and some companions were near the center of the quarry when he was overcome. He sank once, got a mouth full of water, and lost his head. He was struggling frantically and had gone down the second time when Charles VanDine and Pearl Bollinger, who were swimming in the northern end of the pool, reached him and sustained him while they made their way to the bank.

WILL NOMINATE HANLY.

Portland, Ind., July 18.—Summer W. Haynes, accompanied by Mrs. Haynes, left here yesterday forenoon for St. Paul to attend the national convention of the prohibition party. The Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Hurlbret, the former the Eighth district candidate for congress, will attend the convention also from Portland. Mr. Haynes is mentioned as a candidate for president and more than one hundred delegates are pledged to his support. However, he is expected to personally present the name of J. Frank Hanly, ex-governor of Indiana, for the honor.

DR. YINGLING DEAD.

Huntington, Ind., July 18.—Dr. Daniel Yingling, one of Huntington's leading physicians and most public spirited men, died Monday afternoon. Dr. Yingling's death was the result of four years of suffering with heart trouble.

Dr. Yingling had been ill at his home since last December when he fell and broke his hip. The injuries, though serious, did not cause Dr. Yingling to give up his practice, and so devoted was he to his work that in spite of his weakened condition, he made plans for the erection of an office at the rear of his home on Warren street.

FARM HAND HELPS HIMSELF.

Portland, Ind., July 18.—Frank Stolzenbeck, claiming his home at Toledo, Ohio, who had worked one week at the farm home of Finley Meyers, in Greene township, left there Sunday afternoon late, taking with him $41.18 in cash which he had stolen along with two gold watches and chains. He came to this city in the Meyers rig and after securing the horse to a hitch rack near the court house, boarded an east bound L. E. & W. freight train, but was arrested before the train pulled out by Policeman Ed Wingate, the latter being accompanied by Henry Miley.

ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE.

Auburn, Ind., July 18.—John Smith, of Garrett, who has been working at times for the B. & O. railroad and also buying junk, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Baltz on Saturday afternoon on a warrant charging him with the crime of rape. The information was sworn out on July 5, 1916, by B. F. DePew, of Auburn, in which the defendant is charged with having carnal knowledge of May DePew, a feeble-minded girl on or about December 1, 1915, the said May DePew not being his wife.

WILL TEACH IN JAPAN.

Delphos, O., July 18.—Paul Grafton, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Grafton, of West Third street, has written to his parents that he has signed a contract to teach in the government schools in Tokio, Japan. While he will be under the direction of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. his salary which will commence immediately upon his arrival in Tokio, will be paid by the Japanese government. Mr. Grafton did not state in his letter just what branches he will have in the Tokio schools. He is under contract for two years and will not return to the States under that time.

STROKE OF PARALYSIS.

Warsaw, Ind., July 18.—Samuel Anson, of East Center street, suffered a second stroke of paralysis on Saturday evening and for a time his condition was very serious. He is slightly improved today. Mr. Anson was just recovering from the effects of a similar stroke which he sustained some weeks ago at the Methodist church. He was just able to be around with the aid of a wheel chair, when the second stroke was sustained.

PARK BOARD USES SAFETY FIRST PLAN

Stakes and Ropes Will Show Water Depth on "Beach" at Foster Park.

No man-eating sharks have made their appearance in the St. Mary's river as yet and swimming is growing more and more popular in pools along the winding stream. The park board, in session Monday afternoon, took reckoning of the fact that the "beach" in Foster park is assuming cosmopolitan importance as a bathing center.

The natural swimming pool in the park is to be marked off to form a safe place for young and old to enter. Stakes will be driven at points in the stream to tell the exact depth of the water at that point. Ropes will be stretched to show where the safety zone ends.

Will Mark Governor's Grave.

The rough stone slab lying in McCulloch's park, just northeast of the park fountain, is to be engraved to show that it marks the last resting place of Samuel Bigger, seventh governor of Indiana. His name and date of birth and death will be inscribed on the stone, the park board decided, although a movement to have the state erect an elaborate monument there will be encouraged by the board.

Bigger was governor of Indiana from 1840 to 1843. He returned to his Fort Wayne home after retirement from office and was buried in the town cemetery, which covered a part of the plat now used for McCulloch's park. All monuments were removed from the grounds when the cemetery was turned into a park but a large stone slab was placed over Bigger's former grave.

A resolution was adopted for the construction of a toolhouse and comfort station at Reservoir park.

The plat of Noll's addition, which will mean the rearrangement of lots along Thieme drive, was approved.

Contracts were awarded to Grosjean & Roemer for the construction of sidewalks on both sides of Anthony boulevard from Pontiac street to Rudisill boulevard, and for walks, curb and gutter on both sides of Rudisill boulevard from Piqua avenue to Hanna street.

William Beyerlein will be appointed as special policeman to serve in city parks on band concert nights. His salary will be paid by the park board department.

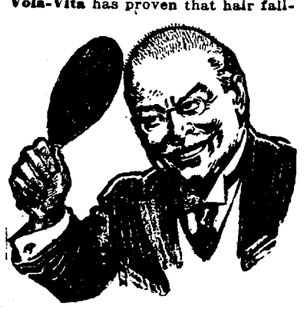
Bald-Heads This Will Grow Hair

"Vola-Vita," One of the Greatest Scientific Hair Discoveries Ever Known.

The most important discovery ever made on hair is Vola-Vita. It has been proven by actual results. It will prove it in your case, too. Vola-Vita has proven that hair falling, grayness and dandruff nearly always result when one or more of the principal elements of hair are missing. Hair has now been analyzed and its elements known. When these missing elements are restored, all hair and scalp troubles vanish and hair is compelled to grow luxuriantly.



This is why Vola-Vita has done many remarkable things to hair and scalp. It positively restores the missing elements. That's why it forces hair to grow luxuriantly on heads shiny bald for years. It stops dandruff and itching positively. Hair stops falling because it increases wonderfully in vitality.

Vola-Vita scientifically restores the vigor of the color glands. That's why it absolutely restores the original color to gray, faded or bleached hair, no matter what that original color was. It is not a dye. It contains no alcohol to dry up the hair secretions and ruin hair vigor. Use it and that'll prove it. Start now. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"Vola-Vita" is sold at all drug stores in 50c and $1.00 bottles, or sent direct by Vola-Vita Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. The $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size.

Vola-Vita is sold in Fort Wayne by Peoples Drug Store, Miss Emanuel, T. C. Bohn, Dreier Drug Company, Meyer Bros. Company, B. R. Noll, D. & N. Pharmacy, Woodworth's Drug Store, C. O. Saves Eyes By Day and Lives By Night

Blinding automobile headlights have again been taking their toll in deadly and costly accidents. Four accidents were reported last week that might have been avoided by wearing Meigs' two-tone Day and Night goggles. These glasses have a very dark piece at the top so that a slight tip of the head enables one to see in the blinding light. For day driving this dark top acts as a shade for the eyes while the restful tint of the lower part kills the glare of the road. These and more other styles than can be mentioned will be cheerfully shown you at the Meigs Optical Shop, 1012 Calhoun street.

It was a large affair, as one hundred and twenty-five invitations were issued, and the many small tables used in service were very attractive with floral decorations in pastel shades. CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

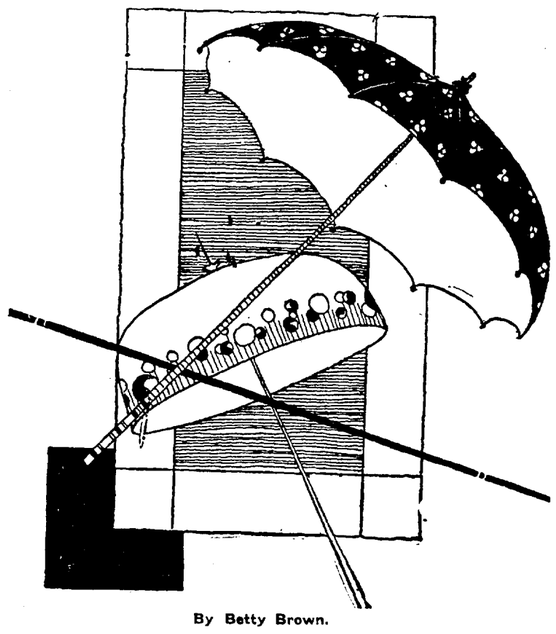
MR. JAMES OGDEN.

MRS. JAMES OGDEN.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ogden, of 1711 East Pontiac street, arrived at the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Monday and due observance of such an event was made by their children and other relatives, as well as by local G. A. R. men and their families and other local friends. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden, all of whom were present, are: Marion Ogden, of Stanley, N. D.; George, of Louisville, Ky., and Earl, of Fort Wayne. The three daughters, also widely scattered, are Mrs. Lena Baumgartner, of North Vernon, Ind.; Mrs. Elnora Sherlock, Guyman, Okla., and Mrs. May DeWitt, of Fort Wayne.

A brother to Mr. Ogden, David Ogden, of Camden, Ohio, who was best man at the wedding, came to the golden wedding festivities. He is also a Grand Army man, having served in the Thirty-fifth Ohio regiment. The sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden came with valuable gifts appropriate for the occasion, a gold-headed cane for Mr. Ogden and fifty dollars in gold for the mother. Mr. and Mrs. Ogden are natives of Ohio and they lived in Hamilton county following the close of the war. A few years afterwards they moved to Henry county, this state, where Mr. Ogden practiced his trade of blacksmithing for ten years. Later he moved to a farm near Decatur and remained there for eighteen years, then moved to Bluffton for six years and following that came to Fort Wayne, where he has lived for thirteen years. Mr. Ogden was one of the fortunate men of the civil war, one who was in practically all of the important battles, who was wounded a number of times yet recovered each time only to go back into the battlefield again and remain until the close of the war. Mr. Ogden enlisted in company D, Twentieth Ohio regiment and at the expiration of his term of enlistment Mr. Ogden came home, but at once became a private in company K, Ninety-third Ohio volunteer infantry. He was also detailed as an orderly and dispatch bearer in the western armies under Generals Thomas and Sherman. Mr. Ogden is an honored member of Union Veteran legion, No. 51. The Ogden home was trimmed with flags on Monday and the celebration and refreshments were served during the evening, while the family enjoyed a reunion and a dinner. A big cake was baked for the occasion, decked in yellow trimmings and served during the day.

CANE GONE; IN COMES CANE PARASOL.



By Betty Brown.

If you have a cane—don't carry it! Hang it in the closet beside last year's frock—it's just as much out of date. No proper lady in London or New York carries a cane any more. She twirls a stick however, but it is a parasol stick, a saucy thing of jet, long and slender. The canopy may be scarlet or green or blue, though many of the new sun shades are in the delicate pastel shades with applied trimming of silk in colors. Notice the length of the sticks, and the form of the "shades" in the cane-parasols I've pictured here—so high a fashion authority as Fashion-Art says these are correct.

GOOD AND TIMELY RECIPES YOU MAY WANT TO TRY.

Right now is raspberry, currant and gooseberry season to say nothing of watermelons, cheaper than usual. These are not difficult fruits to put up and who doesn't like raspberries or a gooseberry jam or a currant conserve along with his roast in the winter time? Try the following and see how pleased you'll be:

Red Raspberries.

Wash and pick over 12 quarts finest red raspberries. Heat two quarts of fruit in stone crock and crush with a wooden vegetable masher. Squeeze juice from seeds in a square of clean cheesecloth.

Turn juice into preserving kettle and mix with 2 1-2 quarts sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved, bring to boiling point, then add remaining 10 quarts of raspberries. Boil 10 minutes, skim well, turn into sterilized cans and seal in usual manner.

Gooseberry and Red Currant Jam.

To each four pounds gooseberries allow three pounds sugar and two cups red currant juice.

Make a syrup of sugar and currant juice, add berries and simmer slowly 40 minutes, or until the gooseberries are translucent. Seal in small jars.

Gooseberries and strawberries in equal parts, or gooseberries and red raspberries, or gooseberries and white currants make novel and delicious combinations.

Watermelon Honey.

Cut out red pulp from one or more watermelons. Crush and simmer till soft, then strain, thus removing seeds, and simmer until thick.

Three quarts of pulp will make one-fifth pint of "honey."

Cool honey and bottle like grape juice. The honey is best without sugar, but a large quantity can be made from the same amount of pulp if a little lemon juice and sugar are added.

Watermelon Preserves.

Select a plump, firm melon, cut it in half, remove all the red center and pare off green rind, cut white part into two-inch pieces and soak 10 hours in weak alum water—an even tablespoonful of alum to three quarts cold water.

Drain from alum water and boil melon in clear water until fork pierces easily.

Make a syrup, allowing 1 1-2 pounds sugar and 1 cup water for each pound of melon; dissolve sugar slowly over very slow fire; when all dissolved skim syrup and add juice of one-half lemon and small piece of rind. Add melon and boil slowly 1 hour until melon is clear.

Pack in glass cans while hot.

Currant Conserve.

Wash and stem three quarts currants. Squeeze juice from three oranges and cut skin from one orange. Cook it until tender in a little water, then scrape it free from white lining.

Wash and seed one pound of raisins. Mix all ingredients with three pounds sugar and simmer in porcelain-lined kettle until it jellies. Pack in jelly jars.

WASHBOARD BESIDE SCHOOL BLACKBOARD

They're Teaching Washing in Chicago Technical School Now.

BY HONOR FANNING.

Chicago, July 17.

"My sister she works in a laundry,
My father he fiddles for tin,
My mother she ta-akes in washing
Oh, my! how the money rolls in!"

"Fiddling for tin" has no social class as a job, but working in a laundry is now considered a real high-toned business.

MRS. ELSIE FRANK PAGE

They are teaching washing in high schools.

Mrs. Elsie Page, laundress-in-chief in Lucy Flower Technical school in Chicago, is the mother, so to speak, of the high school laundry.

She placed the washboard beside the blackboard in a big basement room in the Lucy Flower school four years ago and organized a class of girls in laundering. Last June a dozen girls were graduated from the laundry class.

"The happiness of the family is closely bound to the wash tub," says Mrs. Page. "This is especially true of families who cannot afford to send the family wash out. Mothers wear themselves out at the tub; their children are neglected, and as a result we have delinquent children—and poor washings.

"In our laundry classes we teach girls to wash without waste of strength and time; how to handle different fabrics; test soap, and take stains out of clothes. We teach them to use the simplest equipment, because most of these girls will use the old fashioned board and tub in their homes."

So much interest has been shown in sweet girl graduate laundresses that plans are under way to introduce the washboard in other high schools.

During the last year there were 1,300 fires caused by cigars and cigarettes carelessly thrown away in New York alone. The average loss a fire is about $569.

Dr. W. T. Ferguson will be at his office, No. 249 W. Main St., on July 19th and remain until the 22nd. 18-2t

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

COMFORTABLE SUIT FOR THE BOY

EVERY little fellow when he gets old enough to form sentences wants it distinctly understood that he desires to wear clothes that distinguish him from his sister. He dislikes any frills and furbelows, but at the same time he demands clothes that are comfortable, particularly in warm weather.

Here is a suit which will not fail to please any manly lad. The jacket is made of white pongee, an exceptionally cool material and one which stands frequent visits to the laundry. French knots are used to add a touch of color to the collar, cuffs and yoke of the jacket, and machine-stitching is cleverly employed to ornament the shoulders.

The trousers are very simple little affairs of linen, the color matching that introduced on the jacket. Linen-covered button molds are the only form of trimming on the trousers.

FASHIONGRAMS

ORCHID colored velours for sports hats are really lovely. They are untrimmed, with the exception of the ribbon band and tailored bow.

Jet and mother-of-pearl sequins sparkle on the instep of cobweb silk stockings. One doesn't wear this kind often, as they are not laundry proof.

Felt cloth and angora cloth, a mixture of beaver and felt, can be made into unusually lovely sports hats.

A silk bag heavily beaded is made in the shape of what one might call the pannier pocket chatelaine bag.

A buckle and strap ornament the instep of a high buttoned boot of gray kid. The buttons begin above the buckle.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

New Veil

Can you suggest what is the latest feature in veils? I want something which can be worn on outings, as when automobiling. A. M.

Perhaps the newest veil is the sports veil, made of striped chiffon or veiling, a colored stripe on a white ground or a contrasting shade.

Beach Capes

What is the stylish material for a beach cape? How would you make it? A. B. C.

Faille is used extensively for beach capes. Make it up rather full and plain, trimming it, if you think it necessary to use such, with silk braid.

A NEGLIGEE OR FROCK?

NO WONDER you are puzzled at a first glance at this drawing today, for it might very well be either and it really is both. It is one of those accommodating one-piece affairs which can be used for either formal or informal wear, all depending upon what you wear under it. If you are all spruced up in your best corsets with the fur accouterments of lingerie and petticoats, and you find a very hot evening before you, you may slip into this very filmy concoction of lace and net, tie the sash a trifle tighter at the back and, behold, you are fit for almost any formal summer occasion.

On the other hand, you may be short on cool negligees. Because it is in one piece and with an adjustable sash, it makes a very comfortable as well as charming garment for the rest hour. So there you are. Which shall it be?

As to making it, the directions are very simple. You may have a choice of many materials, but they should be cool. Dotted net is good, so is dotted swiss. An embroidered voile or a printed organdie fall in well with the scheme of either frock or dress. The sleeves should be plain of the same material as the dress or negligee. The lace may be as expensive or as inexpensive as one likes. A good imitation filet net or a shadow lace should be good enough for cotton material.

The ribbon of the belt slips under the frock in back and comes thru slits at the sides to cross and tie in sash ends at the back.

Don't hesitate for a minute to wear this as a frock, because the frock of one piece, regulated by a belt or sash, is to be in excellent style for fall.

TAKE SECOND SPEED AT GRADE CROSSINGS

Auto Dealer Tells How Fatal Accidents May Be Avoided by Using Care

The entire family of Otto Carey, of Hicksville, was wiped out when the father, who was driving the automobile, "killed" his engine in the path of the Twentieth Century limited at Butler.

Such fatal accidents are alarmingly common. An automobile expert has been consulted on this point and furnishes the following warning:

"When approaching a grade, more especially a railroad or street car track, shift gear to second speed before mounting the tracks.

"Many careful drivers have been killed because they did not know or observe this safety-first rule.

"The tendency of the amateur is to throw on 'gas' to accelerate speed in order to cross tracks as quickly, and, therefore, as safely, as possible. This may be fatal.

"Throwing on 'gas' suddenly, simultaneous with exacting a greater increased 'pull' because of a grade, chokes the carburetor and stops the engine, leaving the car dead and helpless in the path of the train.

"Always shift to medium gear before mounting an incline. When you have attained it and are level again, throw it into high and put on speed."

PRIZE-WINNING BABIES WILL RECEIVE OWN PHOTOGRAPHS

Mr. Williams to Present Each With a Parrot Portrait

Content to leave nothing undone which will delight the kiddies and their proud mothers and daddies, Mr. Williams has arranged, this year, to have photographed every baby winning a prize at Robison park tomorrow. Besides whatever regular prize it will be the child's happy chance to win, Mr. Williams will present to every baby a portrait of itself.

And, as Mr. Williams considers nothing but the very best good enough for his babies, the photographs are all to be taken by the Parrot studio. Mr. H. Carling, the celebrate artist of St. Paul, Minn., writes of baby pictures by this studio as follows: "I consider them to be the finest I have ever seen of children, splendidly posed, finely lighted and artistically created, * * * The lighting, pose and artistic rendering, as well as the life-like and natural expression, I think marvelous."

Mr. Williams believes one good picture worth a dozen mediocre ones; and such a gift from him will certainly merit the appreciation of the parents as well as of the children whom he is ever striving in some new way to delight.

The parade tomorrow will start promptly at two-thirty from the pavilion, and all parents are urged to be in good time to get the kiddies in line.

HIBERNIANS HOLDING BIENNIAL CONVENTION

Fifteen Hundred Delegates at Solemn High Mass in Boston.

Boston, July 18.—Fifteen hundred delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada attended solemn high mass in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross today, marking the formal opening of the fiftieth biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the ladies' auxiliary. Cardinal Wm. H. O'Connell, of this city, presided, with Rt. Rev. Dennis J. O'Connell, bishop of Richmond, Va., and national chaplain, as celebrant.

The mass was followed by a joint session of the two bodies, at which a number of addresses were made. The speakers included Joseph McLaughlin, of Philadelphia, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Mrs. Helen Ryan Jolly, national president of the Ladies auxiliary. Beginning tomorrow the organizations will hold separate meetings which will continue throughout the week.

No election of officers will be held this year, although the selection of the next convention city has aroused much interest. Delegations were actively at work today in behalf of San Francisco, Oakland, Cal., and Wilmington, Del.

HOLGATE AD INTERIM HEAD OF NORTHWESTERN

Chicago, Ill., July 18.—Thomas F. Holgate was chosen president ad interim of Northwestern university late last night. He is dean of the college of liberal arts. Mr. Colgate will assume his duties immediately as temporary successor of Abram W. Harris, who recently tendered his resignation as president of Northwestern university to become secretary of the national board of education of the Methodist church.

It was announced that the resignation of Mr. Harris has not been accepted and that a permanent president probably would not be chosen for another year. Mr. Holgate joined the Northwestern faculty in 1893 as a professor of mathematics. He had studied at Toronto and Clark universities. In 1902 he was made dean of the college of liberal arts and later served as acting president for a time. He was secretary of the International Congress of Mathematicians in 1908, and is the author of several books and a contributor to mathematical journals.

Cincinnati, July 18.—After a short business session today in which the report of the committee on constitution was received, the convention of International Rotary clubs in session here entered into a general discussion on "Honorary Members in Rotary" and "Rotary in the Smaller Cities."

The fight for the next convention has grown lively between Kansas City, Atlanta and Salt Lake City, while Chattanooga is asking for the 1918 meeting. The selection of the next convention city will be made Friday.

An invitation to visit Dayton, Ohio, Friday was extended to the convention today by John H. Patterson and the Dayton Rotary club. While the convention did not accept the invitation as a whole, many clubs did and several special trains will take them to Dayton, where they will first be entertained by the Dayton Rotary club and then by Mr. Patterson with a luncheon at the plant of the National Cash Register company, of which Mr. Patterson is president.

The first rounds of the Rotary tennis tournament were held yesterday afternoon, Salt Lake City defeating Akron, Ohio, 6-3, 6-4, and Kansas City defeating Cincinnati, 6-4, 9-7. Salt Lake City and Kansas will play this afternoon.

In the Rotary golf tournament, Victor L. Smith, Atlanta, won the prize for the lowest individual score with 82. The four lowest scores qualified the following cities to participate in the semi-finals this afternoon: Springfield, Ohio, 172; Atlanta, 177; Memphis, 177; Cincinnati, 183.

POSTMASTERS SEEK TO IMPROVE SYSTEM

Washington, July 18.—The National Association of Postmasters of the United States opened a four days' meeting here today to discuss means of improving the postal system. Subjects before the convention included betterment of the railway mail service to insure prompter rural deliveries, benefits of government ownership of auto equipment and installation of a more efficient newspaper carrying railroad plan. Delegates number about 1,000. Addresses by President Wilson and Postmaster General Burleson will be features of the meeting. Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general, was on the program today. The president will give a lawn party on the white house grounds for the postmasters today.

CHANCES VASTLY IN SUBMARINE'S FAVOR

Allied Cruisers Outside Not Likely to Take or Sink Deutschland.

Washington, July 18.—The allied embassies here expect the German underwater liner Deutschland to start on her voyage back to Germany at any hour—probably within the next day or two. It was made clear today that the embassies, while they have made representations on the character of the submersible, they have made no protest and probably will make no further move until she has sailed. Then some sort of representations will be filed with the state department to serve as a record in case the Deutschland should do any damage to allied shipping.

While an official examination of the Deutschland showed her totally unarmed and incapable of being converted into a warship without extensive structural changes, agents of the allied governments have expressed concern over the proximity of the German merchant liner Neckar, which has been in Baltimore harbor since the outbreak of the war. The Neckar has been alongside the Deutschland at her wharf.

Agents of the allies also have reported having heard that Capt. Paul Koenig, of the Deutschland, had once been the second officer of the Neckar, and have pointed out to the embassies that the correspondence of Captain Franz von Papen, the withdrawn military attache of the German embassy mentioned a Paul Koenig in connection with the plots to destroy the Welland canal. No attempt has been made to identify Captain Koenig as being the same man, although that feature has been drawn to the attention of the state department informally.

The general expectation in allied quarters is that the Deutschland, with her precious cargo of rubber and nickel will drop down Chesapeake Bay soon, lie in some cove or inlet for a time and on some dark night when the time is favorable, slip out to sea, probably going awash because the water is not deep enough at the Virginia capes for the ship to submerge with safety.

While the allied cruisers will be on patrol outside, the opinion prevails among naval men and the allied embassies, too, that the chances of getting away are much in the submarine's favor.

ARDENT HEAT CLAIMS FIRST VICTIM HERE

The excessive hot weather which has prevailed in Fort Wayne and vicinity for the past week claimed its first victim in Fort Wayne Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The Puraq company of East Superior street, lost one of its most valuable horses when it suffered a sunstroke and died before medical aid could be summoned.

The faithful animal was making its last trip of the day and reached the corner of Weisser Park avenue and Pontiac street when it fell to the pavement. The driver jumped from the wagon and when it reached its side he noticed that "Bill" was breathing his last.

A. W. Jaxtheimer, manager of the Puraq company, places his loss at $280. The horse was an exceptionally pretty grey. The animal was only 8 years old and had been in the service of the pure water company for two years and a half.

SONS GET BULK OF IT.

Horace Davis' Will Disposes of Estate Valued at Million.

San Francisco, July 18.—Horace Davis, the late pioneer educator and manufacturer of California whose will disposing of an estate valued at $1,000,000 is on file for probate, bequeathed the larger share to his son, Morris K. Davis, and his two granddaughters. Other bequests included $70,000 to the United Unitarian Society of Boston for the education of Unitarian ministers of San Francisco and vicinity; $10,000 each to Harvard and the University of California, to purchase books for the libraries, and the same amount to Stanford university for the creation of a student loan fund, loans to students not to exceed $200.

Other beneficiaries were the American Antiquarian Society of Worcester, Mass., and the New England Historic Genealogical society.

GRIFFIN FORFEITS BOND

Fails to Appear for Trial on Assault and Battery Charge.

John J. Griffin, charged with an assault and battery on Merl Marks, in connection with strike trouble at the plant of the Western Gas Construction company July 6, forfeited bon dof $25 in the court of Justice A. C. Nierman, Tuesday morning, by failure to appear for trial at 10 a. m. Griffin, it is said, went to Chicago following the trouble here and did not return.

The case of Joe Kelley was to go on trial before Justice W. E. Tancey Tuesday afternoon. Kelley took a change of venue from the court of Justice A. C. Nierman.

WILL ACCEPT DECISION.

Madrid, July 18.—1:50 a. m—The Northern Railway company having failed to reply to the government proposals that the road's differences with its striking employes be submitted to arbitration, the cabinet today resolved to submit the whole question of the strike to the institute of social reforms, whose decision, it is announced, will immediately be applied by the government.

HUGHES TO WORK FOR CONGRESSMEN, ALSO

Nominee Will Aid Campaign of Republicans for Senate and House.

Bridgehampton, N. Y., July 18.—Charles E. Hughes told callers today that he expected to work during the campaign, not only for his own election, but for the election of a republican majority in congress.

The beginning of the nominee's campaign to elect a republican majority in the senate will be made Thursday, when Mr. Hughes will confer in New York with a committee of senators, headed by Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, who has in charge the republican national senatorial campaign. Later on the nominee expects to confer with the republican congressional committee to aid in outlining an active campaign for the election of a majority in the house. Mr. Hughes said he considered the election of a republican congress as important as the election of a republican president as he would be enabled to effect his policies only by what he characterized as a "thorough victory" at the polls.

The nominee will go to New York tomorrow.

LAUNCH EFFORT TO GET U. S. PARK IN INDIANA

Plan to Save Sand Dunes Near Gary as a Public Playground.

Gary, Ind., July 18.—Indiana may get a national park if the plans of the interstate conference held at Tremont, in the sand dunes near here, are successful. The conference marked the beginning of efforts to conserve a portion of the sand desert at the foot of Lake Michigan from the encroachment of industry and to hold it as a great playground for the middle west. It is intended to raise $300,000 by a dollar subscription plan for the purchase of at least 300 acres and to ask congressional assistance.

About 3,000 persons from three states, of whom Chicagoans were in the majority, came to the dunes, but because of the heat most of them retreated to shaded nooks, leaving to scientists the necessary deliberations. Notable for their absence were the mayors and other officials of Indiana cities who had promised to be present.

Chicago Well Represented.

Such bodies as the Audubon society of Illinois, the Chicago Prairie club, the Chicago Geographic society, Horticultural society and Outdoor Art league were represented. Of the speakers, botanists declared the dunes had the most varied vegetation in the country, the plant life including almost everything to be found from the Arctic circle to the mountains of the Rio Grande valley.

A. F. Knotts, of Gary, former mayor of Hammond, was chosen as temporary chairman and T. H. Cannon of Gary temporary secretary. Other officers include Robert Harrison of Valparaiso, Alfred Jones and C. O. Dennewitz of Gary. Chairman Knotts was empowered to appoint an executive committee of fifteen, to be chosen from Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and to call a meeting August 6 at Gary to effect a permanent organization.

CASTRO WILL GET NO TRANSIT PRIVILEGE

Washington, D. C., July 18.—Immigration bureau officials have abandoned their idea of giving a "transit privilege" that would permit General Cipriano Castro and his wife to be at liberty in New York until they could take a boat for Porto Rico. It was explained at the bureau today that exclusion of the former Venezuelan president from the United States would operate to bar him from Porto Rico or other insular possessions. Castro's appeal from the ruling of the New York immigration office denying him admission had not reached here today, but officials were studying a transcript of the testimony taken at New York and expected Commissioner General Caminetti to take up the case on his return from Philadelphia tomorrow.

BURNING EARTH IS COOLED BY BREEZE

Tuesday seemed to be the hottest day in down town offices. There were several near prostrations. Out on the streets in the business section those who hurried to and fro were fairly scorched by the burning rays, which the tall buildings seemed to focus upon suffering humanity.

But out in the open a breeze was stirring. The thermometer stood at 88 degrees during the hottest part of the day up to 2 o'clock. This is far short of the record made last week and the week before. On July 11, the thermometer registered 93 degrees.

But the weather man sights warmer weather ahead. Wednesday will at least be warmer, he points out. All week will be sultry, according to the present indications.

MAYOR BUNCH READY TO TAKE THE STAND

State is Expected to End Evidence Today Against Muncie Official.

Muncie, Ind., July 18.—Thomas V. Miller, a lawyer who is held in the county jail for contempt of court who fled when summoned as a witness in the trial of Gene Williams, formerly deputy prosecutor, and S. E. Lewis, a private detective, probably will be the closing witness for the state today in the trial of Mayor Rollin H. Bunch, charged with soliciting and accepting bribes from blind tigers and gambling house owners.

The defense is expected to begin presentation of its evidence as soon as the state closes today. Mayor Bunch probably will take the witness stand and it is said the testimony for the defense will occupy a week.

Lewis visited a large number of blind tigers in Muncie while employed as a detective by the Good Citizens league. The state hopes to prove by Miller that the defense induced him to leave town and also tried to induce other witnesses to leave the jurisdiction of the court.

DEMAND RESUMPTION OF SUBMARINE WAR

Berlin, July 17.—(Via London, July 18, 2:30 p. m.)—The active campaign for resumption of submarine warfare in its previous form has assumed new importance from an article today by Eugene Zimmerman, general director of the Lokal Anzieger, whose views, as past events have shown, usually reflect the opinions held in governmental circles.

Referring to the reasons which Great Britain gave for abandoning the declaration of London, Herr Zimmerman contemplates the possibility that Great Britain will compel smaller nations to adopt an unfriendly, perhaps a hostile attitude towards the central powers, or even to close their frontiers completely against them. He then cites in heavy type his own comment on Germany's acceptance of the American demands in regard to submarine warfare, indicating that circumstances might arise later which would make it impossible to adhere to the restrictions on the activity of these craft.

TWO SUITS ARE PENDING.

Meanwhile Boonville Saloons Are Doing Business Without License.

Boonville, Ind., July 18.—Two suits in the circuit court and one in the county commissioner's court, are pending here to determine the validity of the wet and dry election in Boonville June 30. The drys are contending that the wets had no right to appeal from the order for the election, as the order was not the final judgment of the board of commissioners. In the commissioner's court the wets are contending that the election was not legal for a dozen reasons. The case is attracting wide attention and will last some time. The saloons are doing business without license, pending decision.

MACHINISTS GO ON STRIKE.

Fifteen Hundred Men at Milwaukee Demand Shorter Working Day.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 18.—Fifteen hundred machinists at the plants of the Allis-Chalmers company and Pawling & Harnishfeger works, struck today. They demand a forty-eight hour week instead of fifty-two and one-half hours. Six thousand others are expected to join the strike.

FIRST CLASH IN THE CLAY WORKERS' STRIKE

James Hayward Under Arrest at Brazil on Assault Charge.

Brazil, Ind., July 18.—The first trouble resulting from the strike of clay workers of this city was reported this morning and was followed by the swearing out of a warrant for the arrest of James Hayward, superintendent of the Brazil Hollow Brick and Tile company, charging him with assault and battery. The trouble broke out when a number of strikers placed picket lines at the plant. They alleged that two sons of Hayward approached the plant and were stopped by Grant Niccicon, a picket, and told not to enter the plant.

The elder Hayward at this juncture is alleged to have walked up behind Niccicon and struck him with a cane. Andy Hess, another picket, was also struck, it was alleged, but was not hurt. Strikers say the alleged attack will result in retaliatory measures by the strikers.

Organizer Kasten announced this morning that the employes of the Ayer-McCarel plant had been called out when the company refused to meet the demands of the men for recognition of the union. Kasten said sixty-five men were out.

STATE RESTS IN THE SCHERER CASE

The state in the case of Henry P. Scherer, Wayne township trustee, charged with misappropriation of township funds, rested its case at 2:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and Harry Hilgemann, of counsel for the defense, made the opening statement to the jury in behalf of the accused trustee five minutes later.

The state introduced two witnesses, Frank Bercot, member of the advisory board, and Henry Branning, clerk to that board, at the afternoon session of the trial. Bercot testified of Scherer's reports being taken up in meetings of the board and of statements directed to the township trustee regarding his withdrawal of funds. Bercot said Mr. Scherer finally went to Indianapolis, consulted state officials and learned that his withdrawal of funds was wrong, and proceeded to restore the money withdrawn.

Branning's testimony was simply to state he kept the minutes of the meeting of the advisory board.

CLORE AT WASHINGTON LOOKING UP CHANCES

Washington, D. C., July 18.—With the arrival yesterday of Leonard B. Clore of Franklin, Ind., the contest for appointment on the federal farm loan board, which is to manage the rural credits system, assumed a lively aspect.

Clore is staying at Congress Hall hotel but is not registered there. Representative Lincoln Dixon will accompany him tomorrow afternoon to the treasury department and present him to Secretary McAdoo. If the necessary arrangements can be made, he will be presented to President Wilson later in the day. The purpose in having him come here is to enable the appointing powers "to look him over."

Carter Glass, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, is backing Clore and Representative Moss is pulling for him with might and main. There are two other candidates from Indiana, but efforts are being made to induce these two to withdraw, as their qualifications are not such as the president demands, and in that event both Indiana senators will [illegible]

THORNBURG DELIVERS SERMON TO SOLDIERS

4,000 Indiana Men, Seated Under Mesquite Brush, Join in Hymns.

Mercedes, Texas, July 18.—Four thousand Indiana soldiers presented a most striking picture as they sat on the ground beneath the mesquite brush, which dots the big mobilization camp at at Llano Grande, Sunday night at 7 o'clock and raised their voices in song services conducted by the regimental chaplains.

The entire camp, big as it is, rang with the voices of the Hoosier soldier boys as they sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," "We Are Marching to Zion" and other religious songs with a military touch to them. Nine hundred men of the Fifth Nebraska infantry attended the services conducted by the Third Indiana infantry, and the band of the Fourth Nebraska contributed to the program with several numbers of a religious and military character. Chaplain Fred L. Thornburg, of Decatur, of the Third Indiana, delivered a short sermon after prayer had been offered by Chaplain Beecher, of the Fifth Nebraska. The Second infantry service was in charge of Chaplain E. A. Arthur, of Vincennes. Fred Sharp, of Terre Haute, a battalion quartermaster, stirred the Hoosier lads to applause when he played the Indiana song, "On the Banks of the Wabash."

First is "Chaplainless."

The First Indiana infantry is without a chaplain at present, but with two ministers for company commanders, it did not lack a leader for its religious service. Capt. White, of the Bloomington company, and Capt. Harriman, of the Martinsville company, united in conducting a short service for the men of the First infantry. The Indiana artillery battalion did not conduct a separate service, but many of its men attended the infantry regimental services and others had been to Mercedes this morning to attend church. Chaplain Thornburg spoke of the duties of the soldier and how he is expected to serve his country and fellow men, and he urged that he carry the soldier spirit to his moral life. He declared that it takes a greater courage to keep morally clean in the midst of temptations than it does to face cannon and bayonets. Chaplain Arthur, after referring to the fact that the soldiers have laid themselves on the altar of their country, ready to serve it in any way demanded, sought to impress it upon his hearers that it is a soldier's duty to so live at all times that he may keep clean, both in mind and body, and be prepared to give the best possible service to his country and home.

Last Men Arrive.

The Indiana brigade was made complete with the arrival of the field hospital corps, commanded by Maj. Carter, and Ambulance Company No. 2, commanded by Capt. Arnett. All of the Indiana men are well and they are rapidly adapting themselves to their new and strange surroundings.

The work so far has been confined to placing the camp in ship-shape so that the men may be comfortable and healthy. This is considered a healthy climate and, with a strictly sanitary camp, which Gen. Lewis, as well as the brigade commander, insists must be maintained, there is little prospect of sickness. The mercury soared well up in the nineties today, but the breeze from the gulf, which seldom dies down, offered relief.

Start Target Practice.

Col. Kuhlman of the Third Indiana Infantry, plans to have his regiment begin target practice tomorrow. The range at first will be limited to 100 yards, both because the shooting is merely preliminary and because there is now no cleared space to permit firing at a long range target unless the railroad track be used. The Third has more than 100,000 rounds of ammunition.

The men of all the Indiana organizations will not be required to do any field work in the middle of the day when the sun is hottest. The artillery men will do all their drilling in the forenoons and spend the afternoons in doing only the lighter work of the camp. The infantry regiments probably will do their field work from 7:30 to 10 in the morning and then rest until 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Some work may be done after evening mess. The officers are considerate of the men's welfare and they will not allow too heavy work at once, a schedule of light drills being provided until the troops have become acclimated.

The Indiana artillery battalion perfected its camp government today. Lieut. Sidney S. Miller of Battery A was made summary court officer, and also placed in charge of the battalion laundry to be established. Lieut. Holmes of Battery B was placed in charge of the battalion exchange launched today, and Lieut. Nisley, of Battery C, was made battalion mess officer.

CHICAGO PAYS OVER $22,500 FOR WORTMAN

Chicago, July 18.—William Wortman, Kansas City's star shortstop, has been purchased by the Chicago Nationals, it was announced today, at a price said to be higher than the $22,500 value given by the Pittsburg Nationals some years ago for Marty O'Toole.

The amount of cash, however, and the names of the three players involved in the deal were not announced.

Wortman, besides being a shortstop, is hitting about .300 and has the unusual record of having played three years without missing a single inning. Meanwhile, negotiations for Charles Herzog, the Cincinnati manager, are going on in Cincinnati where President Weghorst [illegible]

ARREDONDO GETS MEXICAN APPROVAL

Instructions O. K. Tentative Plan for Settlement of Wrangle.

Washington, July 18.—Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, called on Acting Secretary Polk at the state department today just before the latter went to the white house for the cabinet meeting. It was understood Mr. Arredondo had received instructions from his government approving a tentative plan for the settlement of differences with the United States by means of a joint international commission.

There are indications that Henry P. Fletcher, ambassador designate to Mexico, will head the three American commissioners if the plan is adopted. Mr. Fletcher is said to prefer New York city as a place of meeting, while the Mexican embassy favors Washington. Mr. Fletcher was present at today's conference.

The commission plan was developed during preliminary conversations between Mr. Polk and Mr. Arredondo. It is expected further conferences will be held to define the scope of the proposed commission's authority. Whether the commission will be authorized to discuss in addition to the border situation, economic and financial conditions in Mexico with a view to offering some plan under which the Washington government could aid in the re-establishment of normal conditions, has not been disclosed.

At the close of the conference, Mr. Polk said there was nothing to be announced further than that the conferences were "progressing favorably" and he intimated no announcement might be expected for several days.

SENATE ADOPTS THE BIG NAVAL PROGRAM

Provides for 157 Warships of All Classes Within Three Years.

Washington, July 18.—The senate today adopted the enlarged building program of the naval bill by a viva voce vote. It provides for the construction within three years of 157 war vessels of all classes and for four dreadnoughts and four battle cruisers to be built next year.

Discussion of the building program providing for sixteen capital warships within three years, eight of them next year, developed indications that it would be approved without radical change.

Opposition to the building program, as well as its defense, came from both democrats and republicans. A 45 to 11 vote tabled an amendment by Senator Norris to halt construction of the sixteen ships until after the end of the European war and after failure of efforts to create an international peace tribunal.

The ships to be constructed by July 1, 1919, under the senate program, follow:

Battleships, ten; four this year.
Battle cruisers, six; four in 1917.
Scout cruisers ten; four in 1917.
Torpedo boat destroyers, fifty; twenty in 1917.
Fleet submarines, nine; two now building to be completed in 1917; coast submarines, fifty-eight; thirty in 1917.

Other ships include one submarine with Neff system of propulsion, three fuel ships, two ammunition ships, one hospital ship, one repair ship, one transport, two destroyer tenders, one fleet submarine and two munition boats.

The bill as it passed the house provided for a total of ten ships, with only five capital ships, all battle cruisers.

By a vote of 48 to 18 the senate rejected an amendment to require three of the new battleships to be kept on the Pacific coast. It was argued that the amendment would be an infringement on the constitutional authority of the president as commander-in-chief of the navy. Senators Jones and Phelan insisted that the Pacific coast always has been slighted in naval ships and the latter emphasized dangers of Japanese invasion. Opponents of the amendment declared that it would prove a great embarrassment to the navy and declared the Pacific coast would always be protected in the assignment of war craft.

Senator Clapp opposed the building program and scouted the danger of war with a foreign power.

STORM'S DEATH TOLL HAS MOUNTED TO 19

Receding Waters Show Big Increase in Estimated Damage.

Atlanta, Ga., July 18.—Flood waters throughout the stricken districts of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia were receding and the latest reports added four to the death list, making a total of nineteen.

The property loss, however, continues to grow and when towns and counties now cut off from communication are heard from the first estimates of from ten million to fifteen million dollars damage probably will be increased. Railroads apparently have suffered far more than was at first realized. Reports from western North Carolina are that some roads there will have to be almost entirely rebuilt. Measures for the relief of passengers on trains marooned near Asheville were taken today, automobile being employed to carry the passengers to the nearest cities where they can be properly fed and housed. Automobiles are being used to move the 250 passengers from the Florida special of the Southern railway to Asheville.

TAKES UP POSTOFFICE BILL.

Space Plan for Railway Mail Pay Will Be Given Test.

Washington, July 18.—The house took up today a report on the $2,000,000 postoffice appropriation bill which gives final word to the interstate commerce commission in the matter of submitting the space for the weight basis as a method of paying for railway mail transportation. Pending a ruling by the commission the space plan will be tried out on some lines to demonstrate its possibilities. Afterwards the commission will decide both the manner and amount of pay. Representative Moon, chairman of the postoffice committee, said today that experiments could be started under the bill as soon as an order by the postmaster general has been approved by the commission.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Juarez, Where Mexico Does Her Watchful Waiting, is Interesting

More Spanish Than Spain, Declare Writer and Artist Who Pay Visit to city Across Rio Grande.

BY ROBERT MOUNTSIER.

Juarez, Mexico, July 17.—On the other side of the narrow and muddy Rio Grande are El Paso and the United States—El Paso, hot, young and rich; the United States, busy, dollar-mad and hurrying!

Here is Juarez, cool in the shade of trees and mountains, quiet and peaceful despite the 4.7 guns trained on it from the American side, "watchfully waiting." All this is Mexico, a picturesque country with a people of striking individuality, whose present is disturbing, but whose past is rich in artistic and intellectual merit.

In El Paso everybody warned Robert Minor, the artist, and myself not to come over to Juarez. They said any white man who crossed the International bridge would be thrown into jail or shot, or both!

But we wanted to visit this famous border town, so with only American and Mexican soldiers and a river no wider than the Marne between us and Juarez, we started.

The American soldiers at the El Paso end of the bridge frisked us for a gun. We had none. Then they frisked the "flivver." The "flivver" had no gun. We were allowed to proceed.

A MOUNTED POLICEMAN OF JUAREZ. NOTE THE POLICEMAN WEARS A SWORD INSTEAD OF A CLUB, AS IN THE U. S. A. PICTURE SKETCHED AT JUAREZ BY ROBERT MINOR, FAMOUS ARTIST, ON THE BORDER FOR THE SENTINEL.

In a minute we had passed the armed guard on the Mexican end of the bridge and were in Mexico. A Mexican customs official asked us if we had anything dutiable. We told him that we had not, and he took our word for it.

As a border city Juarez is not as Mexican as it might be in its external appearance. Except in parts of the business section, Juarez is Spanish. In the business section, on the walls of American-looking buildings, are such signs as "Turkish bath," "grocery store," and "French barber."

Even the bull-ring, a huge structure, is partially disguised with advertisements, one of which hits the eye with enormous letters, "Have you seen the big kid?" We hadn't and we haven't.

"The big kid," by the way, is a weighty personage who owns saloons in Juarez and El Paso. The only things American left in Juarez are advertisements and closed stores and saloons.

Juarez is Spanish—more Spanish even, than Spain.

In streets between adobe houses can be seen slowly moving Mexican men under enormous sumbreros and women gliding along with equally large burdens on their heads; little horses, some active and well-fed, others skeletonized to the point of collapsing; dust-covered peons from the interior, who droop with their cigarets as they shuffle along in guaraches (leather sandals); bronzed Indian faces softened by black mantillas that flow down over black garments; beautiful senoritas whose every movement of eye and supple body denote the warmth and passion of a southern country.

On the outskirts is the cemetery. Here are four graves, newly dug by municipal prisoners sunning themselves in the little bit of shade at the rear of a square adobe structure, whose principal use seems to be as a backstop for prisoners who are stood up before it and shot. Outside is a canvas stretcher spotted with blood, inside a coffin crate whose stains show the first resting place of the executed while the final is being prepared in a common burying trench nearby.

The most interesting feature of Juarez is the commandancia where Senor Don Andres Garcia, consul, and Gen. Gonzales, army leader, are dispensing hospitality while one of Gen. Gonzales' military bands is giving an impromptu concert.

The program is varied—"Los Velocipedistas"—the Mexican national anthem, and songs dear to the hearts of the Mexicans. Indeed, if the threatened war between Mexico and the United States were a competition of notes between the military bands of the two republics Mexico would be the victor, for there is music in the souls of the people on this side of the Rio Grande!

Indoor Life Makes Fat

TRY OIL OF KOREIN TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN OR TO REDUCE SUPERFLUOUS FAT.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against over-stoutness, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any persons who are satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to a good druggist and get a box of oil of korein capsules, and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, improved digestion and a return of the old energy; footsteps become lighter and the skin less flabby in appearance as superfluous fat disappears.

Oil of korein is inexpensive, cannot injure, and helps the digestion. Any person who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.—Advertisement.

AUTO TRUCKS FOR USE ON THE BORDER

Nickel Plate Takes Train Load of Army Machines Through City.

That Uncle Sam is still making extensive preparation for warfare on the Mexican border, was evidenced by the arrival in this city today of a train load of auto trucks bound for the fighting zone below the Rio Grande. The train came in over the Nickel Plate road, arriving in this city just at the noon hour. The train was composed of thirty-six flat cars, with two machines on each car. The trucks were made especially for the United States government by the Peerless Auto company of Cleveland, O., from which place the train started at 1 o'clock this morning.

There were over a hundred men in charge of the machines, all big husky looking fellows who looked as if they would be capable of driving the trucks through all the hardships occasioned by Mexican bullets or Mexican weather. The outfit was in charge of Truckmen Waite and Saylor, and expects to reach Brownsville, Texas, in about four days. The purpose for which the trucks are to be used is to transport ammunition and food from one place to another. They are substantial looking machines, weighing three tons each, and are painted a drab color. The men accompanying the train ate their dinner at the Wayne hotel, and left this city shortly before 1 o'clock.

MEETINGS ARE POPULAR.

Religious Gatherings at Pennsy Shops Attract Large Crowds.

The weekly religious meetings at the Pennsylvania shops are still proving very popular, despite the intense heat of the past few weeks. The meeting Tuesday was addressed by Rev. Claude Travis, his subject being "The Soul's Refuge." The point brought out by Rev. Travis in his talk was that all men, be they of the highest station in life or of the lowest, need rest for the soul. There was a large crowd in attendance and at the close of the address the whole assembly joined in singing.

FOREIGN DISTRICT TAKES UP NEW PLAN

Melita and Bass Streets Are First to Adopt Idea of Street Personality

We note the jabbering alien o'er the way,
And brand him as a hopeless care;
Time tells the truth; the years portray,
The beauty of the soul that's there.
—Fannie Desmond, "Our Nation."

A new era in the development of Fort Wayne seems to dawn with the announcement that Melita and Bass streets will be the first to carry out the plan of the systematic beautification of the streets. Flower boxes, covered with bark, and filled with blooming flowers are to be placed in the front windows clear along both streets.

The movement to make individual streets unique comes as one of the touches of civic pride. It is lead by Mrs. Josephine Nesbitt. Her idea is to have a given street follow some one system of decoration along its whole length.

Several citizens living along the two short streets of Melita and Bass, heard of the plan. Some of them asked Mrs. Nesbitt to help them to materialize the idea in their section. Mrs. Nesbitt made a call through the neighborhood to sound out the housewives.

An Interpreter Was Needed.

An Italian girl, to act as interpreter, accompanied Mrs. Nesbitt, for there are dozens living in the section who cannot understand a word of English. The seventy some homes were visited. It required three days to find all the wives at home and get their view of the plan. Everywhere was enthusiasm. There was not a single refusal.

Uniform flower boxes will protrude from the front windows of the many kinds of houses that are thrown together along the two streets. In most cases the boxes will be made by the men working of evenings after their day of toil is over. There is no restriction as to the kindof flowers to be planted in the bark covered boxes. Pansies and nasturtiums will prevail. In the corners will be started vines which are to dangle down in front and climb up over the windows. Work of installing the window boxes is to start at once. It means that the new phase of the beautification movement is to be headed by a district made up of foreign-born folk, and it redounds to the glory of Fort Wayne as a melting pot of peoples.

Once Terror to Health Officers.

The little section south of the Wabash and Pennsylvania tracks is clouded by smoke from the Wabash shops, and the noise of passing locomotives is almost constant. The district was once a terror to health officers.

Little by little, however, there was growth. Each year conditions were improved. The foreigner's children went to school and brought home a better understanding of surroundings. Garbage cans were covered up. Today there is not an open garbage receptacle along Melita or Bass streets. Conditions are as near sanitary, according to health officers, as is possible under the huddled conditions.

Mrs. Nesbitt gave several illustrated lectures on civic pride in the neighborhood this year. She always had a large audience. Pictures of Fort Wayne never failed to bring applause. There was manifested eagerness to help the movement.

Calls Out Sense of Art.

The idea of street individuality was suggested. It is above and beyond the crude demands of sanitation. It calls out a sense of art and higher civic pride. It was taken up at once by people of Melita and Bass streets.

Citizens living along the avenues and winding boulevards of Fort Wayne will carry out the excellent system of street personality later. Gardeners will be employed. In some cases stately trees of one variety will mark the way and will wave above elaborate creations of floral beauty. But it was for Melita and Bass streets, called oftentimes a "wop district," to lead the way.

TRIP TO CLEVELAND TO SEE BUILDINGS

Commissioners Will Inspect County Institutions in Ohio City.

Members of the board of county commissioners left Tuesday morning for Cleveland, Ohio, where they will remain until Thursday in the inspection of county institutions. All members of the board made the trip. While the commissioners expected to make a general inspection of county institutions, yet they are interested mostly, it is thought, in the tuberculosis hospital located at Cleveland.

Has Tuberculosis Hospital.

In view of the prospect of eventually erecting a tuberculosis hospital in Allen county, the commissioners are availing themselves of any opportunity to get ideas of such institutions. The county council, at a recent meeting, appropriated $2,000 to maintain a tuberculosis camp at the county farm, but owing to the inadequate quarters of this camp, the body at the same time talked of plans for erecting a new hospital to cost probably $50,000. This sum of money, the council asserted, should not be spent until an inspection of other similar buildings over the country had been made.

Delegated Commissioners.

The county council, at its special called session two weeks ago to consider temporary aid for the tuberculosis hospital, decided that the county commissioners should do some inspection work in the interest of getting hospital building ideas. The trip to Cleveland will serve such a purpose.

Inventory is Filed.

Complete inventory of the assets of the Fort Wayne Co-operative store, for which a receiver was first sought and later removed on the ground that assets of $23,000 were represented in the stock of goods and all holdings, has been filed with the court showing that the entire property is worth $9,946.75 in the appraisement of three appraisers chosen to make the inventory. The various store values are placed as follows in the report: Cash, $1,283,25; fixtures, $3,862.10; coal yard and coal, $456.75; accounts, $118; unpaid stock subscriptions, $100; goods and merchandise, $4,126.65.

A petition asking the sale of the stock and the creditors to file claims has been filed with the court. Levi A. Todd is receiver for the Co-operative store on appointment of the court. Judge Carl Yaple several days ago heard a petition filed asking that Todd be removed as receiver on the ground that the store's stock and outstanding subscriptions would meet all obligations. The court thereupon ordered the appraisement.

Divorce Suit Filed.

Lillie Bayless has filed suit for divorce, naming Ralph Bayless and E. M. Baltes & Co. She also asks $500 allmony and a restraining order preventing Bayless from encumbering his funds received in wages from the defendant company and molesting her at her address, 1219 High street. Mr. and Mrs. Bayless were married April 6, 1915, and separated July 17, 1916. He is charged with failure to provide for two years and with beating, cursing and threatening to kill the plaintiff. She charges he also accused her of being intimate with other men. Bayless, the complaint says, earns $15 a week, and owns realty, she is informed, worth $800. L. A. Todd is attorney for the plaintiff.

Notes of the Courts.

Emanuel Klopfenstein has entered suit against Elias Long to recover $200 on replevin. F. B. Shoaff is the plaintiff's lawyer.

Asking that a date be set for an option election in Cedar Creek township, which includes Grabill, a petition signed by ninety-two voters has been filed with the county commissioners. The township has two saloons.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roth are the parents of a boy, born Monday. Mr. Roth is bailiff of the circuit court. Mr. Roth is a proud parent and dealt out the cigars generously.

In the case of Joseph P. Martin and Emmet Martin against Willard P. Smith, to foreclose mechanics lien, judgment for $97.55 for the plaintiff has been rendered.

BOARD'S ORDER RECALLED.

Since the drowning of the colored boy in the Spy Run creek attention has been called to the fact that the health board ordered no more swimming in that stream. Police were notified to stop swimming there. Police say they have done all they could to stop the practice of bathing in the creek, which is made up of surface water, the health board says. "At least a dozen times our patrolman has chased the boys away from the creek," Police Chief Lenz said Tuesday. "The patrolman who has that beat is also responsible for Bloomingdale, Lakeside and the Nebraska districts. He has been doing his best. If we are to keep constant watch there it will be necessary to order a special officer. We are doing all we can with the number of men we have. We have ordered the boys to stay out of Spy Run creek."

WILL PROBE FURTHER.

Finding of Feminine Garments Has Caused Much Excitement.

Deputy Sheriffs Mills and Courdevey were to go Tuesday afternoon to the woods on the Schlaudroff farm on the Wayne trace, six miles east of the city, to probe further into the finding of a woman's raiment including a black dress, white waist, dark skirt and some underwear in the woods. A half pint of kerosene, almost full, was also found beside the clothing, indicating an attempt had been made to burn the clothing. Much loose dirt was piled about the clothing, it is reported, and the deputies will investigate fully any clue leading to parties responsible for the clothing.

The clothes were taken to the county jail. They had lain on the ground for several days.

BEN EARL WINS PACE AFTER HARD STRUGGLE

Cleveland, O., July 18.—Coming direct from a winning preliminary campaign on the half mile circuits, Ben Earl, beautifully driven by Marvin Childs, clearly demonstrated his Grand circuit class Monday at North Randall. He won the Edwards pacing stake, the first big feature of the 1916 harness campaign, after one of the most bitterly contested battles in the history of the local classic. It was a race which kept the record opening crowd on the qui vive from start to finish of every heat.

Ben Earl's performance was only one of many that thrilled the crowd. In two of the four races the contests went into split heats, and in one, the 2:07 pace, three heat winners were produced and an additional fourth heat was required.

It was a day of upsets. Tommy Murphy started in right where he left off last season as a winning driver, piloting Trampright to a straight heat victory, in the opening event of the day, the 2:09 trot. The Murphy entry was easily the class of his field. Summaries:

MUST STAKE TITLE.

New York, July 18.—Elusive champions of the fistic world who have been wont to play the itching palm rather than the clenched fist may have to defend their title in decision bouts if they want to box in New York. Chairman Wench, of the state athletic commission, incensed at the actions of Freddie Welsh and other title holders in a letter made public Tuesday, suggests that the present regulation of the body forbidding decisions be amended, to provide for a referee's decision in any contest where a champion is a contestant.

The proposed rule provides that a generally recognized champion cannot box at all in New York except in a bout involving his title.

BOUGHT A NEW CATCHER.

Columbus, O., July 18.—Announcement was made here yesterday by officials of the Milwaukee association baseball club that Catcher George Black, of the St. Joseph Western league club, had been purchased by Milwaukee. Black will report to the club at Louisville Wednesday.

ROTH, HALF OF CLEVELAND RIGHT-FIELD, IS STAR PINCH-HITTER OF SEASON.

(By Harold Johnson.)

Bobby Roth and his faithful Moriarity produce a deadly combinaion for American league pitchers this season. Moriarity's the bat wielded by Roth in his sensational string of pinch hitting feats which have accounted for a dozen Cleveland victories since the Indians became the surprise part of the Johnsonian fold.

Bobby is one-half of the right field jineup on Fohl's team. When a left-hander mounts the knob to battle the Indians Roth goes on watch in the garden. When a right-hander is picked by the opposing manager Bobby graces the bench, making way in right for Elmer Smith, southpaw swatter.

At first Smith seemed to have the call as regular on the job, but well timed pinch drives by Bobby and Smith's failure in times of need won a half portion assignment in the pasture for the former White Sock, who was swapped with Klepfer and Daly for Joe Jackson.

Among the stellar feats performed by Roth are the following:

May 7—Pinched for Coumbe in eighth. Singled, scoring two runs and helped beat Chicago, 5 to 2.

May 21—Pinched for Coveleskie in the eighth against Walter Johnson and drove in tying run. Washington won in the ninth

May 22—Pinched for Smith in ninth, with one on, and smashed a homer in game won by Athletics, 10 to 8.

May 24—Got regular job and made one hit, a double, scoring run which helped Indians beat Athletics 5 to 4.

June 3—In five trips to plate hit two sacrifice flies, a triple and single, good for four runs in 11 to 2 rout of Boston.

June 9—Pinched for Morton in seventh and doubled, scoring one run in game won by Washington, 7 to 4.

June 23—Pinched for Coveleskie in the eighth and singled off Dubuc, starting rally that beat Detroit, 4 to 3.

June 26—Tripled, scoring two runs off Danforth, beating Chicago 2 to 0.

July 1—Up five times without a hit. On sixth attempt tripled off Plank in eleventh with bases full, beating St. Louis 5 to 4.

July 2—Pinched, hitting triple off Davenport and beat St. Louis 3 to 2 in five-inning game.

July 4—Pinched (morning game) and walked in contest won by Detroit.

July 8—Tripled in first inning at Boston, scoring two runs in 5 to 1 victory for Indians.

MICHIGAN'S SONGS HEARD AT BORDER.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 18.—Michigan's stirring football song, "The Victors," is being heard on the Mexican border. Many of the national guardsmen with the Wolverine regiments at El Paso are graduates of the local university and the Thirty-first regiment band was presented with a set of scores of Michigan's battle march.

BAKER'S INJURIES SERIOUS.

New York, July 18.—J. Franklin Baker, third baseman of the New York Yankees, will be out of the game indefinitely, it is announced by the club, as the injuries he sustained last Friday in running against the grandstand while chasing a foul have been found to be more serious than at first thought. An X-ray photograph revealed that two ribs were broken.

TWO BIG EVENTS ON CARD.

North Randall Sweepstakes and 2:05 Pace Divide Interest at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 18.—The North Randall sweepstakes and the 2:05 pace divided honors as the feature event of today's race card at North Randall track on the second day of the Grand circuit meeting. The North Randall event is for 2:18 three-year-old trotters. There was no early favorite in this number. The speed event will come with the clash of the 2:05 pacers and Whitesox is expected to rule as favorite. The other events are the 2:18 trot and the 2:12 pace.

FREDDIE WELSH TO BOX LEONARD

New York, July 18.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, stung by the taunts of the sporting world, has signed articles to meet Benny Leonard, the pride of Harlem, in a ten round bout at Washington park on July 28.

At their last meeting Leonard decisively outpointed the champion, and has been clamoring for another match ever since. So many harsh words were hurled at Welsh for his elusiveness that he agreed to meet any man the sporting editors of New York named.

Leonard was the unanimous choice and the articles for the fight have been signed.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

FIELDER JONES, MANAGER ST. LOUIS BROWNS:

"The New York Yankees will win the American league pennant this year. I don't see another team which has a chance. Chicago has been lucky to win and it won't last. Detroit is through now because it has no pitchers and there is hardly anything else in the league that compares with Donovan's team.

"I don't think the Red Sox will repeat. They are not playing the ball they did last year and their pitchers are not as good. The trouble with most teams in the league this year is that the players are trying to call the turn on what the pitcher is about to put up to them and that makes some of them look ridiculous when a smart pitcher crosses them."

RAY CHAPMAN, CLEVELAND, INDIANS:

"I've seen some sweet pitching in the American league but never have I looked upon a greater feat than that performed in New York the other afternoon by Bob Shawkey, of the Yankees. When a pitcher strikes out the side in one inning the feat isn't particularly remarkable, but Shawkey's feat was performed in the eighth inning and he fanned Smith, Gandil and myself in succession and each of us took three swings.

"There was not a called strike nor a foul, other than light foul tips during the inning. Usually fouled strikes and called strikes play a part in retiring the side at the plate. In this case every strike was a missed swing."

KELLY TO ENTER CHAMPIONSHIPS.

New York, July 18—Fred Kelly, Olympic high hurdles champion, will compete in the national championships at Newark next fall. It was expected that Kelly's enlistment would prevent the champion from entering, but he has already arranged for a furlough and is training for the hurdles and the all around event.

SAYS "NOT YET."

Chicago, July 18.—Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Nationals, today denied that he had completed negotiations for the purchase of Shortstop Wortman, of the Kansas City American association club.

DOLAN EXONERATED IN BOXING TRAGEDY.

Frankie Dolan was arrested recently in connection with the death of Bert Coffey. Coffey dropped dead during the final frame of a four-round boxing contest with Dolan at the Vernon Athletic club, Los Angeles, Cal.

At first it was thought that Coffey's death was due to a blow inflicted by Dolan. The autopsy showed, however, that death was caused from acute dilation of the heart, due to over-exertion. Dolan was held several days, pending the outcome of the coroner's inquest, which completely exonerated him.

Coffey's right name was Joe Peoples. His home was Santa Rosa, Cal., where he is survived by a mother and a sister. He had been in the boxing game about five years.

SPORT DOPE

"Tom Alley quits racing"—headline. Chances are Tom will take up bowling.

There are comparatively few boxers in the army, but boxers have done a lot of soldiering in this country for years.

If Freddie Welsh goes through with his threat to box the venerable Harlem Tommy Murphy we may next hear of the winner meeting Jack McAuliffe.

In view of the fact that sharks are prowling the Atlantic, Charles Durborow, the Philadelphia iron-man swimmer, will limit all his swims to forty mile dashes.

By slanting the dispatches from our eastern front we gather that Baltimore, Providence and Buffalo are taking Richmond much easier than Grant did.

If the Yale rooters are really anxious to strengthen their eleven next fall they ought to let the Mexicans round up all the gents on the 1915 team.

There's one advantage in not being in the swim. You'll never get bitten by a shark.

If all the sharks are killed before fall it's going to be a tough season on Kelly pool.

Ball players may be absent-minded and forget to touch a base, but they never forget to touch the magnate.

Up to the hour of going to press the Boston Red Sox seem to have carried New England, with his states to be heard from.

WEEGHMAN GOES TO CINCINNATI.

Chicago Nationals President Pushing Dicker for Herzog.

Chicago, July 18.—President Weeghman, of the Chicago National baseball club, is to be in Cincinnati today for the purpose it is said of negotiating for the services of Charles Herzog, manager and shortstop of the Cincinnati team. Weeghman left on a mid-night train for the Ohio City after a long distance telephone conversation said to have been with the Cincinnati officials.

WILLIAM HAS BUM LEG.

Cleveland, O., July 18.—The champion race pacer William (1:58½) has developed a peculiar form of intermittent lameness in the near hind leg, and Tuesday it was decided by the horse's trainer, Charles Tanner, to retire the stallion for the balance of the season, and all his proposed exhibitions, including one at the Cleveland meeting next week, when his owner, C. K. K. Billings, was to have driven the stallion to wagon against his own best record at that hitch (1:59½), have been cancelled.

BOY, PAGE MR. KELLY.

Chicago, July 18.—A feat seldom seen in baseball was that of Joe Kelly, the newest Cub, in a recent game with Brooklyn here. Kelly followed Zimmerman in the batting order and in that game Zimmerman made four hits, each one being followed by a timely drive from Kelly's bludgeon. His fast base running, good fielding and hard hitting won a home for the Hoosier recruit with the left field bleacherites a few days after he had joined.

HYDROPLANES OPEN EVENTS.

Put-in-Bay, O., July 18.—With the class of the nation's swimmers entered, the A. A. U. 1916 championships are to open here today in connection with the Interlake Yachting association's regatta.

The power boats got away yesterday afternoon in the first of the series of races. The race for the $1,000 hydroplane trophy was won by Miss Minneapolis, a Smith creation, averaging forty-one miles an hour over the bay course. Miss Detroit, a craft that was expected to give Miss Minneapolis a battle for the cup, failed to appear.

HOLDS RACE INSTEAD OF ELGIN RACE.

Chicago, July 18.—The Chicago Speedway association expects to stage a special race on Aug. 19, the date of the Elgin road race, now abandoned. Pending official sanction, which the local association is confident of getting, entry blanks will be mailed out. Prize money amounting to $10,000 will be offered. The race will consist of five heats of twenty miles each and the winners of each will qualify for the final, a fifty-mile event.

DUELLING HAS ALSO FALLEN BY WAYSIDE

France Too Busy in War to Think of Private "Affairs of Honor."

Paris, June 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The duel is one of the ancient institutions of France that has fallen into neglect during the war. The last sensational encounter on the "field of honor"—a bloodless one—took place after the election of the chamber of deputies in 1914, not long before hostilities broke out. It was between Joseph Caillaux, former minister of finance and his unsuccessful opponent Louis d'Aillieres. Caillaux fired into the air and d'Aillieres fired into the ground.

Since that meeting M. d'Aillieres has been grievously wounded an another "field of honor." Acting as intermediary officer between the firing line and the command in the rear, he was hit by a fragment of a shell that claimed him, probably for life.

It is attributed to the fact that so many Frenchmen, like M. d'Aillieres, have shed their blood on the battlefield that the duel has been abandoned and there is a well-defined sentiment that it has come to an end for good and all.

Some credit the "sacred union" of parties and classes with this reform while there are certain proofs that it is due to popular deprecation of personal conflicts between Frenchmen while "the Germans are still at Noyon." The "sacred union" has not prevented disputes and provocations.

Two men contesting for a favorable place from which to witness a review of troops on the Esplanade des Invalides came to blows and one of them tossed his card to the other.

"If you are so eager to fight," cried a bystander, "why don't you do as those boys did," pointing to some armless and legless soldiers lined up before the troops to be decorated.

Two young men in a popular cafe exchanged sarcasms followed by insults, blows and an exchange of cards.

"To Verdun with them!" cried the spectators. "Put them out!"

The manager threw both of them into the street where the idlers jeered them until in common defense they made up their quarrel and walked off together.

There are two hypotheses regarding the duel after the war. In some cases the disputants have both been combatants in the great war and will find it ridiculous to make a show of courage against each other after having already shown it together many times against a common enemy.

If they are not both combatants, they will, one or both of them, have been heroes of the "rear," to whom public opinion will say, "No! No fighting!" If you were so thirsty for blood and so particular about your honor, you would have gotten your satisfaction out of the Germans.

In normal times about four times as many telegrams are handled daily in London as in Paris.

Why Society Women Wash Their Own Hair

Few realize how many society women now wash their own hair, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. The thousands who have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only, say they get the best results from a simple home-made canthrox mixture. You can enjoy this, the best that is known, for about three cents a shampoo by getting some canthrox from your druggist, and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

WAR ROBS MAN-EATING SHARKS OF FOOD; TERRORIZE BATHERS.

New York, July 15.—Mother's darling daughter, taking the parental advice, is staying away from the water at the bathing resorts along the Atlantic coast.

Man-eating sharks have taken a death toll of four lives so far this season, and dampened the ardor for bathing, especially on the New York and New Jersey coasts.

Armed men in swift motor boats are patrolling the waters where sharks have been sighted in the hope of killing off the sea tigers.

The man-eater is one of the largest of the shark family, reaching a length of 30 to 40 feet. It frequents all temperate and tropical seas.

Its body is stout and the caudal fin or "tail" large and strong, gives great swimming power. The nose is square and pointed, mouth large and armed in both jaws with five rows of triangular teeth.

This monster ranges the seas seizing and devouring whatever it is able to overcome. A specimen taken in California had a young sea lion weighing 100 pounds in its pauch.

Like other sharks the man-eater follows ships for many days, feeding on offal thrown overboard. One theory advanced for recent visits to Atlantic coast resorts is that on account of the European war there are few liners crossing the ocean and the sharks are coming nearer the shore for food.

Another theory is that the schools of sharks this year are so large the sharks become more courageous and travel in large numbers.

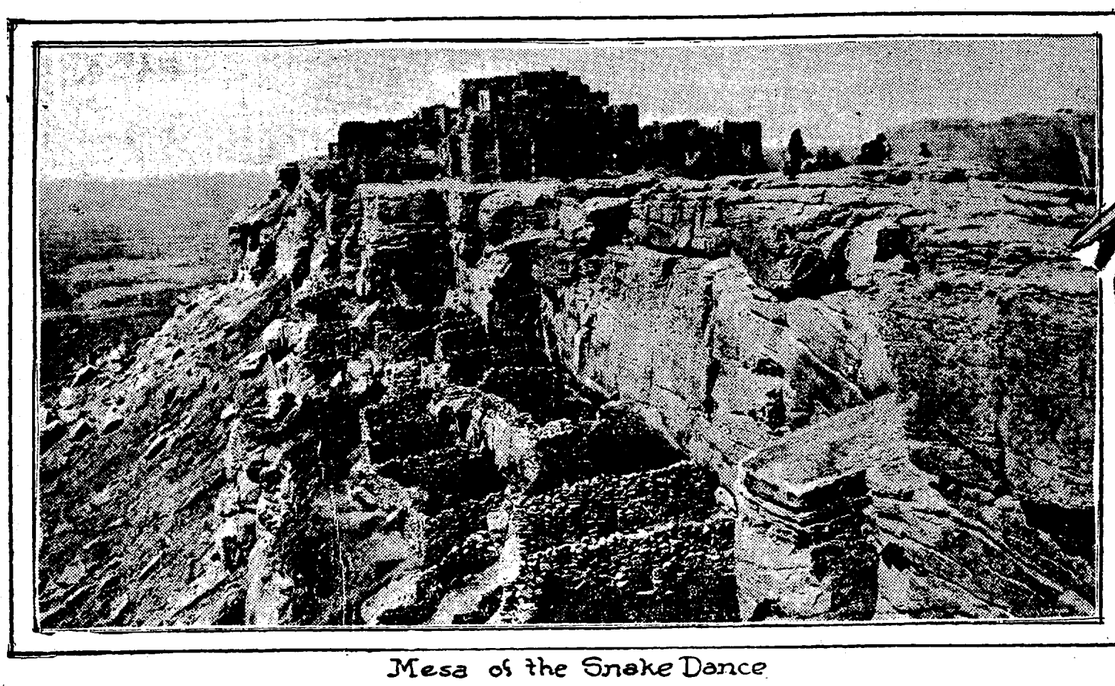
DANCING TO THE GODS



Mesa of the Snake Dance

Indian Rain Makers Have Odd Ceremony Which May Be Carried Out on Reservation This Year. The Snake Dance Is an Annual Feature with Tribes of the Pueblos.

REPORTS from Oklahoma and other sections of the country that the Indian tribes on the reservations are indulging, despite their education, in the old-time superstitious dances handed down as ceremonial rites from medicine men of bygone generations, indicate that the various tribes that formerly indulged unrestrainedly in the many dances that were the most important part of aboriginal Indian ceremonial and festival occasions, still retain their love for such display and their superstitious belief in the legends that surround these dances.

The Creek Indians, particularly, have been unusually active during the early spring, holding a number of tribal celebrations. Plans for the harvest dance have been made by several tribes, and these ceremonies will take place during the late summer, when the harvest moon comes to quarter.

Students of Indian affairs who have given special attention to the dancing proclivities of the red men, are anticipating that besides the many set dances held at stated times during the summer and fall, there will be special rain dances called this year. This belief is engendered by authoritative reports of the likelihood of drought in the country occupied by the tribes. The dances that are expected to be held are those beseeching the Great Spirit to send rain.

There have been many efforts made by scientists and rich men to affect the atmosphere in such a manner as to cause rain. Several schemes have been developed and tried out, very often with success; but the cost of these experiments has been such that the rain-making methods never could be adopted by the farmer in time of need. It seems that the Indians have ways of coaxing rain from the skies that are as successful as any that modern science has been able to develop.

Dynamite Brings Rain

PERHAPS the most successful experiments along this line were those conducted by the late C. W. Post, multimillionaire, at his ranch near Post City, Tex. On several occasions, for the purpose of producing rain, large quantities of dynamite were detonated there. In each instance, according to press reports, rainfall followed, sometimes embracing a large area. Of course, the question remains open whether this was a natural storm, or was precipitation caused by the dynamiting and consequent atmospheric shock.

A certain tribe of Indians in the territory, during the last long period of dryness there, conducted a ceremony that was, so far as concrete results are concerned, as successful as those of Post. The governmental authorities at the time started to interfere with the ceremony, but after a talk with the chiefs of the tribe, concluded that the best thing to do was to let the Indians have their way, especially since they could see that no especial harm would come of the affair.

The Indians, following the instructions handed down by legend through medicine men of a hundred generations, first obtained a snapping turtle, making captive the largest one they could find. This captive was "staked out" on a flat rock, well baked in the sun. Then they danced around the turtle for half a day, the chiefs and medicine men joining in all sorts of incantations, the women looking on, but taking no active part in this section of the ceremony. Following that, the turtle was left until after nightfall, only a guard of honor, composed of the maidens of the tribe, wearing garlands of dried grasses, remaining with the chief medicine man.

When the moon arose, the ceremony entered its second phase. In this all the women except the old and decrepit, joined. To the accompaniment of wierd music and the beat of a drum, the Indian sacred instrument, the dances were resumed with feverish energy, lasting until the sun began to peep over the horizon.

Rain Dance Begins

THEN the third and last part of the ceremony started. This was participated in only by the men—those who would have been the warriors of the tribe in the olden days. Selecting a heavy stick, over which mystic words had been pronounced by the chief medicine man, each Indian took his turn in striking the turtle, gently at first, but gradually increasing the force of his blows until he was exerting all of his muscular strength. All this time, the dancing was continued; and, as each man struck the unfortunate turtle, he emitted a half grunt, half shriek.

Ceremonial Fire Built

THIS was continued until the turtle was reduced to a mere "grease spot." Then a ceremonial fire was built over the remains, and the clubs that had been used in the ceremony were thrown upon it, the fire being carefully watched until the last particle of each stick had been consumed. The ceremony ended when the medicine man and the tribal chief, each taking a handful of the ashes, cast them into the air, and towards each quarter of the compass. About two hours afterwards a heavy rain fell and the entire summer was marked by frequent precipitations.

In the event that the predicted shortage of water comes true, it is expected that those tribes towards the central part of the state, and particularly the ones dependent on the Canadian River for their liquid, will carry out this, or such other ceremonies as their tribal laws prescribe for the bringing of rain.

Among the agricultural tribes of the South and Southwest, particularly in those regions where rainfall is scarce and which now are devoted to irrigation or dry farming by the whites, there were many "rain makers" among the medicine men, but there does not seem to have been any tribal dance in which all participated. Among these tribes, following a period of water scarcity, it was customary to call upon the medicine men to bring a downpour of water. The warriors—and they only, for the women at that time had no standing and no part in any such ceremonies, except the festival of youth and the famous snake dance—would visit the medicine men at their lodges, one after another, beginning with the head medicine man, and continuing until the veriest beginner had been called upon. Then the leaders of the medicine men and the chiefs of the tribe would consult together and name a day for rain-making ceremonies.

On the day appointed, a number of the younger medicine men, chosen by the head of the order, went in procession about the village to the "great medicine lodge," which was a sacred place, the holy of holies. Here it was customary for the priests of the tribe to assemble to sing, gesticulate and burn sweet-smelling herbs to propitiate the Great Spirit.

Rain-Maker Climbs the Roof

THE smoke of the incense escaped from the lodge by an opening in the top, ascending into space as an offering. Then one of the young men climbed to the roof of the cabin, to remain there during the entire day. This was the rain maker, chosen because of his own belief in his powers in making the water fall. There was great rivalry for this honored position and much flow of oratory and boastfulness from the younger medicine men as each endeavored to convince the older heads and the chiefs that he was the one most capable and best fitted to cause the Great Spirit to open the flood gates of the skies.

The rain maker was equipped with bow, arrow and quiver. Otherwise he wore nothing except some wampum. This latter served him as a rosary when he began his ceremonies, which consisted of eloquent prayers to Gitchee Manitou. He prayed as long as there were any untouched beads on his wampum; then he turned to the crowd of villagers assembled beneath him and addressed them in all the fiery eloquence of the Indian. Boastfulness generally was the chief characteristic of this talk; the rain maker told the people of his great powers, laying claim to unusual influence with the Great Spirit because of the superior quality of his "medicine." He wound up his long address by declaring that his buckler would attract the lightning from the clouds.

The concluding part of the ceremony was to draw a gaily ornamented arrow from his quiver and to shoot it with all his strength straight into the heavens, for the purpose of piercing the crust of the clouds and allowing the rain to escape from them.

Authorities say that this produced rain at times, but failed at others. The rain maker who was successful became a hero and powerful medicine man among his people; but he whose medicine failed was compelled to live with the dogs and do the work of a squaw, unless he deserted the tribe.

Worship of springs was a common part of the religions of the dry country tribes, where water was precious and could be found only at widely separated places.

Constant Offerings Made

IN Arizona and New Mexico, on the Western plains and deserts, and ranging south through Central America into Peru, this feature has been found by investigators in the religions of practically all the tribes. Springs, fountains and running streams were the objects of peculiar worship, and legends tell of the mythological spirits that presided over the springs and fountains, causing them to go dry when angered at some action of the Indians, but causing water to flow forth in plenty when the spirit had been propitiated by some sacrificial ceremony. Constant offerings were made, particularly by the maidens of the tribe, to the spirits of the waters in efforts to keep them in a good humor and preserve a plentiful supply for the tribe.

There are many superstitions remaining among the Indians. The Pueblos of Colorado and the states bordering it south and west, where many Indians still live in their aboriginal habitations, are filled with mystic and ceremonial beliefs. The Moquis, one of the Pueblo tribes, are the principals in exploiting the snake dance, and even to the present time these dances are carried out annually with practically all their old-time superstition and ceremony.

First of all, for the snake dance, it is necessary to have about 200 snakes—rattlers preferred. These snakes should be small, if such can be secured, yet it is desirable to have some large ones among the number. The work of gathering snakes starts just one week before the dance is to be held. The young men of the tribe are called to appear before the head medicine man and are commissioned to capture snakes; some go north, some west, some south and others east. Each day the groups move in a different direction, until the final day of the hunt; then, if it appears that there is to be a shortage of snakes, the entire village turns out broadcast to hunt for reptiles. These snakes are kept in the medicine lodge of the village until the time comes for their use.

On the day of the ceremony all those not designated to take part gather at the sacred rock. Near by is erected a special, pen-like structure of buffalo hide, intended for the snakes. Then the procession begins. First comes the head medicine man, painted, as all the others are: The upper part of the face dead black; a white band from the edge of the lower lip to the top of the shoulders; the remainder of the body greenish-black, except for white markings at the wrists and ankles. Rattles of tortoise shell are tied about the knee and each carries in his hand a T-shaped rattle, the combined noises of which give the effect of rain driven by a heavy wind.

Sacred Corn Meal Used

THE head medicine man says a prayer, then sprinkles the ground about him with sacred water, and his chief assistant sprinkles sacred corn meal about; then all prance slowly around the sacred rock, going through the motions of planting corn and chanting a dirge-like music. Then, as a detachment of maids, clad entirely in white and bearing curiously woven baskets filled with corn meal, appears on the scene, the actors who have carried out the first part retire to where the snakes are kept in earthen jars; soon they reappear, carrying the snakes between their teeth. With each snake bearer is a wand bearer, whose duty is to tickle the snake under the chin, distracting its attention from the man who is carrying it, and thus keeping it from biting him. The snakes used in this dance always are venomous, yet there never has been discovered by eye-witnesses any incident of one of the dancers having been bitten.

Those carrying the snakes in their mouths drop them as they approach the line of basket bearers; these, in their turn, sprinkle corn meal over the reptiles; old crones pick them up and carry them to the special pen erected near the sacred rock. When all the reptiles have been so treated, they all are placed on the sacred rock at one time and the warriors and braves dance about the rock to the beating of a drum, while the maidens continue profuse showers of corn meal over snakes and dancers alike.

When the snakes are entirely buried beneath the shower of meal, the music, if it can be so called, ceases; then each of the youths and maidens of the tribe seizes a handful of promiscuous snakes from the pile and darts off at top speed to the limits of the village, where the reptiles are turned loose. While these are running away with the snakes, the others of the Indians, even the onlookers joining in now, dance confusedly about the sacred rock, while the medicine men chant in loud tones until all the bearers have returned. Then all slowly file past the sacred rock and stamp the ground forcibly with the right foot, and the ceremony is concluded.

There are many other interesting dances among the Indians of the various tribes, in some of which sacrifices are used; but it is doubtful if there is any other so dangerous generally to participants and onlookers alike as the snake dance, for all the snakes used, or nearly all, could cause sudden death to any of the Indians if their fangs came into play.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, July 18.—Uneasiness over the black rust danger tended today to harden the price of wheat. The market was bullishly affected also by Liverpool reports that the unfavorable weather in all growing countries was causing British buyers to become nervous.

Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c lower, with July at $1.11 to $1.11⅛ and September at $1.12½ to $1.12¾, were followed by moderate gains all around.

The close was unsettled, ⅛c and ¼@⅜c net lower, with July at $1.11⅛ and September at $1.12⅝.

Dry hot weather sent corn prices up. Temperatures of above 100 continued to be reported from the southwest. After opening ¼c to ⅝c higher, the market underwent something of a reaction and then again became firm.

Yesterday's largest sellers were the most active buyers today. The close was nervous, ¼@⅜c net advance.

Hot weather had only a transient bullish effect on oats. Selling by leading houses proved more than an offset.

Higher quotations on hogs gave strength to provisions. The best demand was for lard and ribs.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, July 18.—Pressure against some of the specialties, notably the automobile group, was renewed at the opening of today's operations, with gains in other quarters General Motors broke 29 to 465, and Willys-Overland was again heavy, with a slight recession in Maxwell, Crucible Steel and Utah Copper. American Can rose a point, with as much for Marine preferred, Industrial Alcohol and Cuban Cane Sugar and three for American Tobacco. Rails were firm, with a further inquiry for Lake Erie and Western and Wisconsin Central. Mexicans hardened later.

Price changes became more variable later with alternate advances and declines in specialties, standard stocks, particularly Union Pacific, Reading, St. Paul, U. S. Steel and Marine preferred, were sufficiently firm to impart a measure of stability except in isolated instances where further unloading of weakened accounts was indicated. Willys-Overland continued to drop, declining to 58¼, its lowest quotation in considerable over a year, but other shares of the same class were comparatively steady. Tobaccos were strong, Lorillard gaining five. Bonds were irregular and lacked especial feature.

Baby Bonds Build Wealth and Character

Baby Bonds are indorsed by many of the local business men, not only because they cultivate savings habits, which they realize is highly desirable in any community, but also for the fact that these savings habits never fail to mold character. Little extravagances, which frequently lead to bad morals, are displaced by a habit of denial which makes character of a higher quality.

Baby Bonds come in $10 denominations, are secured by first mortgages on local real estate, and bear six per cent. interest. There are also some $500 bonds with the same security and the same rate of interest. For further information see any Wildwood Baby Bonds boy or call

WHEAT STRAWS COME FROM ARM OF GIRL

Doctors Baffled by Mysterious Case Which Develops Near Bremen.

South Bend, Ind., July 18.—During a period of less than six weeks 200 wheat straws, from one to thirteen inches long, have come from two sores in the hand of Rossetta Irvin, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Irvin, living seven miles northwest of Bremen. This is the assertion of members of the Irvin family, substantiated by several residents of Bremen and a bundle of straws one and one-half inches thick. The little Irvin girl was brought to South Bend several days ago and was examined by several physicians, including Drs. C. C. Terry, Charles Hansel and R. C. Shanklin. No explanation for the phenomena can be made by the doctors.

Six weeks ago an infection developed between the third and fourth fingers of the Irvin girl. This caused considerable pain and a physician was called. The sore was lanced twice. A few days later a straw appeared, issuing through the infection. This was followed by another and another during a period of several days, until 170 straws were in the Irvin collection. Then the infection began to heal.

Hardly had this place healed until infection appeared just at the base of the girl's thumb. More straws began to make their appearance. Thirty of the straws came from this infection.

Following this, the frightened parents brought the child to Dr. Hansel for examination. A box containing the straws was shown to the physicians who were called into consultation. Several X-ray pictures of the girl's hand and arm were taken, but Dr. Shanklin declared no evidence of any foreign substance was shown by the photographs.

Over the telephone today the mother of the Irvin girl declared the hand was practically healed now and no straws had issued since the two-hundredth, which came several days ago. The girl is not suffering pain and it is believed that the phenomena is ended.

During the period the straws were issuing from the girl's hand she declared she could feel them moving along her arm from the elbow down. Some of the straws forced themselves out, while others were pulled out by those attending the girl. Few of the straws are flattened, most of them retaining their cylindrical form.

FORT WAYNE BATTERY MAY MOVE NEXT WEEK

Cavalry and Artillery Merge and Mustering Continues at Headquarters.

Orders have been received at the battery headquarters in Fort Wayne from Adjutant-General Bridges by Captain John C. Scheffer that as soon as recruiting has reached peace strength of 133 men and five horses that they will be given orders to entrain for Fort Benjamin Harrison. Captain Scheffer is of the opinion since the battery and cavalry troop have decided to merge that this number will be reached by the first part of next week.

At noon Tuesday ninety-four men had been mustered into the battery service. The fifty-four men who had expressed their desire of joining the cavalry troop are all able bodied men, the majority having seen service before and it is very likely that all will pass the physical examination. This would bring the total above peace strength. Wednesday evening Captain Scheffer will be in Hoagland with the examining physician where twenty-three men are expecting to join.

Communications from Adjutant-General Bridges stated that no cavalry would be accepted from this state until an additional battalion of artillery was furnished for immediate service. Under these circumstances the adjutant-general advised that Lieutenant Moriarity go in with Captain Scheffer in the battery. He decided to do so and was mustered in Monday evening.

Other Batteries Recruiting.

Word from Rockville and Indianapolis, where the other two batteries are being formed indicate that the work of recruiting is progressing rapidly. It seems very probable that all three batteries will be at Fort Benjamin Harrison next week. The promise has been given that as soon as the men have received a general tryout at Fort Harrison they will be sent to the border.

As soon as definite orders are received for mobilization, officials in charge of the local recruiting station are expecting a wild rush for enlistment since many men who have successfully passed the physical examination have not taken the oath but are awaiting the arrival of the orders. Captain Scheffer believes that when the time comes to leave the city the battery will be up to war strength, which consists of 176 men and five officers.

HARRISON HILL EASILY REACHED FROM CITY

Harrison Hill, the charming addition located in the angle formed by Calhoun street and Rudisill boulevard, has the advantage of two of the best and shortest routes from the center of the city to any of the higher class southside residential districts. With both Calhoun street and Harrison street running direct to this addition, the actual distance traveled to reach it from the court house is much less than it is necessary to travel to reach the best sections of Wildwood avenue, and this fact is attracting many prospective home owners who wish the advantages of a southside home but who at the same time wish to be able to get back and forth from the business district quickly. The actual figures regarding the time required to reach this section either by auto, car or afoot may be secured from the promoters, Hilgeman & Schaaf, North American building.

EYES OF WORLD ON GRANDSON AS DEATH BECKONS FRANZ JOSEPH.

Archduke Charles, heir-apparent to throne, his wife and children; below, Emperor Franz Joseph.

With death beckoning to Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria, the eyes of the world are focused on the heir-apparent to the throne, Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, and his pretty wife, formerly Princess Zita, who soon may be empress of Austria and apostolic queen of Hungary.

Archduke Charles is the grandson of the present emperor. He is 29 years of age and was married to the Princess Zita, daughter of the late duke of Palma, in 1911. They have two children.

The archduke was educated in the public schools of Vienna. He was the first scion of the house of Hapsburg to take his place on the wooden benches among the sons of the people.

Tall, athletic, good looking, fluent in German, French, Hungarian and the Slav tongues, he is as popular in Hungary as in Austria.

SAYS MILITIAMEN FAIL IN SHOOTING

Need of More Training is Plain, Says Militia Affairs Chief.

(By Frederick M. Kerby.)

Washington, D. C., July 18.—"The average militiaman—as well as the average citizen—does not know how to shoot!"

This statement was made by Col. George W. McIver, assistant chief of the division of militia affairs of the army, next to Gen. A. L. Mills, the responsible officer in charge.

The brave boys who go into the service of their country are not provided by the "higher-ups" with proper means to defend their own lives, according to official reports.

The results of the 1915 rifle practice of the militia will not be available for some months, due partly to the 48-headed militia system under which the war department must wait the pleasure and convenience of state adjutant generals in making reports; but the militia division officers say it is little if any better than the previous year's target shooting. And as to that, Gen. Mills says:

"Reports of small-arms target practice for the calendar year 1914 show a very unsatisfactory state of instruction. No improvement is shown over the previous year; if anything, a worse condition is shown to exist. * * * Preliminary training for target practice is generally neglected. According to the lowest standard that could possibly be accepted, target practice can be considered satisfactory IN ONLY EIGHT STATES and is unsatisfactory in all remaining states."

The actual figures of national guard shooting are startling. In 1914, the total strength of organizations armed with the rifle was 91,570 men. Of these only 49,652—a little over half (54.22 per cent)—EVEN FIRED A RIFLE DURING THE YEAR! And of this number just 31,631 men qualified as SECOND CLASS MEN OR BETTER.

In the whole of the organized militia there were only 5,737 expert riflemen.

Compare this with the results attained in the Swiss citizen army. Switzerland can turn out in three days 250,000 perfectly equipped fighting men, "most of whom," according to the report of Lieut. Col. T. Bentley Mott, U. S. A., to our war department, "are fair shots, and all of whom are accustomed to shooting the army rifle."

In Switzerland, universal education in the public schools up to the age of 15 is compulsory, AND IN SWITZERLAND EVERY LAD LEARNS HOW TO SHOOT! From the age of 20 to 48 every Swiss citizen owes military service to the republic, but long before he presents himself in his twentieth year, the Swiss boy knows all about a rifle.

From the age of 11 to 16 years in the schools there exist cadet corps—voluntary organizations—in which setting up and marching exercises are given, and which the state furnishes with a light cadet musket and ammunition for target practice.

Between 16 and 20 the Swiss boy may, if he chooses (and he generally does,) become a member of a preparatory military organization, to which the regular army rifle is furnished by the government.

All over Switzerland, in addition, are shooting clubs—rifle shooting is the national pastime.

The Swiss government sees to it the poorest peasant can practically own a $20 rifle, receive free ammunition, and get more on easy terms; then it is made to his financial advantage to learn to shoot, and every day he puts in on it reduces automatically the time he must spend on it while under military training.

In the United States, in 1914, the "higher-ups" of the militia of four states—Illinois, Montana, Nebraska and Pennsylvania—simply submitted no report at all to the war department on militia rifle firing. North Carolina and West Virginia militia officials submitted reports that were so unintelligible they could not be included in the tables, and in South Carolina and Virginia, NO RIFLE PRACTICE AT ALL WAS HELD IN 1914!

New Course of Study Advocated for Chicago Schools.

Chicago, July 18.—A new course of study to comprise the time-honored reading, writing and arithmetic, is to displace the present system in the Chicago public schools, if a report of a special committee is adopted by the board of education at its meeting tomorrow. The committee agreed on recommendations of John D. Schoop, superintendent of schools at a meeting last night.

The course established a few years ago provided for alternation by semesters of arithmetic, geography and history. The new plan contemplated the teaching of these studies continuously, as for instance, arithmetic from the kindergarten through the Eighth grade in all semesters.

M'INTYRE AND WIFE DIE IN WRECKAGE

Police Held at Bay for an Hour — Hundreds of Shots Exchanged.

Chicago, July 18.—H. J. McIntyre, a negro religious fanatic, becoming violently insane, today shot four persons to death, wounded three and was himself killed, with his wife, after 150 police had dynamited the house in which he was barricaded.

McIntyre's wife is supposed to have assisted him, at least to the extent of reloading his weapons, as a cartridge belt was found around her waist similar to the one worn by her husband. Her head was blown off by the explosion of dynamite.

The dead:

Stuart Dean, 60, policeman.

Mrs. Josephine Overmeyer, 28, neighbor.

Edward Knox, 34, negro, neighbor.

Alfred Matthews, 30, negro, neighbor.

H. J. McIntyre, negro, the crazed man, 30.

The injured:

Mrs. Sadie Knox, wife of Edward Knox, bullet wound in back; serious.

Hundreds of Shots Exchanged.

Hundreds of shots were exchanged between the crazed slayer and the police, who besieged his flat in a two story brick structure at 320 North Irving avenue.

After three charges of dynamite had been exploded and an attempt made to fire the structure with gasoline, McIntyre and his wife, who were armed with powerful rifles, were shot to death. The police were held at bay for more than an hour.

The explosions blew the rear porch and part of the kitchen into the alley

Big Submarine Ready to Start Return Trip in Few Hours.

Baltimore, Md., July 18.—That the German merchant marine Duetschland would finish loading her cargo by tonight and be ready to leave within a few hours, was the belief today of observers who have been closely watching the boat and activities about her since she was docked here on Monday morning of last week.

It was recalled today that Captain Paul Konig had stated to customs officials when he entered his arrival at the customs house that he thought he would sail on his return voyage within ten days. That period is up tomorrow. The captain has not applied for his clearance papers at the custom house up to noon today. Captain Konig answered all questions as to the Deutschland's departure with a smile, saying "that would be very interesting information, I am sure."

Officials of the Eastern Forwarding company were as reicent as Captain Konig. "We cannot and will not say when the boat will start back," was their invariable response.

Stevedores said the crude rubber and nickel composing its cargo will be sored in the boat before nightfall.

Five of the cars are to be equipped with regular hospital beds and have large side doors for loading and unloading stretchers; two will be of the regulation sleeper type, equipped with extra fans, medicine cabinets and ice tanks; one will carry a complete operating room and another a kitchen large enough to care for over 200 sick.

In addition to the regular army personnel the train will carry a special corps of army nurses to serve in the wards and operating car. The cars will be painted maroon, with the insignia of the army medical department.

WILSON ASKS MORE ACTION

Wants Workmen's Compensation and Child Labor Bills Enacted.

GOES TO CAPITOL TO SEE SENATOR KERN

Both Measures Had Been Side-Tracked by the Caucus Program.

Washington, July 18.—Shortly after noon today President Wilson went to the capitol. It was the first visit he had made there in many months.

At the capitol the president conferred in his private room with Senator Kern, the democratic leader. It was understood that the president is very desirous of having the workingmen's compensation and child labor bills included in the legislative program. They were sidetracked by the caucus.

It was announced at the white house last week that the president planned to write a letter to Senator Kern urging the adoption o fthe workmen's compensation act and the child labor bill. Yesterday aVnce McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee stated that the president did not want to be formally notified of his renomination until congress had adjourned and it was intimated a delay in adjournment was expected by the president's insistence that these measures be passed.

The president's visit to the capitol was entirely unexpected to administration leaders. When he reached the capitol building he went direct to his room. There was no one to meet him but at

MAIN VILLA BAND IS REPORTED IN FLIGHT

The Villistas apparently are making for Tepehuenes, about 120 miles south of Parral, where it is expected they may make a stand.

Gen. Elizondo reported from San Francisco de Borja that the only bandits in the Benito Juarez section of Chihuahua state have been wiped out by troops at Sierra Baquischic. Seven Villistas were executed. Gen. Trevino announced reports in the United States of defection to Villa of several amnestied leaders were without foundation.

Ft. Wayne Man Attempts Suicide Along Country Road Near Van Wert.

FIRST TELLS OF BEING HELD-UP

Peter Anostosoff Will Die from Wounds Inflicted While Despondent.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Van Wert, O., July 18.—Peter Anostosoff, 23 years old, who is employed in Fort Wayne, is at the point of death at the county hospital from bullet wounds which he inflicted with suicidal intent. He cannot recover.

The confession that he had attempted suicide was made to the sheriff this morning, after he had told of having been held up by two Americans, robbed and then left dying at the side of the road.

About midnight a farmer living seven miles east of here heard somebody knocking at his door and pleading most pitifully to let him in. The farmer rushed to the door and as he opened it Anostosoff fell in, blood streaming from his mouth and from a bullet hole in his left side, just below the heart.

Anostosoff told the farmer of being held up and in resisting had been shot twice, one in the mouth and then below the heart. He spoke feebly and had scarcely finished his story when he lapsed into unconsciousness. The farmer notified the authorities and Anostosoff was removed to the county hospital, where he was given immediate medical attention.

Revolver Is Found.

Early this morning the sheriff visited the spot where Anostosoff claimed he had been attacked. Near a pool of blood he found a revolver. It had been thrown to one side and was in some high grass. There was no evidence of any struggle, no footprints of two other men and the sheriff became suspicious. The story did not sound good to him. He next visited the hospital and found Anostosoff conscious and apparently resting much easier. He did not question him long when Anostosoff between sobs confessed that he had shot himself. He told why he wanted to die.

Wife and Daughter in Old Country.

Anostosoff is a Macedonian. He came to this country two or three years ago to win his fame and fortune, leaving his wife and daughter behind. When he had earned a sufficient amount to provide a comfortable home he had intended to send for them and had looked forward to that time with great expectancy and anticipation.

Monday, he told the sheriff, he received a letter that had changed his dream into a nightmare and believing

HIGH PAPER COST TO RAISE PENNY SHEETS

Washington, July 18.—"The 1 cent newspaper will be a thing of the past within a short time," predicted Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield yesterday. "Prices have increased all along the line on nearly all commodities, and within the last few months there has been a steady increase in the price of the materials entering into the making of news print paper and an increased demand for paper.

"The indications are that early this fall when new contracts are made, or before, there will be further increases in news print paper prices, and publishers will be unable to get out 1 cent papers without a loss, and an increase in price will be imperative.

"From information which has reached me, I am of the opinion that advertising rates will have to be increased also, as it appears that the increased cost of paper cannot be made up alone by the increase in the price of the newspaper."

STORES MAY CLOSE SATURDAY NIGHTS

Many Fort Wayne business men were visited Tuesday by W. H. Rohan, of the firm of Wolf & Dessauer, getting their opinion regarding the closing of their stores at 6 o'clock every Saturday evening during July and August. The plan met with the approval of every firm he visited. They will be asked to sign an agreement to close later.

It seems very possible that this will become a city wide movement and that before another week has gone by all the retail stores of the city will enter into the agreement.

Business men state that all the people or nearly all have an opportunity to do their shopping on Saturday afternoon.

J. B. Franke Again Named President

J. B. FRANKE.

J. B. Franke, of this city, was re-elected president, Monday, at the annual meeting of the Sylvan Lake Improvement association, composed of the summer cottagers at Rome City. Five new members of the board of directors were also elected. Officers named were as follows: J. B. Franke, president; W. J. Barr, vice president; Charles M. Niezer, treasurer, and A. H. Perfect, secretary. The new directors who will serve for a period of three years are: J. B. Harper, W. R. Klaehn, W. J. Barr, G. A. Berghoff and W. B. Donaldson.

ALL DEPENDS ON WHAT POLITICAL PARTIES DO

Suffragists Not Going to Stand for Anybody Who is Against 'Em.

New York, July 18.—The meeting called by the national woman's party to be held in Colorado Springs Aug. 10, 11 and 12, will be the most important suffrage conference ever held in this country, says Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the Woman's Congressional union, who came here today to make arrangements for the approaching campaign.

"The action of this conference," Miss Paul added, "will depend upon what the democratic party will do for the women or what Hughes will promise to do or what the socialist party or the progressive party will do. We will certainly not stand for anyone who is against us and the federal amendment."

Miss Paul said she was looking for twenty-four able women for campaign managers to take charge of the twenty-four districts into which the twelve suffrage states will be divided. The speakers already chosen for the campaign that will follow this conference are Mrs. John Rogers, jr., Miss Helen Todd, Mrs. Rita Child Dorr, Mrs. Florence Bayard Hillis, Mrs. Sarah Bardfield, Mrs. Wm. Kent, Miss Maud Younger and Miss Rose Winslow.

COUPLE MEETS AND COURTSHIP IS ENDED

Love Affair Was Carried by Means of Mail—Deception Was Practiced.

Hagerstown, N. D., July 18.—Because they resorted to the innocent deception of sending each other photographs of moving picture stars, Miss Esther Gulbranson, of Minneapolis, and William Benjamin failed to recognize each other when they met in Hagerstown, according to appointment, to be married.

"No wonder I did not recognize him," Miss Gulbranson said.

She had received, she said, a picture of Maurice Costello, while Mr. Benjamin said the photograph he got through the mail was that of a screen beauty, famous the world over.

The romance began through a matrimonial paper. The marriage was called off.

NEW REGION IN DANGER

South Carolin a is Now Seriously Menaced by the Flood's Peril.

WATERS SWEEP FROM MOUNTAIN REGIONS

Death List Now Stands at Fifteen, With an Equal Number Missing.

Atlanta, Ga., July 18.—As North Carolina fields slowly receded today the situation in South Carolina grew serious. High waters were sweeping down from the mountain regions, many streams were out of their banks and the state was threatened by the most destructive floods in its history. The death list from high waters in five southeastern states today stood at fifteen, with thirteen or more missing. The property loss was put at $15,000,000.

Rescue parties searched the swollen Catawba river all night near Belmont, N. C., for ten construction workmen who went down with the Southern railway bridge there Sunday. Ten others were taken from treetops late yesterday, but the missing men are believed to have been drowned.

While the situation was greatly improved in the region around Asheville and Biltmore, where six persons lost their lives, reports from other districts showed damage far in excess of that first reported. Three million dollars damage was done to property in Yadkin county, N. C., and a food shortage was reported. Many manufacturing plants were demolished; crops were ruined; railway damage was reported and the population was described as being in need of immediate help.

Floods around power plants in the inundated area have caused great loss. Textile and other industries have also suffered.

In Charlotte alone one million cotton spindles were made idle. No street cars are operating in that city and kerosene, candles and a limited gas supply furnished the only light last night.

Rivers in east Tennessee today were at their highest stages in fourteen years, and rising. Great quantities of debris floated down from the mountain districts. Railroads throughout the district were heavy sufferers, and the loss in bridges alone probably will reach more than a million dollars.

Greatly improved conditions are reported in Virginia and West Virginia. Streams are falling and normal conditions are being reported. The New river valley suffered estimated property loss of approximately $2,000,000, the Norfolk & Western railway sustaining about one-half the damage. Giles county is said to have been damaged to the extent of $2,000,000. Pearsburg was entirely inundated. The Holston and Clinch rivers are receding after causing damage that probably will reach a million dollars.

Railroad officials believe it will be several weeks before normal train schedules are restored.

ELKUS IS NAMED FOR CONSTANTINOPLE POST

Washington, July 18.—Abram Elkus, of New York, was nominated by President Wilson today as ambassador to Turkey to succeed Henry Morgenthau, who retired to become chairman of the finance committee of the democratic national committee. Mr. Elkus is a lawyer and was recommended by Mr. Morgenthau.

Mr. Elkus is fifty years old and was born and educated in New York city, where he began practicing law in 1888. He had been prominent at the bar and some time ago was considered by President Wilson for a place in the federal court in New York. He has been one of the leaders of the American Jews.

CRYING BABY CAUSES ALL THIS EXCITEMENT

Hammond, Ind., July 18.—A crying baby resulted in the serious injury of three men, the issuing of a riot call to the police and the arrest of two men charged with trespass.

When neighbors of Dan Opaich heard the screams of the child they thought Opaich was beating his wife and four men headed by George Kish and William Kovich were appointed a committee to go to the Opaich home to restore peace. When they arrived Opaich and his wife defended their home against the intruders so successfully that the police had to rescue the members of the committee, and the trespass charges followed.

BART THINKS FRIENDS STOLE HIS MACHINE

Louis Bart believes that his "friends" stole his big Hudson super six automobile Monday afternoon and caused him to put police on its trail. The experience cost Bart a neat sum for telephone and telegraph expenses and no end of worry. The turmoil in which all surrounding towns were notified, and police scoured the city, lasted half an hour.

Bart says he left his car standing on Fourth street while he transacted some business. It was gone when he returned for it a few minutes later. It was found around on Calhoun street, two blocks away. Bart says he thinks some of his jovial friends passed that way and recognizing the utomobile moved it for a joke.

DREW SALARY IN ADVANCE

State Examiner Testifies to Practice of Trustee Scherer.

RESTORED BEFORE GRAND JURY MET

Township Books Were Kept as Required by Law He Declares.

Testimony showing that Trustee Henry P. Scherer, on trial in the circuit court on the charge of misappropriating funds belonging to Wayne township, had been in the habit of drawing his salary in advance was introduced by the state Tuesday morning. According to James R. Haefling, a state accountant, who had examined the township books, Mr. Scherer always referred to withdrawals he made as salary drawn before it was due. Trustee Scherer's total withdrawal, evidence showed, was $7,248.

The last witness introduced by the state before adjournment for the noon recess was Miss Martha Branning, bookkeeper in Mr. Scherer's office, who, in addition to her testimony, produced books of the office, including the cash book, depository record and the bankbook.

Noticed Some Discrepancies.

Miss Branning testified to first observing discrepancies in the accounts of the office in February, 1915. The books,

EPIDEMIC HAS TAKEN NEW SPURT IN GOTHAM

Pronounced Advance After Belief Disease Had Been Checked.

New York, July 18.—After health officials had declared they believed the epidemic of infantile paralysis to be under control the disease made a pronounced advance today. The daily bulletin of the health department shows an increase of nearly 100 per cent in deaths and of more than 30 per cent in new cases.

During the twenty-four hours preceding 10 o'clock this morning the plague killed twenty-six children and there were 121 new cases reported. During the same period ending yesterday there were only fourteen deaths and ninety-five new cases in the five boroughs of New York city.

GERMANS SCORE AGAINST FRENCH

Regain Section of Territory Along the Canal Near Biaches.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Following up their successes near Bazentin-le-Petit and Longuevall, where they have driven close to the third line of German defense on the Albert plateau, the British now have carried out a new thrust forward north of Ovillers, making substantial progress along a front of more than a half mile.

The British drive was launched near the left flank of the line active in the present offensive, southeast of Thiepval and if followed up seems likely to threaten seriously the strongly held German position at Pozieres, to the east.

The expected counter attacks of the Germans in efforts to recapture ground recently won by the allies in the Somme offensive have materialized along the front occupied by the French south of the Somme.

In an attack last night on the French lines between La Maisonnette and Biaches the Germans succeeded in regaining territory along the canal east of Biaches. Their assault on La Maisonette itself, a costly operation, was a failure, says this afternoon's Paris bulletin.

In the Verdun region there has been further activity. The French fire broke up a German raid on hill 304 west of the Meuse, while grenade fighting on the eastern bank of the river resulted in advantage to the French according to the Paris report.

Belgian troops have won an important success in German Africa, dispersing a German force near Lake Victoria in the northern part of the colony.

London, July 18.—(2 p. m.)—Substantial progress by the British on a front of 1,000 yards north of Ovillers was announced today by the war office.

FORT WAYNE AFTER NEXT CONVENTION

(Special to The Sentinel.)

St. Louis, Mo., July 18.—If Fort Wayne does not get the next annual convention of the Walther League in session here this week it will not be because of the boosters who have been sent here for that purpose. They are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts and the prospects are that they will succeed. They are working night and day and no delegate has escaped their appeal.

Fort Wayne Soldier Loses Life in Texas

Private Floyd R. Wolfe, member of Company E, First Regiment, Third Battalion, Indiana National Guard, son of C. A. Wolfe, 1626 East Wayne street, was drowned while in bathing in Llano lake, near Mercedes, Texas, where the company is stationed, according to a telegram received Tuesday by Captain John E. Miller from Captain Ray McAdams, in command of the Fort Wayne boys.

The telegram gave no particulars except to say the drowning was accidental. It reads as follows: "Private Floyd R. Wolfe drowned accidentally. See his people and wire us."

Immediately upon receipt of the message Captain Miller went to the Wolfe home. He was met by Mr. Wolfe, who at once knew that something was wrong.

"Tell me all, I know it is bad news," he told the captain. The telegram was then read to him. The body will be brought here for burial.

Young Wolfe, who was 18 years and nine months old, joined Company E a few days before its departure for Fort Benjamin Harrison. Captain Miller said he was developing into a splendid soldier and was liked by all the members of the company. His death is the first fatality in Company E since it left Fort Wayne some weeks ago. The father is employed at the Electric works.

Prohis Put Blame on Parker's Rallying Cry

St. Paul, July 18.—John M. Parker's rallying cry to progressives for a new national convention of the party in Chicago, August 5, was blamed by prohibition leaders here today for the collapse of their plans for a big "get together" conference, at which they had hoped to enroll as members of their organization scores of men who have been prominent in the progressive, republican and democratic parties. Instead of a "get together" 'event, the meeting became a prohibition love feast and revival service.

The leaders had expected William Allen White and Victor Murdock of Kansas; Judge Albert D. Norton, of St. Louis, and perhaps Col. Parker himself to meet with them and pledge their affiliation with the prohibition party. But none of these appeared today. Judge Norton's contribution to the "get together" conference was a telegram to Virgil G. Hinshaw, national chairman of the prohibition party, in which he expressed regret at his inability to attend the meeting, but assured Mr. Hinshaw he was "with him in spirit."

Judge Norton added that he was morally bound to support Col. Parker's candidacy. He said he would work for the incorporation of a prohibition plank in the new progressive platform, however.

"They are afraid to join until they know we intend to go after the votes with a ticket every progressive can support conscientiously," said Mr. Hinshaw, referring to the absent progressives. After sending a private telegram to St. Paul last night in which he declared he would not accept the prohibition nomination for president, Eugene Foss, former governor of Massachusetts, returned to the list of nomination possibilities today with a telegram to Mr. Hinshaw, in which he said "I have thought someone else might better make the fight but if in the judgment of the convention I seem to be the only one to lead, I would give the nomination every consideration."

SIR ROGER'S PLEA FAILS

Casement's Appeal Against Verdict Declaring Him Guilty Dismissed.

HIGH COURT ACTS IN PROMPT FASHION

Irishman's Friends, Hoping for Reprieve, Set Out to Assist Him.

London, July 18.—(10:30 a. m.)—Without hearing the attorneys for the crown, the court of criminal appeal today dismissed Sir Roger Casement's appeal from the verdict of the lower courts, which found him guilty of treason, for which Viscount Reading, the lord chief justice, sentenced him to death.

For a day and a half Alexander Sullivan, Sir Roger's counsel, argued before the court, quoting many authorities in favor of his contention that the offense of treason depended upon whether the accused dwelt under the protection of the king and that the crime could not be committed without the realm. He abandoned his other points in regard to the lord chief justice's definition of the offense.

As soon as Mr. Sullivan had concluded his argument the court retired to consider whether the attorneys of the crown would be called upon to reply. It soon decided to the contrary, which indicated that the appeal had gone against Sir Roger, who was present under the argument and when judgment was given.

Further Appeal Possible.

A further appeal to the house of lords is possible only if the attorney general gives a certificate that the decision of the court of criminal appeal involves a point of law so exceptionally important that it is desirable in the public interest that a still higher court should deal with it. This has been done only twice since the court of criminal appeal was established eight years ago.

Justice Darling, in delivering the judgment, expressed the indebtedness of the court to Mr. Sullivan for his well considered and well delivered arguments as the justice characterized them, "as worthy of the king's courts," but declared he had been answered by the attorneys of the crown at the first trial.

Strong Hopes of Reprieve.

Attorney Michal Francis Doyle, of Philadelphia, of counsel for Sir Roger, expressed the opinion today that it was improbable the attorney general would certify the case for appeal to the house of lords as the appeal court did not consider it necessary to hear argument for the government.

Powerful influences are working for a reprieve, said the attorney, and there were strong hopes of one being granted.

Fiume is a city of about 40,000 at the northeastern extremity of the Adriatic sea. It is an important sea port. There have been several earth disturbances recently in the region of the Adriatic, principally in lower Italy and Sicily.

TAXI DRIVER FINED FOR FAST DRIVING

Charles Cooper Will Also Have License Revoked—Police Court News.

Charles Cooper, 48, taxi driver, was fined $50 and costs in the city court Tuesday morning, and his license to pilot a car will be taken from him because he was convicted of running his machine on Broadway while intoxicated, Monday afternoon.

"The two most dangerous things today are a drunken man with a loaded revolver and an intoxicated man with a loaded automobile. Of these the latter is the more dangerous," Judge Kerr told Cooper.

Mrs. Albert Graige, 1649 High street, who were in the jitney, testified that Cooper exceeded the speed limit while coming towards town and that he drove the car from one side of the street to the other. At the Broadway corner he struck an interurban car and they insisted on leaving the jitney. They deemed it unsafe to ride further, they said.

Cooper denied being intoxicated. He said he struck the interurban car to miss an ice wagon. He has lived in Fort Wayne twenty-six years he said.

Speeder Fined.

Walter Bechtol, 20, 1412 West Washington street, who drives an automobile for H. P. Perfect, was fined $35 and costs for exceeding the speed limit on Runnion avenue, Monday afternoon. Near the corner of West Main street he passed the board of works machine. In the car was Frank Singrey, Mayor Hosey and Frank Randall, city engineer.

Their hair stood on end as he whizzed past them, they said. Singrey testified that while they were traveling about fifteen miles an hour and in the same direction that Bechtol was running the Buick roadster, yet their machine would have been wrecked if Bechtol had struck them. Bechtol tried to make the turn at the Main street crossing and ran up on the sidewalk, the men claim. Hosey reported the affair to the police. Bechtol pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding.

Did Not Steel Rabbits.

William Ward, 25, did not steal the ten rabbits which Simon Hanes, 1813 Winter street, missed from his park last week, Judge Keer decided. Ward raised the rabbits which Hanes found in the Ward back yard. Ward has been keeping rabbits for two years, a dozen neighbors testified.

Hanes claimed that he know the rabbits were his because one of them had a mark on its left ear like the mark which one of his missing hares carried. Judge Kerr decided he was mistaken and found Ward not guilty of the petit larceny charge.

Negro Released.

James Holmes, the negro charged with assaulting Charles West, also colored, who was found by the police a week ago in his room on Lafayette street with a long gash across his back, was turned loose because of lack of evidence against him. As soon as West was sufficiently recovered he stole away from the St. Joseph hospital, where he was confined, and disappeared. His whereabouts are unknown.

Holmes admitted cutting West but said it was in self-defense as West struck him with a piece of iron.

Other Police Court Cases.

Ernest Thieme, charged with child neglect will be tried Wednesday morning. Witnesses for the prosecution did not appear Tuesday.

William Roemister, charged with public intoxication will be tried Wednesday. Edward Hamilton, colored, charged with loitering, was released. Bruno Striek, charged with loitering, was allowed to leave town.

YOUTH WHO SHOT AT TRAIN HELD IN JAIL

Condition of Wounded Passengers Will Determine the Final Charge.

Kenneth Gallagher, 22, the farmer boy who shot and wounded five passengers riding on the vestibule of the Pennsylvania limited, last Thursday, does not know why he shot at the flying train, he told in police court Tuesday. He is held in jail under $300 bond for trial next Saturday. If any of those wounded by the scattering shots from the gun discharged by Gallagher die, he will be charged with manslaughter.

Elmer Reimenshneider, 21, also employed on the Dave Smith farm, near Maples, and who sat by the side of Gallagher, thirty yards from the track, said that Gallagher gave no warning before he fired the gun at the train.

"Did you say anything to Gallagher after the shooting?" the prosecutor asked Reimenshneider.

"'A person ought not to do a thing like that,' I told him."

Both the boys were dressed in faded overalls when they appeared in court Tuesday. Their light hair was disheveled. They are tall and gaunt and show marks of toil from their early youth. Reimenshneider is an orphan who has "worked out" ever since he can remember. Neither of them seem to realize the seriousness of the charge against Gallagher.

If convicted, it will mean that the young man is subject to imprisonment for from thirty days to six months and can be fined from $10 to $100 for shooting at a passenger train. Judge Kerr intimates that he will make the sentence reasonably light, although he intends to discourage any practice of shooting at passing trains.

The gun belonged to Reimenshneider. The two boys had been hunting because it was too rainy to work in the hay field.

"I don't know what ever made me shoot at the train. I didn't mean to hurt anybody," Gallagher said.

He confessed his guilt to Captain Stoll, of the Pennsylvania railroad detective service as soon as arrested, Stoll said. A farmer living near the scene of the shooting and who saw the boys with the gun crossing a field told the railroad police to hunt up the lads.

The people who were wounded by the scattering shots were injured in the legs and arms. One of them is in Pittsburg, one in Philadelphia and one in New York. Captain Stoll has been unable to learn of the condition of any of the patients during the past two days. He will report to the court Saturday morning. The fine shots pierced the skin in every case, but infection is the only danger.

WIFE'S LETTER CAUSE OF IT

the future held nothing for him but sadness he planned to end it all and purchasing a revolver had gone to the country road and at the midnight hour shot himself twice. His wife had written to him that she no longer cared for him and that she had found another. It was the first intimation that he had had of his wife's infidelity.

Lost His Nerve.

After he had shot himself, Anostosoff realized what he had done. After all life to him seemed brighter and far better than in his despair he had pictured it. So he crawled to the nearest farmhouse, awakened the household, and in an effort to hide his mistake told the story of having been held up.

The name Peter Anostosoff does not appear in the Fort Wayne city directory.

that moment a senate attendant passed the door. The president called to him: "Young man," said the president, "could you get Senator Kern for me?" The clerk returned with the majority leader from Indiana. They conferred for several minutes after which Senator Martin of Virginia, and Vice President Marshall entered the president's room. The conference concerned the legislative program and the time of adjournment of congress which the democrats have tentatively fixed at August 19.

The president, it is understood, urged that the child labor and workmen's compensation measures be included in the imperative legislative program. He sought to bring about an arrangement that would not delay adjournment, as he wishes to begin the campaign not later than Sept. 1, and notification ceremonies necessarily must be held prior to that time.

Senator Kern, while not revealing the details of the conference, said he thought any change of plans would not mean any postponement of adjournment.

Besieged for Explanation.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance mommittee, joined the postmaster general and Senator stopped at the door to shake hands. Later Mr. Wilson sent for Senators Williams and Hughes. While he waited for them he stepped outside of hi soffice for a few minutes. He was besieged for an explanation of his visit.

"It is simply a matter of program," declared the president. "I wanted to see several of the senators about a legislative program and thought it would be simpler to come here rather than call them to the white house."

Senators asked the leaders what was going on and were informed that the president was interested in the child labor bill and that he was making argument to southern senators who were inclineed to hold the measure back.

The president returned to the white house after an hour of conferences. Senators James, Owen and Hughes were his last three visitors.

and when the police were able to enter the building it was a wreck.

Explanation in Note.

They found an explanation of McIntyre's deed in a note which he left scrawled in lead pencil on a soiled piece of wrapping paper.

"The Almighty God has made me a prophet unto all nations and also my wife, Hattie McIntyre," ran the note. "You shall know that the Lord has sent me to gather unto the Lord the remnant of the Adonic seed."

At this place in the scrawl the negro wrote three capital C's and the initials "P. H."

"The Lord has made me the saviour of all Africans of America and now I shall recommend all that are worthy unto my heavenly father, the great God of all creation. The Lord has given me a spirit to judge the quick and the dead.

"I must die in this land that I may carry my reports unto Almighty God concerning the land of the United States."

In the opinion of the police McIntyre wrote the letter just before becoming violent, although he had opportunity to do so between lulls while the bluecoats, having been repulsed, were under cover.

she said, were posted every month. Checks, she declared, drawn, but not returned from the bank, were recorded by her as missing checks. She said there were times when she placed white slips in her record to take the place of missing checks as she had to post her accounts from the vouchers. She testified that Mr. Scherer always brought the bankbook, with the checks, to her from the Hamilton National bank in order that she could post her office books.

Defense Takes Witness.

The defense took Miss Branning on cross-examination but a short time before the noon court recess. The defense was met with an objection of the state, which was sustained, to its question of whether or not the checks in Mr. Scherer's accounts were not outstanding as checks might be in any business. Judge S. M. Hench, of the state, objected to the cross-examination on the ground that it was speculation.

A question as to the accessibility of the records in the office of the township trustee was held admissible in evidence over the objection of the state. The state witness, Miss Branning, said the books of the trustee were kept in locked quarters.

State Accountant Testifies.

James R. Haefling, a state accountant, was a state witness at the opening of the Scherer trial Tuesday morning. He examined the report of the Wayne township trustee for the year 1915. He testified that Mr. Scherer always referred to withdrawals he made as salary drawn in advance. The witness testified to a total difference of $4,073 in Mr. Scherer's cash book, the one in which monies of the trustee's office were recorded, and his passbook, the one presented to the bank.

Cross-Examine Witness.

On cross-examination the witness said Mr. Scherer kept all the books required by law. Mr. Haefling started work on the Wayne township trustee's report January 22, examining the record for the fiscal year of 1915 ending December 31. He testified of conferences which Scherer held with him and said all sums which Mr. Scherer had drawn over those to which he was entitled had been restored before the grand jury was called. The sum of $100 used in paying labor Mr. Scherer used in January, 1916, the evidence showed, and this was restored in February.

Question Over Evidence.

The court admitted evidence showing that Scherer paid 6 per cent interest on the money drawn over the amount to which he was entitled in salary in office. The banks pay 2 per cent. The state then showed that interest on county funds in banks reverted to a tuition fund.

The court sustained an objection of the state to introduction of testimony showing that Scherer at all times had a sufficient bond to save the township any loss. The state held the bond matteer immaterial.

Motion Overruled.

Judge Eichhorn Monday overruled a motion of attorneys for the defense that Scherer's case be postponed until the September term of court. It was alleged the case could not be tried while court was not really in session, Judge Eggeman having adjourned the circuit branch several weeks ago.

The court also overruled motion of Frank A. Emrick, prosecuting attorney, that Scherer be required to produce checks upon which he is alleged to have drawn money from the Hamilton National bank.

Accountant on Stand.

Leonard Schroeder, member of the state board of accounts, testifying Monday, said that in one year Scherer drew more than $6,000, applying it to his own use. The money was paid back, however, and the defense questioned the witness to prove that Scherer was charged 6 per cent interest on the township money borrowed, and that the money was better off in the trustee's hands at that rate of interest than in the bank at a lower rate.

ville)—Heavy attacks last night by the British against Posieres on the Somme front and positions to the east were repulsed as were attacks by the French at Biaches, La Maisonette, Barleux and Soyecourt, according to the official headquarter's statement today.

The complete repulse of Russian attacks in the region west and southwest of Lutsk was announced today by the war office.

South and southeast of Riga the Russian continued their strong offensive, but their assaults broke down before the German trenches had been penetrated.

ADMIT GERMAN GAINS

Paris, July 18.—The Germans made an attack last night on the French line south of the Somme and gained ground in the vicinity of Biaches, the war office announced today.

The German attack was delivered against the French positions from Biaches to La Maisonette. Several attempts to take La Maisonette failed with heavy loss to the Germans, the statement says, but groups of the attacking forces spread along the canal along the east side of Biaches where the fighting continues. A German raid on Hill 304, on the Verdun front west of the Meuse, was broken up by French infantry fire. East of the river there was fighting with grenades in which the advantage rested with the French. The artillery was active about La Laufee and Chenois.

Praises Troops at Verdun.

In an army order in which he communicated to his troops, a congratulatory address sent them by the French Academy Gen. Robert George Nivelle, commander of the French forces at Verdun, says:

"Thanks to the heroic stand of the army before Verdun the allied offensive already has made brilliant progress—and the Germans are not at Verdun.

"Our work is not finished. No Frenchman has a right to a moment's rest while the enemy remains on the soil of France and Alsace and Lorraine. To enable the allies' offensive to develop freely and culminate in a rapid decisive victory, we will continue to withstand the assaults of our enemies, who notwithstanding the sacrifice of half a million men which Verdun already has cost them, still cling to their main hopes. Not satisfied with resisting soldiers of the second army, you will constantly harass the adversary so as to hold before you by ceaseless menace the greatest possible part of the enemy forces until the approaching hour of the general offensive."

Mrs. M. C. Frysinger, who has been very ill for the past two weeks at her home on South Harrison street, is still unable to be about.

IN THE CHURCHES

CATHOLIC CHURCHES WILL HELP POLAND

Special Offering for Sufferers Will Be Taken Up Next Sunday.

Next Sunday the Catholic churches of the diocese of Fort Wayne will take up a special offering for the sufferers in Poland. Rt. Rev. Bishop Herman Jos. Alerding has issued a call to the people of the churches to respond most liberally. The following is the letter of the bishop:

"From many sources we have learnt how the terrible war, convulsing Europe, leaves in its trail sufferings so great that we shudder to think of them. Of all the countries of Europe Poland is probably suffering most. Poland lies prostrate. Again and again opposing armies have passed and repassed over this unfortunate country, have made of it a desert, have covered it with ruin. Old men and old women, widows, fatherless children, cripples are all that is left of the once happy population. They are the innocent sufferers, actually in need of the very necessaries to sustain life. They are without food, without clothing, without shelter. And—let us not forget—Catholic Poland is of the 'household of faith.' The dire distress of this people, receiving but scant attention in this hour of need, should, it must, stir our charity to action. I request you, dear reverend father, to lay this most pressing cose before your devoted people, setting a side a Sunday most convenient to you for a special collection, to be sent to me not later than August 1st. The apostolic delegate will be requested to transmit the same to the holy father for suffering Poland."

E. conference held at Wayne street church last spring and those who heard her then will be glad of this opportunity of hearing her again.

Jones in New York.

Evangelist Bob Jones, the southerner, who has held meetings at Hartford City, and other cities in this section and who also has appeared at Winona Lake on a number of occasions, is now holding tabernacle meetings in New York city and, according to writers in that city, he is creating a big stir. One paper publishes a long article in which Jones attacks the modern dress of women, also the modes of living of some of them. "Cocktails, dancing and cigarettes are millstones in women's primrose path," he declared in one sermon. "The clothes are more immodest than Eve's fig tree."

HINSHAW IN HINT OF PARTY NAME CHANGE

Prohi "Get Together" Meeting Held in Advance of Convention.

St. Paul, July 18.—Hints of a change in the name of the prohibition party, which opens its national convention here tomorrow were contained in the address by which Virgil G. Hinshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee, today called to order a "get together" meeting. He said in part:

"Eighteen months ago a call was issued from prohibition national headquarters which read, in part:

"'We, the undersigned, hereby issue a call to bring all voters and citizens of America together into one national conference, who believe in a political party committed by state and national platform declarations to the complete overthrow of the liquor traffic.'

"This call was signed by one hundred persons, including some of the foremost citizens of the land. It was signed by Ben B. Lindsey, the famous juvenile judge; by ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss, three times governor of the Massachusetts commonwealth; by Governor Arthur Capper, of Kansas; by ex-Governor Wm. Sulzer, of New York; by Thomas Wilson, ex-consul to Hawaii and Brazil; by John H. Light, four years attorney general of Connecticut; by Ira Landrith, president of the World's Y. M. C. A. convention; by Wm. Shaw, general secretary of the World's Christian Endeavor; by J. W. Bryan, congressman from Washington, and Charles H. Randall, congressman from southern California.

"The purpose of the call was to bring into one political organization all voters who believe in the national prohibition of the liquor traffic.

"During the past four years there has been carried on a supreme effort to obtain the enlistment of five million voters who sought either in person or by representation the adoption of a prohibition plank.

"There is but one party that stands committed by both state and national platform declaration to the prohibition of the liquor traffic. That party is the prohibition party. Hence there seems but two alternatives for the hundreds of thousands who have come to us, either to support the prohibition party or engage in the formation of a new party.

"And it is for this conference to decide what it will do. There are thousands who believe that the name 'Prohibition' has become so popular in sound that any other name would not be so good. There are still others, who believe that some other name could be chosen that might more nearly represent the multitudes who this year will join hands with us.

"The matter of a mere name, however, is insignificant. It is important though that we extend the hand of invitation to the millions of American voters who this year refuse to bow the knee to the Baal of political unrighteousness, that we shape a definite policy, a definite program, and that we look to an organization the character of whose platform is in harmony with the five million movement."

At the last survey there were 417 ocean cables in the world, representing 235,492 miles.

Chinese Prince Sails from Manila After Covering Fine Imposed.

Manila, July 18.—The British steamship Chinese Prince has finally filed a bond and sailed today. The amount of the bond, $25,000, covers the fine of 50,000 pesos which the collector of customs here imposed when it was discovered that 2,000 packages were missing from her cargo on her arrival in Manila from New York via Penang. These packages had been confiscated by the British authorities at Penang because some of the consignees had, it was reported, been blacklisted by the British. After the vessel's departure today court proceedings were begun in connection with an appeal made by her agents against the payment of the fine. The Spanish vessel Elizaguirre, which reported upon arrival at Illio on Sunday that the British authorities at Singapore had taken off 500 packages of cargo bound for Manila, reached here today. Her officers report that they filed a protest with the Spanish consul at Singapore who in turn communicated this protest to the American consul and that the latter declared he was unauthorized to accept the protest.

The Elzaguirre's captain reports also that the British seized 104 sacks of Manila mail, returning them to the vessel after eight hours. The local port authorities are unable to state at this time whether any packages were confiscated from the sacks.

This is the first report of Manila mail being tampered with on a through voyage, although at Hong Kong mail to and from Manila has repeatedly been seized when transhipped there.

Later it developed that the Elzaguirre's mail was opened and censored. Some of the registered parcels are missing.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three different kinds of baking powder on the market, as follows:

(1) Cream of Tartar Baking Powders, which add to food the same healthful qualities that exist in ripe grapes, from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Phosphate Baking Powders, which are made from a mineral known as Phosphate Rock, or from animal bones which are burned and changed by chemical action into white, powdered phosphate.

(3) Alum Baking Powders, which add to food some compound of Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

Royal Baking Powder is made from Cream of Tartar, derived from grapes, a natural, healthful food. No substitute exists for making biscuits, cake, muffins, and pastry of equal quality and wholesomeness.

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the baking powder you are now using, or any brand, new or old, that may be offered, is a genuine Cream of Tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

WOOD WASTE EXCHANGE NOW VERY WIDELY USED

Forest Service Idea Has Developed Into Much Usefulness.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Extensive use by lumbermen and woodworking factories of the wood waste exchange conducted by the forest service is reported by officials who have just completed a short field study to determine the extent to which the opportunities offered are being taken advantage of. Only a small per cent of the total number of concerns listed were visited, but a comparatively large number were found to have benefited by the exchange.

Makers of wooden novelties, it is said, have been particularly successful in finding supplies of material near their plants. Other wood-working industries have been able to dispose of their waste at higher prices than they could otherwise have obtained. Many of the firms were located within short distances of each other, but until recently have had no way of getting together.

The wood waste exchange was established by the forest service in 1914. It consists of two lists of manufacturers, which are sent out quarterly to persons desiring them. One of these is of "Opportunities to Sell Waste" and contains the names of firms which use sawdust and small pieces of wood. This list is sent to plants having waste for sale. The other is of "Opportunities to Buy Waste" and gives the names of concerns which have waste to dispose of. This list is sent to firms who wish to buy material.

There is no charge for the service and any manufacturer who wishes to have his name added to either list can do so by writing to the Forest Service, Washington, D. C. A list of waste problems which the exchange has proved an effective means of meeting can also be obtained by anyone who cares to ask for it.

CALLS FOR HELP BUT HELP CAME TOO LATE

Colored Boy Drowns in Spy Run Creek Before Many Spectators.

Four times Sylvester Ahouse, colored, 21 years old, went down in the waters of the Spy Run creek dam near the municipal lighting plant, Monday night, before he stayed.

The first two times he called pleadingly for help, but by the time help could reach him he had gone down for the last time. The first time he called his cry was misunderstood. The group of boys sitting on the banks thought he was joking. The second time, however, the young man's plight was realized, but by the time help could reach him he was out of sight.

Ahouse was not an experienced swimmer. He did not know the depth of the water and in the darkness he could form no idea. He had been in but a few minutes when his strength gave way. Instead of trying to get back to the shore from where he had jumped in he swam to the middle of the stream and where the water is deepest.

The terrorized spectators gave the alarm and the police was immediately called. Captain Kelly, with a squad of officers in one boat and Lee Shirk and Louis Didier in another boat, dragged the creek with grappling hooks for three hours before the body was finally recovered. It was removed to Peltier's undertaking parlors at the direction of Coroner J. E. McArdle.

Ahouse roomed with Mrs. Martha Morning, 216 North Calhoun street. His home is said to have been in Tennessee and had been here since last fall. The young man was to have taken a job at the Electric works Tuesday morning. He has a father living in Champagne, Ill., and a brother in St. Louis.

WOMAN WRITER TELLS OF WAR ON EPIDEMIC

Betty Graeme "Rides the Ambulance" to Secure Inside Facts.

(Betty Graeme was the first woman to "ride the ambulance" in New York in the great fight being made there against infantile paralysis. As a nurse, as well as writer, she attended cases from the time babies were taken from tenements until they reached the hospital. She tells here the real inside story of a great city's battle to halt the march of death.—EDITOR.)

(By Betty Graeme.)

New York, July 18.—"Are you on this call?"

The words were directed at me by a young interne and were the first spoken to me after I secured permission to "ride the ambulance" in the tragic fight being made in New York against infantile paralysis, the dread disease that is reaping a death harvest of one baby an hour.

To the interne I was, in my nurse garb, merely one of many nurses working in this great campaign against death.

"Have you got your blankets, nightgowns, pins? There will be five this trip."

There is an excitement about clinging to the back of an ambulance as you whiz around corners, everything giving way before you, which was intensified when the doctor said:

"There will probably be a scrap or two. Are you afraid?"

I said I thought I was but that it wouldn't prevent me going ahead with the job; that I would not faint, or scream. I did not tell him it was my first trip to the east side.

"Well, you know they are pretty excitable, these foreigners, and they object to giving up the children, so we have to take them by force. If there's any trouble we'll get a policeman. Somebody will get a knife before we get through."

I began to wish I had never come here to play.

We stopped at a grimy tenement on Henry street and immediately a crowd swarmed around us like flies at a picnic. Down a dark, narrow passage, up dirty stairs, flight after flight, the doctor, knocking at every door, making inquiries. But no one had ever heard of Mikel. For they are all banded together by ties of race or fear and none will give information. We finally located the room. The child was gone.

This is one reason for the spread of the disease. The victim is passed from family to family to escape quarantine. To these people contageon is not even a name. The plague is but an indication of the wrath of Jehovah. Often it is impossible to persuade them that the child is affected. They will explain with many gestures that it is only because "Ikey has a fraid on you," that he is unable to move one side of his face or unable to stand upon his pathetic little legs.

The next call was in the Italian quarter on Delancey street and they were prepared. The father blocked the door and when, with a quick thrust of the arm, the muscular young interne caught the man and pushed him out of the way, we were met by a flanking squad of male relatives.

Two policemen brushed me aside and bore down upon the fray, leaving the doctor free to examine the child. Wild howls of rage and anguish rose from the throats of the mother, grandmother, sisters, cousins and aunts. It was bedlam broke loose. Chairs were splintered, heads were bruised. I saw a big burley fellow hit a bluecoat on the jaw and the officer drew a gun.

For a second it looked like bloodshed and I felt my heart skip a beat. With the wild shrieks of the women, the curses of the men ringing in my ears, it is a wonder I heard the doctor say, as he grabbed the child and made a break for the door: "Let's beat it." Besides, I wanted to see how the fight came out.

By this time the women were pulling at me and screaming in my face so I turned and fled down the steps. The driver, hearing the rumpus, had the engine going and the car was under way as we tumbled in.

"What is the first name of this Zarra child?" asked one of the hospital attendants, who was writing their names on adhesive tape and labeling the children.

"I don't know," said the doctor, "we didn't stay for the christening."

At the home of a Syrian named Isaacs on Furman-st, Brooklyn, there was a terrible scene. Mother and father fought like tigers for the child.

The father succeeded in snatching it in his arms and, dashing up the fire escape to the fifth floor, threatened to jump if approached. When he was finally overcome and the child taken from him, he threw himself limply over the railing and screamed curses after the retreating ambulance.

The saddest cases are the nursing babies. At a time when the tie between mother and child is particularly strong, to part them is like severing the woman's right hand from her body.

"Oh, please, may I not go too?" they beg in low tense voices. "De baby, he is so little and he has a fraid on strangers. I would do anything. Oh, please, let me go."

Here as elsewhere, the presence of the nurse brought a certain solace. The mother heart felt that a woman would understand and be kind.

"Oh, nurse, be good to my baby," they implore, "my precious baby. He has never been away from me one minute. Promise me you will treat him kind and bring him back to me?"

As the nurse wraps the blanket tenderly about the little form that had been stripped and tucked into a hospital slip, the mother buries her face in the little garments and breaks into wild weeping.

"How do you stand it?" asked a big policeman when, instead of the anticipated fight, the removal had been of a particularly heart breaking nature.

"I don't!" I replied, battling to keep back the tears. But when I thought how much greater the baby's chances were at the big, airy hospital with clean beds and wonderful care, specialists and all that science has to offer, than this loving but ignorant mother in her squalid surroundings could ever give, I was glad the little one could have that chance.

Complexion Fresh As a Daisy--Not a Wrinkle

in sight—Remarkable discovery of skin osmosis quickly enables women with sunken cheeks, wrinkles and marks of age again to become most beautiful, youthful and charming.

By Mlle. Mareix, France's Great Prize Beauty.

It's wonderful to look beautiful and youthful. The Countess de Chevanne, who at seventy years of age possesses a marvelously soft, smooth, velvet-like skin and an almost girl-like complexion without a wrinkle in sight, told the writer personally in Paris that she owed it all to the discovery of skin osmosis. With this marvelous discovery every complexion blemish can be banished in three nights and you can awaken in the morning with a beautiful natural rose colored complexion fresh as a daisy.

I have known dozens of hollow-cheeked, wrinkled, aged-looking women, who had given up all hope of ever looking beautiful and youthful again, to "Come back" and again become most beautiful, youthful and fascinating in from two to three weeks' time by this wonderful simple method.

No matter what your age or what you have tried unsuccessfully, skin osmosis will positively bring you new beauty and youth. Merely wash your face in warm water at night and rub in a teaspoonful or two of any good pure roseated cream which you can obtain from your druggist. In the morning wash the face with cold water and rub in more cream.

In three weeks or less watch the magic transformation. See how the old, hard-ened, coarse, rough skin turns into new, fresh, soft, youthful looking skin almost before your very eyes, all due to simple skin osmosis produced solely by warm water and roseated cream, but be sure to use only pure roseated cream, as it is an entirely different thing from ordinary face creams and must not be confounded with them. I personally prefer Creme Tokalon (Roseated), but any good brand will do. If you have wrinkles get a box of Japanese Ice Pencils and use them in connection with the cream and you get quick action on the deepest wrinkles, no matter of how long standing, in one night's time and awaken on the morrow to witness most astonishing results.

I personally guarantee success in every case, in any of my newspaper articles which I write on subjects relating to beauty, or I will refund the amount paid for any products which I recommend, provided you take your dealer's receipt at the time you make your purchase. My American address is Simone Mareix, 20 West 22nd street, New York.

NOTE:—The manufacturers of Creme Tokalon Roseated have such unbounded confidence in their particular brand, that they offer to forfeit $200.00 to any charitable institution, if it can be shown that it will not banish every complexion blemish and give most astonishing new beauty to wrinkled, care-worn, aged women in three days time in many instances. It can be obtained absolutely fresh and guaranteed pure from Meyer Bros. Co., ro most any good druggist in this city. —Advertisement.

Farsighted Policy in Harrison Hill Platting

Harrison Hill, the modernly platted addition located on Calhoun street, directly south of Rudisill boulevard, contains sixty-six acres of ground, which under the old style policy of securing as many lots as possible could have easily been cut up into three hundred and ninety-six lots, but under the modern system adopted by the promoters of this tract it now contains only two hundred and thirty-three. Ground of sufficient size to make one hundred and sixty-three lots has gone to make those desirable adjuncts to the modern city neighborhood. These includes parks, playgrounds, wide streets, and larger grass plots, and most people are amazed to learn that even with all these advantages the lots in this addition are selling at a price of $22 per front foot, including all improvements. Further details regarding Harrison Hill may be obtained from the promoters, Hilgeman & Schaaf, located in the North American building.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Acts 18:12-22.

12. And when Gallio was the deputy of Achaia, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment seat,
13. Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.
14. And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong or wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, reason would that I should bear with you:
15. But if it be a question of words and names, and of your law, look ye to it; for I will be no judge of such matters.
16. And he drave them from the judgment seat.
17. Then all the Greeks took Sosthenes, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat. And Gallio cared for none of those things.
18. And Paul after this tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the brethren, and sailed thence into Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila; having shorn his head in Cenchrea: for he had a vow.
19. And he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he himself entered into the synagogue, and reasoned with the Jews.
20. When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not;
21. But bade them farewell, saying, I must by all means keep this feast that cometh in Jerusalem: but I will return again unto you, if God will. And he sailed from Ephesus.
22. And when he had landed at Cesarea, and gone up, and saluted the church, he went down to Antioch.

The Delinquent and His Family.

"A man who makes $14 a week and has a wife and child to support hasn't a penny for the cash register of the saloon-keeper on the corner," is the terse fashion in which the hardpan fact was set forth by Judge Frank J. Lahr, of the Indianapolis juvenile court, in assessing a fine with a workhouse sentence upon a delinquent father arraigned before him for neglecting his wife and six-year-old son. Then, in order to test the value of his admonition in this particular case, Judge Lahr suspended the sentence so long as the convicted man keeps away from saloons and provides for his family. Judge Lahr did not raise the moral question involved. He was dealing alone with the economic side of the issue, and he volunteered, if the prisoner desired it, to suggest to him many better things than alcohol to buy with his money, but it is not of record that the man before him was seeking information of this character. At least he did not ask for specifications.

In connection with the case in point the court took occasion, also, to express the conviction that "a man's duty to his family does not terminate when he has supplied the barest necessities of life." The parallel of this Indianapolis case is to be found again and again in every court which is called upon to deal with parental delinquency. Despite the fact that his family barely escapes sheer want, there is the type of man who by some fallacious sort of reasoning argues that as the bread-winner he is entitled to some sort of relaxation or indulgence which his family may not share and that his taste must be gratified even at the cost of want and denial on the part of the wife and little ones. Singularly enough, too, this indulgence is rarely wholesome but almost invariably harmful to the individual as well as working its hardship to those dependent upon him. Pleasures and relaxations are important. All need them and should have them to counter-balance the strain and the hum-drum of unchanging toil, but they should be wholesome relaxations that the family may enjoy with the father. Judge Lahr is right. Too many delinquents and near-delinquents hold that duty to the family ends with the providing of food and clothing and rent. It doesn't. We shall have fewer cases of delinquency in court and much more happiness outside it when they get hold of this fact.

October 9 will be voters' registration day in Indiana this year, but there will be only one session of the registration board in each precinct in the state, instead of two periods as was the case two years ago. Voters who were registered in 1914 and who still live in the same precincts in which they were registered at that time will not be required to register again this year, but any voter who has moved since the 1914 election or who lives in a different precinct from the one in which he voted at that time will not be eligible to vote this year unless he registers October 9 in the precinct in which he now lives.

Telegrams from Col. Leslie R. Naftzger, commanding the First Indiana regiment on the Mexican border, say the Indiana troops are in excellent shape and are much better equipped than many other regiments arriving along the Rio Grande. As a matter of fact, Governor Ralston, Adjutant General Bridges and the Indiana officers generally labored assiduously before the departure of the soldiers from Fort Benjamin Harrison to see that every provision possible was made for them, both as to comfort and equipment. It is evident these efforts have shown results.

The house has passed the Rucker corrupt practices bill, which limits the campaign expenditures of a candidate for president to $50,000, while a candidate for vice president must not spend more than $25,000, a candidate for senatorial place but $5,000 and aspirants for representative in congress but $2,500. If candidates conclude they can evade the law against illegal combination in restraint of trade, they may do even better than that. They can get together and resolve to pay nothing at all. It might have the effect of killing off a lot of the demonsrative campaign enthusiasm, but what remained would undoubtedly be all wool and a yard wide.

That enforcement of the proposed jitney bus regulation by special inspectors who are to be paid from a fund raised by an annual license fee assessed against the jitney business will be helpful in controlling the traffic and reducing the accident liability to a minimum can scarcely be doubted, but it still leaves the individual outside of the jitney business to carry his own risk when it fails to exact a liability bond which would give recourse in case of casualty in which the blame of the driver was established. The Sentinel still believes the bonding requirement a real essential in the regulation of the jitney traffic.

And among the mysteriously missing these days is the confident individual who recently assured us we weren't going to have any summer this year, anyway.

A RAILROAD SEPARATION.

(Indianapolis News.)

The voluntary separation of the New York Central and the Nickel Plate is an incident of considerable importance to finance and transportation. Comparatively little is known of the transaction, although explanatory statements have been issued by the new owners of the Nickel Plate. From these it appears that the road, which for the last thirty or thirty-five years has been a part of the New York Central system, is hence forth to be operated as an independent, competing with other lines for the increasing business between the middle west and the Atlantic seaboard. The price paid was not made public, but as the New York Central, through the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, owned between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000 worth of Nickel Plate stock—a controlling interest—it may be assumed that this amount figured in the recent transaction.

The Nickel Plate is more properly known as the New York, Chicago & St. Louis. It owns its line from Buffalo to the Illinois state boundary. Crossing Indiana as it does in almost a direct line east and west, the Nickel Plate affords a valued means of communication in the northern part of this state. Years ago, when it was first operated, it appeared to have a profitable future. But, like certain other pioneer roads, which were unable to hold their own in the pressure of monopoly, the Nickel Plate lost ground, and even after it came under the more or less benevolent management of the New York Central it was unable to regain a position of prosperity. It is this fact which makes the sale of more interest. The new holders are Cleveland and New York capitalists. They insist that the road was not bought as a brokerage venture, but simply as an investment. The intention is to equip the road properly, to link it with trolley lines for freight "feeding," to enter into traffic agreements with both western and Atlantic coast lines, and greatly to increase the terminal facilities.

The New York Central has followed a policy of absorbing other carriers, wherever possible. It is said that if the Nickel Plate has not paid during the last few years as it should have, the line itself is not responsible. During rush periods the Nickel Plate handled much of the Chicago-Buffalo business of the New York Central system. In slack times it had to take such business as was offered it. Such an arrangement is uneconomic. It seems to have been unsatisfactory even to the New York Central. If the new owners of the Nickel Plate adhere to the policy announced, a large number of small cities and towns in Indiana are assured of much better transportation.

Much of Persia is now entirely dependent upon Russia for its foreign goods.

AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL?

Unnatural History, by Eugene Ahern.

THE ICHTHYOBDELLA PUNCTATA

Commonly known as the leech. We just use the tongue twisting title to make the study look like real stuff, and as though we know what we're talking about.

The leech is the hobo of the H-2-O,

but his relative on the flivver pasture is the medal-taker. P'haps you know one, George.

I think I do Ignatius. Isn't he the card that's always hanging aroun' a guy when he has some dough.

You're right, Stanislaus, gosh! the kid's getting clever.

The leech sticks around till you've loosened up all your change, part of it on him, then he hotfoots away to work the gag on someone else.

There are other popular leeches besides this one. There's the one that's always hanging around someone that has an automobile. You can't even go in the garage to wash the car unless the leech comes sliding around thinking you're going out for a ride. But the auto leech never offers to buy the gasoline.

Then there's still another one—the leech that's always talking big dough and is always sponging the "makings."

The young woman with a party of friends was bathing near the ice houses and in following a boat rowed by one of the party, got into deep water and sank from sight. Mr. Hand was in a boat nearby, but was not aware of the girl's danger until she was going down for the second time, when he hurried to her rescue. Bald-Heads This Will Grow Hair

"Vola-Vita," One of the Greatest Scientific Hair Discoveries Ever Known.

The most important discovery ever made on hair is Vola-Vita. It has been proven by actual results. It will prove it in your case, too. Vola-Vita has proven that hair falling, grayness and dandruff nearly always result when one or more of the principal elements of hair are missing. Hair has now been analyzed and its elements known. When these missing elements are restored, all hair and scalp troubles vanish and hair is compelled to grow luxuriantly.

This is why Vola-Vita has done many remarkable things to hair and scalp. It positively restores the missing elements. That's why it forces hair to grow luxuriantly on heads shiny bald for years. It stops dandruff and itching positively. Hair stops falling because it increases wonderfully in vitality.

Vola-Vita scientifically restores the vigor of the color glands. That's why it absolutely restores the original color to gray, faded or bleached hair, no matter what that original color was. It is not a dye. It contains no alcohol to dry up the hair secretions and ruin hair vigor. Use it and that'll prove it. Start now. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"Vola-Vita" is sold at all drug stores in 50c and $1.00 bottles, or sent direct by Vola-Vita Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. The $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size.

Vola-Vita is sold in Fort Wayne by Peoples Drug Store, Miss Emanuel, T. C. Bohn, Dreier Drug Company, Meyer Bros. Company, B. R. Noll, D. & N. Pharmacy, Woodworth's Drug Store, C. O. PARK BOARD USES SAFETY FIRST PLAN

Stakes and Ropes Will Show Water Depth on "Beach" at Foster Park.

No man-eating sharks have made their appearance in the St. Mary's river as yet and swimming is growing more and more popular in pools along the winding stream. The park board, in session Monday afternoon, took reckoning of the fact that the "beach" in Foster park is assuming cosmopolitan importance as a bathing center.

The natural swimming pool in the park is to be marked off to form a safe place for young and old to enter. Stakes will be driven at points in the stream to tell the exact depth of the water at that point. Ropes will be stretched to show where the safety zone ends.

Will Mark Governor's Grave.

The rough stone slab lying in McCulloch's park, just northeast of the park fountain, is to be engraved to show that it marks the last resting place of Samuel Bigger, seventh governor of Indiana. His name and date of birth and death will be inscribed on the stone, the park board decided, although a movement to have the state erect an elaborate monument there will be encouraged by the board.

Bigger was governor of Indiana from 1840 to 1843. He returned to his Fort Wayne home after retirement from office and was buried in the town cemetery, which covered a part of the plat now used for McCulloch's park. All monuments were removed from the grounds when the cemetery was turned into a park but a large stone slab was placed over Bigger's former grave.

A resolution was adopted for the construction of a toolhouse and comfort station at Reservoir park.

The plat of Noll's addition, which will mean the rearrangement of lots along Thieme drive, was approved.

Contracts were awarded to Grosjean & Roemer for the construction of sidewalks on both sides of Anthony boulevard from Pontiac street to Rudisill boulevard, and for walks, curb and gutter on both sides of Rudisill boulevard from Piqua avenue to Hanna street.

William Beyerlein will be appointed as special policeman to serve in city parks on band concert nights. His salary will be paid by the park board department.

Saves Eyes By Day and Lives By Night

Blinding automobile headlights have again been taking their toll in deadly and costly accidents. Four accidents were reported last week that might have been avoided by wearing Meigs' two-tone Day and Night goggles. These glasses have a very dark piece at the top so that a slight tip of the head enables one to see in the blinding light. For day driving this dark top acts as a shade for the eyes while the restful tint of the lower part kills the glare of the road. These and more other styles than can be mentioned will be cheerfully shown you at the Meigs Optical Shop, 1012 Calhoun street.

Mrs. Jules Simon and Mrs. Harry Bowser were hostesses for a luncheon of charming arrangements at the Country club today. It was a large affair, as one hundred and twenty-five invitations were issued, and the many small tables used in service were very attractive with floral decorations in pastel shades. Each guest received a colonial corsage bouquet of sweetpeas and forget-me-not blossoms. These flowers formed the centerpiece of each table. Garden flowers decorated the room and the porches. Music of harp and violin was enjoyed during the luncheon, the program being rendered by Mrs. C. A. Horton and Henry Simon. There were present a number of visiting guests, Mrs. George E. Hobe, of Grand Rapids, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Simon, was the honor guest. Mrs. Schafer and Miss Marie Schafer who are guests of Mrs. L. R. CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

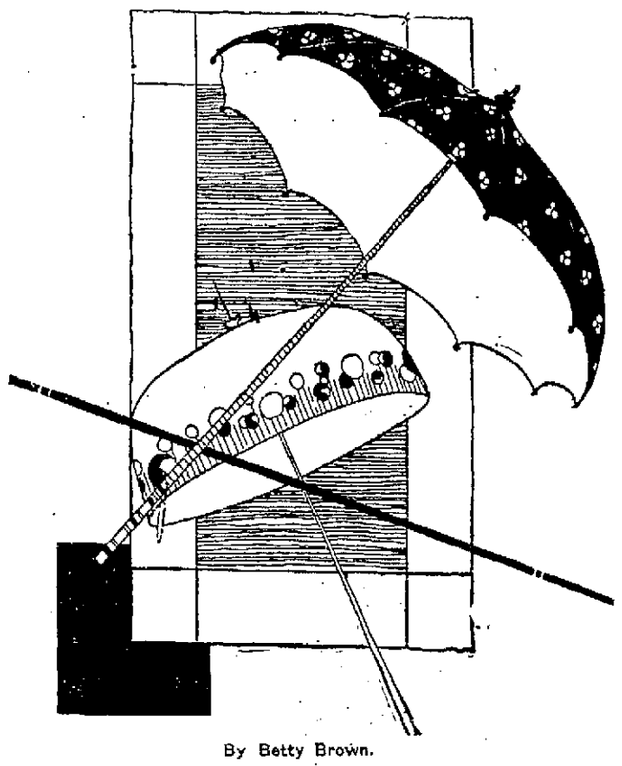
MR. JAMES OGDEN.

MRS. JAMES OGDEN.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ogden, of 1711 East Pontiac street, arrived at the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Monday and due observance of such an event was made by their children and other relatives, as well as by local G. A. R. men and their families and other local friends. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden, all of whom were present, are: Marion Ogden, of Stanley, N. D.; George, of Louisville, Ky., and Earl, of Fort Wayne. The three daughters, also widely scattered, are Mrs. Lena Baumgartner, of North Vernon, Ind.; Mrs. Elnora Sherlock, Guyman, Okla., and Mrs. May DeWitt, of Fort Wayne.

A brother to Mr. Ogden, David Ogden, of Camden, Ohio, who was best man at the wedding, came to the golden wedding festivities. He is also a Grand Army man, having served in the Thirty-fifth Ohio regiment. The sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden came with valuable gifts appropriate for the occasion, a gold-headed cane for Mr. Ogden and fifty dollars in gold for the mother. Mr. and Mrs. Ogden are natives of Ohio and they lived in Hamilton county following the close of the war. A few years afterwards they moved to Henry county, this state, where Mr. Ogden practiced his trade of blacksmithing for ten years. Later he moved to a farm near Decatur and remained there for eighteen years, then moved to Bluffton for six years and following that came to Fort Wayne, where he has lived for thirteen years. Mr. Ogden was one of the fortunate men of the civil war, one who was in practically all of the important battles, who was wounded a number of times yet recovered each time only to go back into the battlefield again and remain until the close of the war. Mr. Ogden enlisted in company D, Twentieth Ohio regiment and at the expiration of his term of enlistment Mr. Ogden came home, but at once became a private in company K, Ninety-third Ohio volunteer infantry. He was also detailed as an orderly and dispatch bearer in the western armies under Generals Thomas and Sherman. Mr. Ogden is an honored member of Union Veteran legion, No. 51. The Ogden home was trimmed with flags on Monday and the celebration and refreshments were served during the evening, while the family enjoyed a reunion and a dinner. A big cake was baked for the occasion, decked in yellow trimmings and served during the day.

CANE GONE; IN COMES CANE PARASOL.



By Betty Brown.

If you have a cane—don't carry it! Hang it in the closet beside last year's frock—it's just as much out of date. No proper lady in London or New York carries a cane any more. She twirls a stick however, but it is a parasol stick, a saucy thing of jet, long and slender. The canopy may be scarlet or green or blue, though many of the new sun shades are in the delicate pastel shades with applied trimming of silk in colors. Notice the length of the sticks, and the form of the "shades" in the cane-parasols I've pictured here—so high a fashion authority as Fashion-Art says these are correct.

GOOD AND TIMELY RECIPES YOU MAY WANT TO TRY.

Right now is raspberry, currant and gooseberry season to say nothing of watermelons, cheaper than usual. These are not difficult fruits to put up and who doesn't like raspberries or a gooseberry jam or a currant conserve along with his roast in the winter time? Try the following and see how pleased you'll be:

Red Raspberries.

Wash and pick over 12 quarts finest red raspberries. Heat two quarts of fruit in stone crock and crush with a wooden vegetable masher. Squeeze juice from seeds in a square of clean cheesecloth.

Turn juice into preserving kettle and mix with 2 1-2 quarts sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved, bring to boiling point, then add remaining 10 quarts of raspberries. Boil 10 minutes, skim well, turn into sterilized cans and seal in usual manner.

Gooseberry and Red Currant Jam.

To each four pounds gooseberries allow three pounds sugar and two cups red currant juice.

Make a syrup of sugar and currant juice, add berries and simmer slowly 40 minutes, or until the gooseberries are translucent. Seal in small jars.

Gooseberries and strawberries in equal parts, or gooseberries and red raspberries, or gooseberries and white currants make novel and delicious combinations.

Watermelon Honey.

Cut out red pulp from one or more watermelons. Crush and simmer till soft, then strain, thus removing seeds, and simmer until thick.

Three quarts of pulp will make one-fifth pint of "honey."

Cool honey and bottle like grape juice.

The honey is best without sugar, but a large quantity can be made from the same amount of pulp if a little lemon juice and sugar are added.

Watermelon Preserves.

Select a plump, firm melon, cut it in half, remove all the red center and pare off green rind, cut white part into two-inch pieces and soak 10 hours in weak alum water—an even tablespoonful of alum to three quarts cold water.

Drain from alum water and boil melon in clear water until fork pierces easily.

Make a syrup, allowing 1 1-2 pounds sugar and 1 cup water for each pound of melon; dissolve sugar slowly over very slow fire; when all dissolved skim syrup and add juice of one-half lemon and small piece of rind. Add melon and boil slowly 1 hour until melon is clear.

Pack in glass cans while hot.

Currant Conserve.

Wash and stem three quarts currants. Squeeze juice from three oranges and cut skin from one orange. Cook it until tender in a little water, then scrape it free from white lining.

Wash and seed one pound of raisins. Mix all ingredients with three pounds sugar and simmer in porcelain-lined kettle until it jellies. Pack in jelly jars.

WASHBOARD BESIDE SCHOOL BLACKBOARD

They're Teaching Washing in Chicago Technical School Now.

BY HONOR FANNING.

Chicago, July 17.

"My sister she works in a laundry,
My father he fiddles for tin.
My mother she ta-akes in washing
Oh, my! how the money rolls in!"

"Fiddling for tin" has no social class as a job, but working in a laundry is now considered a real high-toned business.

MRS. ELSIE PAGE

They are teaching washing in high schools.

Mrs. Elsie Page, laundress-in-chief in Lucy Flower Technical school in Chicago, is the mother, so to speak, of the high school laundry.

She placed the washboard beside the blackboard in a big basement room in the Lucy Flower school four years ago and organized a class of girls in laundering. Last June a dozen girls were graduated from the laundry class.

"The happiness of the family is closely bound to the wash tub," says Mrs. Page. "This is especially true of families who cannot afford to send the family wash out. Mothers wear themselves out at the tub; their children are neglected, and as a result we have delinquent children—and poor washings.

"In our laundry classes we teach girls to wash without waste of strength and time; how to handle different fabrics; test soap, and take stains out of clothes. We teach them to use the simplest equipment, because most of these girls will use the old fashioned board and tub in their homes."

So much interest has been shown in sweet girl graduate laundresses that plans are under way to introduce the washboard in other high schools.

During the last year there were 1,306 fires caused by cigars and cigarettes carelessly thrown away in New York alone. The average loss a fire is about $569.

Dr. W. T. Ferguson will be at his office, No. 249 W. Main St., on July 19th and remain until the 22nd. 18-2t

COMFORTABLE SUIT FOR THE BOY

EVERY little fellow when he gets old enough to form sentences wants it distinctly understood that he desires to wear clothes that distinguish him from his sister. He dislikes any frills and furbelows, but at the same time he demands clothes that are comfortable, particularly in warm weather.

Here is a suit which will not fail to please any manly lad. The jacket is made of white pongee, an exceptionally cool material and one which stands frequent visits to the laundry. French knots are used to add a touch of color to the collar, cuffs and yoke of the jacket, and machine-stitching is cleverly employed to ornament the shoulders.

The trousers are very simple little affairs of linen, the color matching that introduced on the jacket. Linen-covered button molds are the only form of trimming on the trousers.

FASHIONGRAMS

ORCHID colored velours for sports hats are really lovely. They are untrimmed, with the exception of the ribbon band and tailored bow.

Jet and mother-of-pearl sequins sparkle on the insteps of cobweb silk stockings. One doesn't wear this kind often, as they are not laundry proof.

Felt cloth and angora cloth, a mixture of beaver and felt, can be made into unusually lovely sports hats.

A silk bag heavily beaded is made in the shape of what one might call the pannier pocket chatelaine bag.

A buckle and strap ornament the instep of a high buttoned boot of gray kid. The buttons begin above the buckle.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

New Veil

Can you suggest what is the latest feature in veils? I want something which can be worn on outings, as when automobiling.
A. M.

Perhaps the newest veil is the sports veil, made of striped chiffon or veiling, a colored stripe on a white ground or a contrasting shade.

Beach Capes

What is the stylish material for a beach cape? How would you make it? A. B. C.

Faille is used extensively for beach capes. Make it up rather full and plain, trimming it, if you think it necessary to use such, with silk braid.

A NEGLIGEE OR FROCK?

NO WONDER you are puzzled at a first glance at this drawing today, for it might very well be either and it really is both. It is one of those accommodating one-piece affairs which can be used for either formal or informal wear, all depending upon what you wear under it. If you are all spruced up in your best corsets with the fur accouterments of lingerie and petticoats, and you find a very hot evening before you, you may slip into this very filmy concoction of lace and net, tie the sash a trifle tighter at the back and, behold, you are fit for almost any formal summer occasion.

On the other hand, you may be short on cool negligees. Because it is in one piece and with an adjustable sash, it makes a very comfortable as well as charming garment for the rest hour. So there you are. Which shall it be?

As to making it, the directions are very simple. You may have a choice of many materials, but they should be cool. Dotted net is good, so is dotted swiss. An embroidered voile or a printed organdie fall in well with the scheme of either frock or dress. The sleeves should be plain of the same material as the dress or negligee. The lace may be as expensive or as inexpensive as one likes. A good imitation filet net or a shadow lace should be good enough for cotton material.

The ribbon of the belt slips under the frock in back and comes thru slits at the sides to cross and tie in sash ends at the back.

Don't hesitate for a minute to wear this as a frock, because the frock of one piece, regulated by a belt or sash, is to be in excellent style for fall.

When we clear your Palm Beach Suits, they have that new look.

TAKE SECOND SPEED AT GRADE CROSSINGS

Auto Dealer Tells How Fatal Accidents May Be Avoided by Using Care

The entire family of Otto Carey, of Hicksville, was wiped out when the father, who was driving the automobile, "killed" his engine in the path of the Twentieth Century limited at Butler.

Such fatal accidents are alarmingly common. An automobile expert has been consulted on this point and furnishes the following warning:

"When approaching a grade, more especially a railroad or street car track, shift gear to second speed before mounting the tracks.

"Many careful drivers have been killed because they did not know or observe this safety-first rule.

"The tendency of the amateur is to throw on 'gas' to accelerate speed in order to cross tracks as quickly, and, therefore, as safely, as possible. This may be fatal.

"Throwing on 'gas' suddenly, simultaneous with exacting a greater increased 'pull' because of a grade, chokes the carburetor and stops the engine, leaving the car dead and helpless in the path of the train.

"Always shift to medium gear before mounting an incline. When you have attained it and are level again, throw it into high and put on speed."

PRIZE-WINNING BABIES WILL RECEIVE OWN PHOTOGRAPHS

Mr. Williams to Present Each With a Parrot Portrait

Content to leave nothing undone which will delight the kiddies and their proud mothers and daddies, Mr. Williams has arranged, this year, to have photographed every baby winning a prize at Robison park tomorrow. Besides whatever regular prize it will be the child's happy chance to win, Mr. Williams will present to every baby a portrait of itself.

And, as Mr. Williams considers nothing but the very best good enough for his babies, the photographs are all to be taken by the Parrot studio. Mr. H. Carling, the celebrate artist of St. Paul, Minn., writes of baby pictures by this studio as follows: "I consider them to be the finest I have ever seen of children, splendidly posed, finely lighted and artistically created, * * * The lighting, pose and artistic rendering, as well as the life-like and natural expression, I think marvelous."

Mr. Williams believes one good picture worth a dozen mediocre ones; and such a gift from him will certainly merit the appreciation of the parents as well as of the children whom he is ever striving in some new way to delight.

The parade tomorrow will start promptly at two-thirty from the pavilion, and all parents are urged to be in good time to get the kiddies in line.

HIBERNIANS HOLDING BIENNIAL CONVENTION

Fifteen Hundred Delegates at Solemn High Mass in Boston.

Boston, July 18.—Fifteen hundred delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada attended solemn high mass in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross today, marking the formal opening of the fiftieth biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the ladies' auxiliary. Cardinal Wm. H. O'Connell, of this city, presided, with Rt. Rev. Dennis J. O'Connell, bishop of Richmond, Va., and national chaplain, as celebrant.

The mass was followed by a joint session of the two bodies, at which a number of addresses were made. The speakers included Joseph McLaughlin, of Philadelphia, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Mrs. Helen Ryan Jolly, national president of the Ladies auxiliary. Beginning tomorrow the organizations will hold separate meetings which will continue throughout the week.

No election of officers will be held this year, although the selection of the next convention city has aroused much interest. Delegations were actively at work today in behalf of San Francisco, Oakland, Cal., and Wilmington, Del.

HOLGATE AD INTERIM HEAD OF NORTHWESTERN

Chicago, Ill., July 18.—Thomas F. Holgate was chosen president ad interim of Northwestern university late last night. He is dean of the college of liberal arts. Mr. Colgate will assume his duties immediately as temporary successor of Abram W. Harris, who recently tendered his resignation as president of Northwestern university to become secretary of the national board of education of the Methodist church.

It was announced that the resignation of Mr. Harris has not been accepted and that a permanent president probably would not be chosen for another year. Mr. Holgate joined the Northwestern faculty in 1893 as a professor of mathematics. He had studied at Toronto and Clark universities. In 1902 he was made dean of the college of liberal arts and later served as acting president for a time. He was secretary of the International Congress of Mathematicians in 1908, and is the author of several books and a contributor to mathematical journals.

LIVELY FIGHT ON FOR NEXT ROTARY MEETING

Kansas City, Salt Lake City and Atlanta All After It Strongly.

Cincinnati, July 18.—After a short business session today in which the report of the committee on constitution was received, the convention of International Rotary clubs in session here entered into a general discussion on "Honorary Members in Rotary" and "Rotary in the Smaller Cities."

The fight for the next convention has grown lively between Kansas City, Atlanta and Salt Lake City, while Chattanooga is asking for the 1918 meeting. The selection of the next convention city will be made Friday.

An invitation to visit Dayton, Ohio, Friday was extended to the convention today by John H. Patterson and the Dayton Rotary club. While the convention did not accept the invitation as a whole, many clubs did and several special trains will take them to Dayton, where they will first be entertained by the Dayton Rotary club and then by Mr. Patterson with a luncheon at the plant of the National Cash Register company, of which Mr. Patterson is president.

The first rounds of the Rotary tennis tournament were held yesterday afternoon, Salt Lake City defeating Akron, Ohio, 6-3, 6-4, and Kansas City defeating Cincinnati, 6-4, 9-7. Salt Lake City and Kansas will play this afternoon.

In the Rotary golf tournament, Victor L. Smith, Atlanta, won the prize for the lowest individual score with 82. The four lowest scores qualified the following cities to participate in the semi-finals this afternoon: Springfield, Ohio, 172; Atlanta, 177; Memphis, 177; Cincinnati, 183.

POSTMASTERS SEEK TO IMPROVE SYSTEM

Washington, July 18.—The National Association of Postmasters of the United States opened a four days' meeting here today to discuss means of improving the postal system. Subjects before the convention included betterment of the railway mail service to insure prompter rural deliveries, benefits of government ownership of auto equipment and installation of a more efficient newspaper carrying railroad plan. Delegates number about 1,000. Addresses by President Wilson and Postmaster General Burleson will be features of the meeting. Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general, was on the program today. The president will give a lawn party on the white house grounds for the postmasters today.

Colin M. Selph, postmaster at St. Louis, is president of the association.

South Bend, Ind., July 18.—The four year old son of Frank Groff was killed yesterday when he was run over by a wagon on which a small shed was being hauled. The boy is believed to have fallen under the wagon. The driver disappeared.

CHANCES VASTLY IN SUBMARINE'S FAVOR

Allied Cruisers Outside Not Likely to Take or Sink Deutschland.

Washington, July 18.—The allied embassies here expect the German undersea liner Deutschland to start on her voyage back to Germany at any hour—probably within the next day or two. It was made clear today that the embassies, while they have made representations on the character of the submersible, they have made no protest and probably will make no further move until she has sailed. Then some sort of representations will be filed with the state department to serve as a record in case the Deutschland should do any damage to allied shipping.

While an official examination of the Deutschland showed her totally unarmed and incapable of being converted into a warship without extensive structural changes, agents of the allied governments have expressed concern over the proximity of the German merchant liner Neckar, which has been in Baltimore harbor since the outbreak of the war. The Neckar has been alongside the Deutschland at her wharf.

Agents of the allies also have reported having heard that Capt. Paul Koenig, of the Deutschland, had once been the second officer of the Neckar, and have pointed out to the embassies that the correspondence of Captain Franz von Papen, the withdrawn military attache of the German embassy mentioned a Paul Koenig in connection with the plots to destroy the Welland canal. No attempt has been made to identify Captain Koenig as being the same man, although that feature has been drawn to the attention of the state department informally.

The general expectation in allied quarters is that the Deutschland, with her precious cargo of rubber and nickel will drop down Chesapeake Bay soon, lie in some cove or inlet for a time and on some dark night when the time is favorable, slip out to sea, probably going awash because the water is not deep enough at the Virginia capes for the ship to submerge with safety.

While the allied cruisers will be on patrol outside, the opinion prevails among naval men and the allied embassies, too, that the chances of getting away are much in the submarine's favor.

ARDENT HEAT CLAIMS FIRST VICTIM HERE

The excessive hot weather which has prevailed in Fort Wayne and vicinity for the past week claimed its first victim in Fort Wayne Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The Puraq company of East Superior street, lost one of its most valuable horses when it suffered a sunstroke and died before medical aid could be summoned.

The faithful animal was making its last trip of the day and reached the corner of Weisser Park avenue and Pontiac street when it fell to the pavement. The driver jumped from the wagon and when it reached its side he noticed that "Bill" was breathing his last.

A. W. Jaxtheimer, manager of the Puraq company, places his loss at $280. The horse was an exceptionally pretty grey. The animal was only 8 years old and had been in the service of the pure water company for two years and a half.

SONS GET BULK OF IT.

Horace Davis' Will Disposes of Estate Valued at Million.

San Francisco, July 18.—Horace Davis, the late pioneer educator and manufacturer of California whose will disposing of an estate valued at $1,000,000 is on file for probate, bequeathed the larger share to his son, Morris K. Davis, and his two granddaughters. Other bequests included $70,000 to the United Unitarian Society of Boston for the education of Unitarian ministers of San Francisco and vicinity; $10,000 each to Harvard and the University of California, to purchase books for the libraries, and the same amount to Stanford university for the creation of a student loan fund, loans to students not to exceed $200.

Other beneficiaries were the American Antiquarian Society of Worcester, Mass., and the New England Historic Genealogical society.

GRIFFIN FORFEITS BOND

Fails to Appear for Trial on Assault and Battery Charge.

John J. Griffin, charged with an assault and battery on Merl Marks, in connection with strike trouble at the plant of the Western Gas Construction company July 6, forfeited bon dof $25 in the court of Justice A. C. Nierman, Tuesday morning, by failure to appear for trial at 10 a. m. Griffin, it is said, went to Chicago following the trouble here and did not return.

The case of Joe Kelley was to go on trial before Justice W. E. Tancey Tuesday afternoon. Kelley took a change of venue from the court of Justice A. C. Nierman.

WILL ACCEPT DECISION.

Madrid, July 18.—1:50 a. m—The Northern Railway company having failed to reply to the government proposals that the road's differences with its striking employes be submitted to arbitration, the cabinet today resolved to submit the whole question of the strike to the institute of social reforms, whose decision, it is announced, will immediately be applied by the government.

HUGHES TO WORK FOR CONGRESSMEN, ALSO

Nominee Will Aid Campaign of Republicans for Senate and House.

Bridgehampton, N. Y., July 18.—Charles E. Hughes told callers today that he expected to work during the campaign, not only for his own election, but for the election of a republican majority in congress.

The beginning of the nominee's campaign to elect a republican majority in the senate will be made Thursday, when Mr. Hughes will confer in New York with a committee of senators, headed by Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, who has in charge the republican national senatorial campaign. Later on the nominee expects to confer with the republican congressional committee to aid in outlining an active campaign for the election of a majority in the house. Mr. Hughes said he considered the election of a republican congress as important as the election of a republican president as he would be enabled to effect his policies only by what he characterized as a "thorough victory" at the polls.

The nominee will go to New York tomorrow.

LAUNCH EFFORT TO GET U. S. PARK IN INDIANA

Plan to Save Sand Dunes Near Gary as a Public Playground.

Gary, Ind., July 18.—Indiana may get a national park if the plans of the interstate conference held at Tremont, in the sand dunes near here, are successful. The conference marked the beginning of efforts to conserve a portion of the sand desert at the foot of Lake Michigan from the encroachment of industry and to hold it as a great playground for the middle west. It is intended to raise $300,000 by a dollar subscription plan for the purchase of at least 300 acres and to ask congressional assistance.

About 3,000 persons from three states, of whom Chicagoans were in the majority, came to the dunes, but because of the heat most of them retreated to shaded nooks, leaving to scientists the necessary deliberations. Notable for their absence were the mayors and other officials of Indiana cities who had promised to be present.

Chicago Well Represented.

Such bodies as the Audubon society of Illinois, the Chicago Prairie club, the Chicago Geographic society, Horticultural society and Outdoor Art league were represented. Of the speakers, botanists declared the dunes had the most varied vegetation in the country, the plant life including almost everything to be found from the Arctic circle to the mountains of the Rio Grande valley.

A. F. Knotts, of Gary, former mayor of Hammond, was chosen as temporary chairman and T. H. Cannon of Gary temporary secretary. Other officers include Robert Harrison of Valparaiso, Alfred Jones and C. O. Dennewitz of Gary. Chairman Knotts was empowered to appoint an executive committee of fifteen, to be chosen from Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and to call a meeting August 6 at Gary to effect a permanent organization.

CASTRO WILL GET NO TRANSIT PRIVILEGE

Washington, D. C., July 18.—Immigration bureau officials have abandoned their idea of giving a "transit privilege" that would permit General Cipriano Castro and his wife to be at liberty in New York until they could take a boat for Porto Rico. It was explained at the bureau today that exclusion of the former Venezuelan president from the United States would operate to bar him from Porto Rico or other insular possessions. Castro's appeal from the ruling of the New York immigration office denying him admission had not reached here today, but officials were studying a transcript of the testimony taken at New York and expected Commissioner General Caminetti to take up the case on his return from Philadelphia tomorrow.

BURNING EARTH IS COOLED BY BREEZE

Tuesday seemed to be the hottest day in down town offices. There were several near prostrations. Out on the streets in the business section those who hurried to and fro were fairly scorched by the burning rays, which the tall buildings seemed to focus upon suffering humanity.

But out in the open a breeze was stirring. The thermometer stood at 88 degrees during the hottest part of the day up to 2 o'clock. This is far short of the record made last week and the week before. On July 11, the thermometer registered 93 degrees.

But the weather man sights warmer weather ahead. Wednesday will at least be warmer, he points out. All week will be sultry, according to the present indications.

MAYOR BUNCH READY TO TAKE THE STAND

State is Expected to End Evidence Today Against Muncie Official.

Muncie, Ind., July 18.—Thomas V. Miller, a lawyer who is held in the county jail for contempt of court who fled when summoned as a witness in the trial of Gene Williams, formerly deputy prosecutor, and S. E. Lewis, a private detective, probably will be the closing witness for the state today in the trial of Mayor Rollin H. Bunch, charged with soliciting and accepting bribes from blind tigers and gambling house owners.

The defense is expected to begin presentation of its evidence as soon as the state closes today. Mayor Bunch probably will take the witness stand and it is said the testimony for the defense will occupy a week.

Lewis visited a large number of blind tigers in Muncie while employed as a detective by the Good Citizens league. The state hopes to prove by Miller that the defense induced him to leave town and also tried to induce other witnesses to leave the jurisdiction of the court.

DEMAND RESUMPTION OF SUBMARINE WAR

Berlin, July 17.—(Via London, July 18, 2:30 p. m.)—The active campaign for resumption of submarine warfare in its previous form has assumed new importance from an article today by Eugene Zimmerman, general director of the Lokal Anzieger, whose views, as past events have shown, usually reflect the opinions held in governmental circles.

Referring to the reasons which Great Britain gave for abandoning the declaration of London, Herr Zimmerman contemplates the possibility that Great Britain will compel smaller nations to adopt an unfriendly, perhaps a hostile attitude towards the central powers, or even to close their frontiers completely against them. He then cites in heavy type his own comment on Germany's acceptance of the American demands in regard to submarine warfare, indicating that circumstances might arise later which would make it impossible to adhere to the restrictions on the activity of these craft.

TWO SUITS ARE PENDING.

Meanwhile Boonville Saloons Are Doing Business Without License.

Boonville, Ind., July 18.—Two suits in the circuit court and one in the county commissioner's court, are pending here to determine the validity of the wet and dry election in Boonville June 30. The drys are contending that the wets had no right to appeal from the order for the election, as the order was not the final judgment of the board of commissioners. In the commissioner's court the wets are contending that the election was not legal for a dozen reasons. The case is attracting wide attention and will last some time. The saloons are doing business without license, pending decision.

FIRST CLASH IN THE CLAY WORKERS' STRIKE

James Hayward Under Arrest at Brazil on Assault Charge.

Brazil, Ind., July 18.—The first trouble resulting from the strike of clay workers of this city was reported this morning and was followed by the swearing out of a warrant for the arrest of James Hayward, superintendent of the Brazil Hollow Brick and Tile company, charging him with assault and battery. The trouble broke out when a number of strikers placed picket lines at the plant. They alleged that two sons of Hayward approached the plant and were stopped by Grant Niccicon, a picket, and told not to enter the plant.

The elder Hayward at this juncture is alleged to have walked up behind Niccicon and struck him with a cane. Andy Hess, another picket, was also struck, it was alleged, but was not hurt. Strikers say the alleged attack will result in retaliatory measures by the strikers.

Organizer Kasten announced this morning that the employes of the Ayer-McCarel plant had been called out when the company refused to meet the demands of the men for recognition of the union. Kasten said sixty-five men were out.

STATE RESTS IN THE SCHERER CASE

The state in the case of Henry P. Scherer, Wayne township trustee, charged with misappropriation of township funds, rested its case at 2:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and Harry Hilgemann, of counsel for the defense, made the opening statement to the jury in behalf of the accused trustee five minutes later.

The state introduced two witnesses, Frank Bercot, member of the advisory board, and Henry Branning, clerk to that board, at the afternoon session of the trial. Bercot testified of Scherer's reports being taken up in meetings of the board and of statements directed to the township trustee regarding his withdrawal of funds. Bercot said Mr. Scherer finally went to Indianapolis, consulted state officials and learned that his withdrawal of funds was wrong, and proceeded to restore the money withdrawn.

Branning's testimony was simply to state he kept the minutes of the meeting of the advisory board.

CLORE AT WASHINGTON LOOKING UP CHANCES

Washington, D. C., July 18.—With the arrival yesterday of Leonard B. Clore of Franklin, Ind., the contest for appointment on the federal farm loan board, which is to manage the rural credits system, assumed a lively aspect.

Clore is staying at Congress Hall hotel but is not registered there. Representative Lincoln Dixon will accompany him tomorrow afternoon to the treasury department and present him to Secretary McAdoo. If the necessary arrangements can be made, he will be presented to President Wilson later in the day. The purpose in having him come here is to enable the appointing powers "to look him over."

Carter Glass, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, is backing Clore and Representative Moss is pulling for him with might and main. There are two other candidates from Indiana, but efforts are being made to induce these two to withdraw, as their qualifications are not such as the president demands, and in that event both Indiana senators will indorse Clore.

THORNBURG DELIVERS SERMON TO SOLDIERS

4,000 Indiana Men, Seated Under Mesquite Brush, Join in Hymns.

Mercedes, Texas, July 18.—Four thousand Indiana soldiers presented a most striking picture as they sat on the ground beneath the mesquite brush, which dots the big mobilization camp at at Llano Grande, Sunday night at 7 o'clock and raised their voices in song services conducted by the regimental chaplains.

The entire camp, big as it is, rang with the voices of the Hoosier soldier boys as they sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," "We Are Marching to Zion" and other religious songs with a military touch to them. Nine hundred men of the Fifth Nebraska infantry attended the services conducted by the Third Indiana infantry, and the band of the Fourth Nebraska contributed to the program with several numbers of a religious and military character. Chaplain Fred L. Thornburg, of Decatur, of the Third Indiana, delivered a short sermon after prayer had been offered by Chaplain Beecher, of the Fifth Nebraska. The Second infantry service was in charge of Chaplain E. A. Arthur, of Vincennes. Fred Sharp, of Terre Haute, a battalion quartermaster, stirred the Hoosier lads to applause when he played the Indiana song, "On the Banks of the Wabash."

First is "Chaplainless."

The First Indiana infantry is without a chaplain at present, but with two ministers for company commanders, it did not lack a leader for its religious service. Capt. White, of the Bloomington company, and Capt. Harriman, of the Martinsville company, united in conducting a short service for the men of the First infantry. The Indiana artillery battalion did not conduct a separate service, but many of its men attended the infantry regimental services and others had been to Mercedes this morning to attend church. Chaplain Thornburg spoke of the duties of the soldier and how he is expected to serve his country and fellow men, and he urged that he carry the soldier spirit to his moral life. He declared that it takes a greater courage to keep morally clean in the midst of temptations than it does to face cannon and bayonets. Chaplain Arthur, after referring to the fact that the soldiers have laid themselves on the altar of their country, ready to serve it in any way demanded, sought to impress it upon his hearers that it is a soldier's duty to so live at all times that he may keep clean, both in mind and body, and be prepared to give the best possible service to his country and home.

Last Men Arrive.

The Indiana brigade was made complete with the arrival of the field hospital corps, commanded by Maj. Carter, and Ambulance Company No. 2, commanded by Capt. Arnett. All of the Indiana men are well and they are rapidly adapting themselves to their new and strange surroundings.

The work so far has been confined to placing the camp in ship-shape so that the men may be comfortable and healthy. This is considered a healthy climate and, with a strictly sanitary camp, which Gen. Lewis, as well as the brigade commander, insists must be maintained, there is little prospect of sickness. The mercury soared well up in the nineties today, but the breeze from the gulf, which seldom dies down, offered relief.

Start Target Practice.

Col. Kuhlman of the Third Indiana Infantry, plans to have his regiment begin target practice tomorrow. The range at first will be limited to 100 yards, both because the shooting is merely preliminary and because there is now no cleared space to permit firing at a long range target unless the railroad track be used. The Third has more than 100,000 rounds of ammunition.

The men of all the Indiana organizations will not be required to do any field work in the middle of the day when the sun is hottest. The artillery men will do all their drilling in the forenoons and spend the afternoons in doing only the lighter work of the camp. The infantry regiments probably will do their field work from 7:30 to 10 in the morning and then rest until 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Some work may be done after evening mess. The officers are considerate of the men's welfare and they will not allow too heavy work at once, a schedule of light drills being provided until the troops have become acclimated.

The Indiana artillery battalion perfected its camp government today. Lieut. Sidney S. Miller of Battery A was made summary court officer, and also placed in charge of the battalion laundry to be established. Lieut. Holmes of Battery B was placed in charge of the battalion exchange launched today, and Lieut. Nisley, of Battery C, was made battalion mess officer.

CHICAGO PAYS OVER $22,500 FOR WORTMAN

Chicago, July 18.—William Wortman, Kansas City's star shortstop, has been purchased by the Chicago Nationals, it was announced today, at a price said to be higher than the $22,500 value given by the Pittsburg Nationals some years ago for Marty O'Toole.

The amount of cash, however, and the names of the three players involved in the deal were not announced.

Wortman, besides being a shortstop, is hitting about .300 and has the unusual record of having played three years without missing a single inning. Meanwhile, negotiations for Charles Herzog, the Cincinnati manager, are going on in Cincinnati, where President Weeghman went today.

ARREDONDO GETS MEXICAN APPROVAL

Instructions O. K. Tentative Plan for Settlement of Wrangle.

Washington, July 18.—Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, called on Acting Secretary Polk at the state department today just before the latter went to the white house for the cabinet meeting. It was understood Mr. Arredondo had received instructions from his government approving a tentative plan for the settlement of differences with the United States by means of a joint international commission.

There are indications that Henry P. Fletcher, ambassador designate to Mexico, will head the three American commissioners if the plan is adopted. Mr. Fletcher is said to prefer New York city as a place of meeting, while the Mexican embassy favors Washington. Mr. Fletcher was present at today's conference.

The commission plan was developed during preliminary conversations between Mr. Polk and Mr. Arredondo. It is expected further conferences will be held to define the scope of the proposed commission's authority. Whether the commission will be authorized to discuss in addition to the border situation, economic and financial conditions in Mexico with a view to offering some plan under which the Washington government could aid in the re-establishment of normal conditions, has not been disclosed.

At the close of the conference, Mr. Polk said there was nothing to be announced further than that the conferences were "progressing favorably" and he intimated no announcement might be expected for several days.

SENATE ADOPTS THE BIG NAVAL PROGRAM

Provides for 157 Warships of All Classes Within Three Years.

Washington, July 18.—The senate today adopted the enlarged building program of the naval bill by a viva voce vote. It provides for the construction within three years of 157 war vessels of all classes and for four dreadnoughts and four battle cruisers to be built next year.

Discussion of the building program providing for sixteen capital warships within three years, eight of them next year, developed indications that it would be approved without radical change.

Opposition to the building program, as well as its defense, came from both democrats and republicans. A 45 to 11 vote tabled an amendment by Senator Norris to halt construction of the sixteen ships until after the end of the European war and after failure of efforts to create an international peace tribunal.

The ships to be constructed by July 1, 1919, under the senate program, follow:

Battleships, ten; four this year.
Battle cruisers, six; four in 1917.
Scout cruisers ten; four in 1917.
Torpedo boat destroyers, fifty; twenty in 1917.

Fleet submarines, nine; two now building to be completed in 1917; coast submarines, fifty-eight; thirty in 1917.

Other ships include one submarine with Neff system of propulsion, three fuel ships, two ammunition ships, one hospital ship, one repair ship, one transport, two destroyer tenders, one fleet submarine and two munition boats.

The bill as it passed the house provided for a total of ten ships, with only five capital ships, all battle cruisers.

By a vote of 48 to 18 the senate rejected an amendment to require three of the new battleships to be kept on the Pacific coast. It was argued that the amendment would be an infringement on the constitutional authority of the president as commander-in-chief of the navy. Senators Jones and Phelan insisted that the Pacific coast always has been slighted in naval ships and the latter emphasized dangers of Japanese invasion. Opponents of the amendment declared that it would prove a great embarrassment to the navy and declared the Pacific coast would always be protected in the assignment of war craft.

Senator Clapp opposed the building program and scouted the danger of war with a foreign power.

STORM'S DEATH TOLL HAS MOUNTED TO 19

Receding Waters Show Big Increase in Estimated Damage.

Atlanta, Ga., July 18.—Flood waters throughout the stricken districts of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia were receding and the latest reports added four to the death list, making a total of nineteen.

The property loss, however, continues to grow and when towns and counties now cut off from communication are heard from the first estimates of from ten million to fifteen million dollars damage probably will be increased. Railroads apparently have suffered far more than was at first realized. Reports from western North Carolina are that some roads there will have to be almost entirely rebuilt. Measures for the relief of passengers on trains marooned near Asheville were taken today, automobile being employed to carry the passengers to the nearest cities where they can be properly fed and housed. Automobiles are being used to move the 250 passengers from the Florida special of the Southern railway to Asheville.

TAKES UP POSTOFFICE BILL.

Space Plan for Railway Mail Pay Will Be Given Test.

Washington, July 18.—The house took up today a report on the $2,000,000 postoffice appropriation bill which gives final word to the interstate commerce commission in the matter of submitting the space for the weight basis as a method of paying for railway mail transportation. Pending a ruling by the commission the space plan will be tried out on some lines to demonstrate its possibilities. Afterwards the commission will decide both the manner and amount of pay. Representative Moon, chairman of the postoffice committee, said today that experiments could be started under the bill as soon as an order by the postmaster general has been approved by the commission.

Juarez, Where Mexico Does Her Watchful Waiting, is Interesting

BY ROBERT MOUNTSIER.

Juarez, Mexico, July 17.—On the other side of the narrow and muddy Rio Grande are El Paso and the United States—El Paso, hot, young and rich; the United States, busy, dollar-mad and hurrying!

Here is Juarez, cool in the shade of trees and mountains, quiet and peaceful despite the 4.7 guns trained on it from the American side, "watchfully waiting." All this is Mexico, a picturesque country with a people of striking individuality, whose present is disturbing, but whose past is rich in artistic and intellectual merit.

In El Paso everybody warned Robert Minor, the artist, and myself not to come over to Juarez. They said any white man who crossed the International bridge would be thrown into jail or shot, or both!

But we wanted to visit this famous border town, so with only American and Mexican soldiers and a river no wider than the Marne between us and Juarez, we started.

The American soldiers at the El Paso end of the bridge frisked us for a gun. We had none. Then they frisked the "flivver." The "flivver" had no gun. We were allowed to proceed.

A MOUNTED POLICEMAN OF JUAREZ. NOTE THE POLICEMAN WEARS A SWORD INSTEAD OF A CLUB, AS IN THE U. S. A. PICTURE SKETCHED AT JUAREZ BY ROBERT MINOR, FAMOUS ARTIST, ON THE BORDER FOR THE SENTINEL.

In a minute we had passed the armed guard on the Mexican end of the bridge and were in Mexico. A Mexican customs official asked us if we had anything dutiable. We told him that we had not, and he took our word for it.

As a border city Juarez is not as Mexican as it might be in its external appearance. Except in parts of the business section, Juarez is Spanish. In the business section, on the walls of American-looking buildings, are such signs as "Turkish bath," "grocery store," and "French barber."

Even the bull-ring, a huge structure, is partially disguised with advertisements, one of which hits the eye with enormous letters, "Have you seen the big kid?" We hadn't and we haven't.

"The big kid," by the way, is a weighty personage who owns saloons in Juarez and El Paso. The only things American left in Juarez are advertisements and closed stores and saloons.

Juarez is Spanish—more Spanish even, than Spain.

In streets between adobe houses can be seen slowly moving Mexican men under enormous sumbreros and women gliding along with equally large burdens on their heads; little horses, some active and well-fed, others skeletonized to the point of collapsing; dust-covered peons from the interior, who droop with their cigarets as they shuffle along in guaraches (leather sandals); bronzed Indian faces softened by black mantillas that flow down over black garments; beautiful senoritas whose every movement of eye and supple body denote the warmth and passion of a southern country.

On the outskirts is the cemetery. Here are four graves, newly dug by municipal prisoners sunning themselves in the little bit of shade at the rear of a square adobe structure, whose principal use seems to be as a backstop for prisoners who are stood up before it and shot. Outside is a canvas stretcher spotted with blood, inside a coffin crate whose stains show the first resting place of the executed while the final is being prepared in a common burying trench nearby.

The most interesting feature of Juarez is the commandancia where Senor Don Andres Garcia, consul, and Gen. Gonzales, army leader, are dispensing hospitality while one of Gen. Gonzales' military bands is giving an impromptu concert.

The program is varied—"Los Velocipedistas"—the Mexican national anthem, and songs dear to the hearts of the Mexicans. Indeed, if the threatened war between Mexico and the United States were a competition of notes between the military bands of the two republics Mexico would be the victor, for there is music in the souls of the people on this side of the Rio Grande!

Indoor Life Makes Fat

TRY OIL OF KOREIN TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN OR TO REDUCE SUPERFLUOUS FAT.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against over-stoutness, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any persons who are satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to a good druggist and get a box of oil of korein capsules, and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

Even a few days' treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, improved digestion and a return of the old energy; footsteps become lighter and the skin less flabby in appearance as superfluous fat disappears.

Oil of korein is inexpensive, cannot injure, and helps the digestion. Any person who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.—Advertisement.

AUTO TRUCKS FOR USE ON THE BORDER

Nickel Plate Takes Train Load of Army Machines Through City.

That Uncle Sam is still making extensive preparation for warfare on the Mexican border, was evidenced by the arrival in this city today of a train load of auto trucks bound for the fighting zone below the Rio Grande. The train came in over the Nickel Plate road, arriving in this city just at the noon hour. The train was composed of thirty-six flat cars, with two machines on each car. The trucks were made especially for the United States government by the Peerless Auto company of Cleveland, O., from which place the train started at 1 o'clock this morning.

There were over a hundred men in charge of the machines, all big husky looking fellows who looked as if they would be capable of driving the trucks through all the hardships occasioned by Mexican bullets or Mexican weather. The outfit was in charge of Truckmen Waite and Saylor, and expects to reach Brownsville, Texas, in about four days. The purpose for which the trucks are to be used is to transport ammunition and food from one place to another. They are substantial looking machines, weighing three tons each, and are painted a drab color. The men accompanying the train ate their dinner at the Wayne hotel, and left this city shortly before 1 o'clock.

FOREIGN DISTRICT TAKES UP NEW PLAN

Melita and Bass Streets Are First to Adopt Idea of Street Personality

We note the jabbering alien o'er the way,
And brand him as a hopeless care;
Time tells the truth; the years portray,
The beauty of the soul that's there.
—Fannie Desmond, "Our Nation."

A new era in the development of Fort Wayne seems to dawn with the announcement that Melita and Bass streets will be the first to carry out the plan of the systematic beautification of the streets. Flower boxes, covered with bark, and filled with blooming flowers are to be placed in the front windows clear along both streets.

The movement to make individual streets unique comes as one of the touches of civic pride. It is lead by Mrs. Josephine Nesbitt. Her idea is to have a given street follow some one system of decoration along its whole length.

Several citizens living along the two short streets of Melita and Bass, heard of the plan. Some of them asked Mrs. Nesbitt to help them to materialize the idea in their section. Mrs. Nesbitt made a call through the neighborhood to sound out the housewives.

An Interpreter Was Needed.

An Italian girl, to act as interpreter, accompanied Mrs. Nesbitt, for there are dozens living in the section who cannot understand a word of English. The seventy some homes were visited. It required three days to find all the wives at home and get their view of the plan. Everywhere was enthusiasm. There was not a single refusal.

Uniform flower boxes will protrude from the front windows of the many kinds of houses that are thrown together along the two streets. In most cases the boxes will be made by the men working of evenings after their day of toil is over. There is no restriction as to the kindof flowers to be planted in the bark covered boxes. Pansies and nasturtiums will prevail. In the corners will be started vines which are to dangle down in front and climb up over the windows. Work of installing the window boxes is to start at once. It means that the new phase of the beautification movement is to be headed by a district made up of foreign-born folk, and it redounds to the glory of Fort Wayne as a melting pot of peoples.

Once Terror to Health Officers.

The little section south of the Wabash and Pennsylvania tracks is clouded by smoke from the Wabash shops, and the noise of passing locomotives is almost constant. The district was once a terror to health officers.

Little by little, however, there was growth. Each year conditions were improved. The foreigner's children went to school and brought home a better understanding of surroundings. Garbage cans were covered up. Today there is not an open garbage receptacle along Melita or Bass streets. Conditions are as near sanitary, according to health officers, as is possible under the huddled conditions.

Mrs. Nesbitt gave several illustrated lectures on civic pride in the neighborhood this year. She always had a large audience. Pictures of Fort Wayne never failed to bring applause. There was manifested eagerness to help the movement.

Calls Out Sense of Art.

The idea of street individuality was suggested. It is above and beyond the crude demands of sanitation. It calls out a sense of art and higher civic pride. It was taken up at once by people of Melita and Bass streets.

Citizens living along the avenues and winding boulevards of Fort Wayne will carry out the excellent system of street personality later. Gardeners will be employed. In some cases stately trees of one variety will mark the way and will wave above elaborate creations of floral beauty. But it was for Melita and Bass streets, called oftentimes a "wop district," to lead the way.

TRIP TO CLEVELAND TO SEE BUILDINGS

Commissioners Will Inspect County Institutions in Ohio City.

Members of the board of county commissioners left Tuesday morning for Cleveland, Ohio, where they will remain until Thursday in the inspection of county institutions. All members of the board made the trip. While the commissioners expected to make a general inspection of county institutions, yet they are interested mostly, it is thought, in the tuberculosis hospital located at Cleveland.

Has Tuberculosis Hospital.

In view of the prospect of eventually erecting a tuberculosis hospital in Allen county, the commissioners are availing themselves of any opportunity to get ideas of such institutions. The county council, at a recent meeting, appropriated $2,000 to maintain a tuberculosis camp at the county farm, but owing to the inadequate quarters of this camp, the body at the same time talked of plans for erecting a new hospital to cost probably $50,000. This sum of money, the council asserted, should not be spent until an inspection of other similar buildings over the country had been made.

Delegated Commissioners.

The county council, at its special called session two weeks ago to consider temporary aid for the tuberculosis hospital, decided that the county commissioners should do some inspection work in the interest of getting hospital building ideas. The trip to Cleveland will serve such a purpose.

Inventory is Filed.

Complete inventory of the assets of the Fort Wayne Co-operative store, for which a receiver was first sought and later removed on the ground that assets of $23,000 were represented in the stock of goods and all holdings, has been filed with the court showing that the entire property is worth $9,946.75 in the appraisement of three appraisers chosen to make the inventory. The various store values are placed as follows in the report: Cash, $1,283,25; fixtures, $3,862.10; coal yard and coal, $456.75; accounts, $118; unpaid stock subscriptions, $100; goods and merchandise, $4,126.65.

A petition asking the sale of the stock and the creditors to file claims has been filed with the court. Levi A. Todd is receiver for the Co-operative store on appointment of the court. Judge Carl Yaple several days ago heard a petition filed asking that Todd be removed as receiver on the ground that the store's stock and outstanding subscriptions would meet all obligations. The court thereupon ordered the appraisement.

Divorce Suit Filed.

Lillie Bayless has filed suit for divorce, naming Ralph Bayless and E. M. Baltes & Co. She also asks $500 alimony and a restraining order preventing Bayless from encumbering his funds received in wages from the defendant company and molesting her at her address, 1219 High street. Mr. and Mrs. Bayless were married April 6, 1915, and separated July 17, 1916. He is charged with failure to provide for two years and with beating, cursing and threatening to kill the plaintiff. She charges he also accused her of being intimate with other men. Bayless, the complaint says, earns $15 a week, and owns realty, she is informed, worth $800. L. A. Todd is attorney for the plaintiff.

Notes of the Courts.

Emanuel Klopfenstein has entered suit against Elias Long to recover $200 on replevin. F. B. Shoaff is the plaintiff's lawyer.

Asking that a date be set for an option election in Cedar Creek township, which includes Grabill, a petition signed by ninety-two voters has been filed with the county commissioners. The township has two saloons.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roth are the parents of a boy, born Monday. Mr. Roth is bailiff of the circuit court. Mr. Roth is a proud parent and dealt out the cigars generously.

In the case of Joseph P. Martin and Emmet Martin against Willard P. Smith, to foreclose mechanics lien, judgment for $97.55 for the plaintiff has been rendered.

Marriage Licenses.

John A. Heston, farmer, Ridgeville, 51, and Cora Schlotzharer, 46.

BOARD'S ORDER RECALLED.

Since the drowning of the colored boy in the Spy Run creek attention has been called to the fact that the health board ordered no more swimming in that stream. Police were notified to stop swimming there. Police say they have done all they could to stop the practice of bathing in the creek, which is made up of surface water, the health board says. "At least a dozen times our patrolman has chased the boys away from the creek," Police Chief Lenz said Tuesday. "The patrolman who has that beat is also responsible for Bloomingdale, Lakeside and the Nebraska districts. He has been doing his best. If we are to keep constant watch there it will be necessary to order a special officer. We are doing all we can with the number of men we have. We have ordered the boys to stay out of Spy Run creek."

WILL PROBE FURTHER.

Finding of Feminine Garments Has Caused Much Excitement.

Deputy Sheriffs Mills and Courdevey were to go Tuesday afternoon to the woods on the Schlaudroff farm on the Wayne trace, six miles east of the city, to probe further into the finding of a woman's raiment including a black dress, white waist, dark skirt and some underwear in the woods. A half pint of kerosene, almost full, was also found beside the clothing, indicating an attempt had been made to burn the clothing. Much loose dirt was piled about the clothing, it is reported, and the deputies will investigate fully any clue leading to parties responsible for the clothing.

The clothes were taken to the county jail. They had lain on the ground for several days.

RESTOCKING RIVER.

Indianapolis, July 18.—In restocking White river and streams of Marion county with game fish the Marion County Fish and Game Protective association has planted 300,800 fish this season. Just recently 100,000 fingerlings were released in waters near Indianapolis. Large black mouth and small mouth bass are the varieties offering the best sport and the fry so far released has been of these varieties. Similar movements are under way elsewhere in the state.

RUMORED PURCHASE OF BUSH.

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Rumor has it that the Detroit baseball club is trying to purchase Pitcher Joe Bush from the Philadelphia Athletics. It is understood that Bush wants to leave the tailenders and that President Navin is willing to pay a fancy price for him.

BEN EARL WINS PACE AFTER HARD STRUGGLE

Cleveland, O., July 18.—Coming direct from a winning preliminary campaign on the half mile circuits, Ben Earl, beautifully driven by Marvin Childs, clearly demonstrated his Grand circuit class Monday at North Randall. He won the Edwards pacing stake, the first big feature of the 1916 harness campaign, after one of the most bitterly contested battles in the history of the local classic. It was a race which kept the record opening crowd on the qui vive from start to finish of every heat.

Ben Earl's performance was only one of many that thrilled the crowd. In two of the four races the contests went into split heats, and in one, the 2:07 pace, three heat winners were produced and an additional fourth heat was required.

It was a day of upsets. Tommy Murphy started in right where he left off last season as a winning driver, piloting Trampright to a straight heat victory in the opening event of the day, the 2:09 trot. The Murphy entry was easily the class of his field. Summaries:

MUST STAKE TITLE.

New York, July 18.—Elusive champions of the fistic world who have been wont to play the itching palm rather than the clenched fist may have to defend their title in decision bouts if they want to box in New York. Chairman Wench, of the state athletic commission, incensed at the actions of Freddie Welsh and other title holders in a letter made public Tuesday, suggests that the present regulation of the body forbidding decisions be amended to provide for a referee's decision in any contest where a champion is a contestant.

The proposed rule provides that a generally recognized champion cannot box at all in New York except in a bout involving his title.

BOUGHT A NEW CATCHER.

Columbus, O., July 18.—Announcement was made here yesterday by officials of the Milwaukee association baseball club that Catcher George Black, of the St. Joseph Western league club, had been purchased by Milwaukee. Black will report to the club at Louisville Wednesday.

ROTH, HALF OF CLEVELAND RIGHT-FIELD, IS STAR PINCH-HITTER OF SEASON.

(By Harold Johnson.)

Bobby Roth and his faithful Moriarty produce a deadly combinaion for American league pitchers this season. Moriarity's the bat wielded by Roth in his sensational string of pinch hitting feats which have accounted for a dozen Cleveland victories since the Indians became the surprise part of the Johnsonian fold.

Bobby is one-half of the right field lineup on Fohl's team. When a left-hander mounts the knob to battle the Indians Roth goes on watch in the garden. When a right-hander is picked by the opposing manager Bobby graces the bench, making way in right for Elmer Smith, southpaw swatter.

At first Smith seemed to have the call as regular on the job, but well timed pinch drives by Bobby and Smith's failure in times of need won a half portion assignment in the pasture for the former White Sock who was swapped with Klepfer and Daly for Joe Jackson.

Among the stellar feats performed by Roth are the following:

May 7—Pinched for Coumbe in eighth. Singled, scoring two runs and helped beat Chicago, 5 to 2.

May 21—Pinched for Coveleskie in the eighth against Walter Johnson and drove in tying run. Washington won in the ninth

May 22—Pinched for Smith in ninth, with one on, and smashed a homer in game won by Athletics, 10 to 8.

May 24—Got regular job and made one hit, a double, scoring run which helped Indians beat Athletics 5 to 4.

June 3—In five trips to plate hit two sacrifice flies, a triple and single, good for four runs in 11 to 2 rout of Boston.

June 9—Pinched for Morton in seventh and doubled, scoring one run in game won by Washington, 7 to 4.

June 23—Pinched for Coveleskie in the eighth and singled off Dubuc, starting rally that beat Detroit, 4 to 3.

June 26—Tripled, scoring two runs off Danforth, beating Chicago 2 to 0.

July 1—Up five times without a hit. On sixth attempt tripled off Plank in eleventh with bases full, beating St. Louis 5 to 4.

July 2—Pinched, hitting triple off Davenport and beat St. Louis 3 to 2 in five-inning game.

July 4—Pinched (morning game) and walked in contest won by Detroit.

July 8—Tripled in first inning at Boston, scoring two runs in 5 to 1 victory for Indians.

BAKER'S INJURIES SERIOUS.

New York, July 18.—J. Franklin Baker, third baseman of the New York Yankees, will be out of the game indefinitely, it is announced by the club, as the injuries he sustained last Friday in running against the grandstand while chasing a foul have been found to be more serious than at first thought. An X-ray photograph revealed that two ribs were broken.

TWO BIG EVENTS ON CARD.

North Randall Sweepstakes and 2:05 Pace Divide Interest at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 18.—The North Randall sweepstakes and the 2:05 pace divided honors as the feature event of today's race card at North Randall track on the second day of the Grand circuit meeting. The North Randall event is for 2:18 three-year-old trotters. There was no early favorite in this number. The speed event will come with the clash of the 2:05 pacers and Whitesox is expected to rule as favorite. The other events are the 2:18 trot and the 2:12 pace.

FREDDIE WELSH TO BOX LEONARD

New York, July 18.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, stung by the taunts of the sporting world, has signed articles to meet Benny Leonard, the pride of Harlem, in a ten round bout at Washington park on July 28.

At their last meeting Leonard decisively outpointed the champion, and has been clamoring for another match ever since. So many harsh words were hurled at Welsh for his elusiveness that he agreed to meet any man the sporting editors of New York named.

Leonard was the unanimous choice and the articles for the fight have been signed.

KELLY TO ENTER CHAMPIONSHIPS.

New York, July 18—Fred Kelly, Olympic high hurdles champion, will compete in the national championships at Newark next fall. It was expected that Kelly's enlistment would prevent the champion from entering, but he has already arranged for a furlough and is training for the hurdles and the all around event.

SAYS "NOT YET."

Chicago, July 18.—Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Nationals, today denied that he had completed negotiations for the purchase of Shortstop Wortman, of the Kansas City American association club.

DOLAN EXONERATED IN BOXING TRAGEDY.

Frankie Dolan was arrested recently in connection with the death of Bert Coffey. Coffey dropped dead during the final frame of a four-round boxing contest with Dolan at the Vernon Athletic club, Los Angeles, Cal.

At first it was thought that Coffey's death was due to a blow inflicted by Dolan. The autopsy showed, however, that death was caused from acute dilation of the heart, due to over-exertion. Dolan was held several days, pending the outcome of the coroner's inquest, which completely exonerated him.

Coffey's right name was Joe Peoples. His home was Santa Rosa, Cal., where he is survived by a mother and a sister. He had been in the boxing game about five years.

SPORT DOPE

"Tom Alley quits racing"—headline. Chances are Tom will take up bowling.

There are comparatively few boxers in the army, but boxers have done a lot of soldiering in this country for years.

If Freddie Welsh goes through with his threat to box the venerable Harlem Tommy Murphy we may next hear of the winner meeting Jack McAuliffe.

In view of the fact that sharks are prowling the Atlantic, Charles Durborow, the Philadelphia iron-man swimmer, will limit all his swims to forty mile dashes.

By slanting the dispatches from our eastern front we gather that Baltimore, Providence and Buffalo are taking Richmond much easier than Grant did.

If the Yale rooters are really anxious to strengthen their eleven next fall they oughta let the Mexicans round up all the gents on the 1915 team.

There's one advantage in not being in the swim. You'll never get bitten by a shark.

If all the sharks are killed before fall it's going to be a tough season on Kelly pool.

Ball players may be absent-minded and forget to touch a base, but they never forget to touch the magnate.

Up to the hour of going to press the Boston Red Sox seem to have carried New England, with his states to be heard from.

WEEGHMAN GOES TO CINCINNATI.

Chicago Nationals President Pushing Dicker for Herzog.

Chicago, July 18.—President Weeghman, of the Chicago National baseball club, is to be in Cincinnati today for the purpose it is said of negotiating for the services of Charles Herzog, manager and shortstop of the Cincinnati team. Weeghman left on a mid-night train for the Ohio City after a long distance telephone conversation said to have been with the Cincinnati officials.

WILLIAM HAS BUM LEG.

Cleveland, O., July 18.—The champion race pacer William (1:58½) has developed a peculiar form of intermittent lameness in the near hind leg, and Tuesday it was decided by the horse's trainer, Charles Tanner, to retire the stallion for the balance of the season, and all his proposed exhibitions, including one at the Cleveland meeting next week, when his owner, C. K. K. Billings, was to have driven the stallion to wagon against his own best record at that hitch (1:59½), have been cancelled.

BOY, PAGE MR. KELLY.

Chicago, July 18.—A feat seldom seen in baseball was that of Joe Kelly, the newest Cub, in a recent game with Brooklyn here. Kelly followed Zimmerman in the batting order and in that game Zimmerman made four hits, each one being followed by a timely drive from Kelly's bludgeon. His fast base running, good fielding and hard hitting won a home for the Hoosier recruit with the left field bleacherites a few days after he had joined.

HYDROPLANES OPEN EVENTS.

Put-in-Bay, O., July 18.—With the class of the nation's swimmers entered, the A. A. U. 1916 championships are to open here today in connection with the Interlake Yachting association's regatta.

The power boats got away yesterday afternoon in the first of the series of races. The race for the $1,000 hydroplane trophy was won by Miss Minneapolis, a Smith creation, averaging forty-one miles an hour over the bay course. Miss Detroit, a craft that was expected to give Miss Minneapolis a battle for the cup, failed to appear.

HOLDS RACE INSTEAD OF ELGIN RACE.

Chicago, July 18.—The Chicago Speedway association expects to stage a special race on Aug. 19, the date of the Elgin road race, now abandoned. Pending official sanction, which the local association is confident of getting, entry blanks will be mailed out. Prize money amounting to $10,000 will be offered. The race will consist of five heats of twenty miles each and the winners of each will qualify for the final, a fifty-mile event.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

FIELDER JONES, MANAGER ST. LOUIS BROWNS:

"The New York Yankees will win the American league pennant this year. I don't see another team which has a chance. Chicago has been lucky to win and it won't last. Detroit is through now because it has no pitchers and there is hardly anything else in the league that compares with Donovan's team.

"I don't think the Red Sox will repeat. They are not playing the ball they did last year and their pitchers are not as good. The trouble with most teams in the league this year is that the players are trying to call the turn on what the pitcher is about to put up to them and that makes some of them look ridiculous when a smart pitcher crosses them."

RAY CHAPMAN, CLEVELAND, INDIANS:

"I've seen some sweet pitching in the American league but never have I looked upon a greater feat than that performed in New York the other afternoon by Bob Shawkey, of the Yankees. When a pitcher strikes out the side in one inning the feat isn't particularly remarkable, but Shawkey's feat was performed in the eighth inning and he fanned Smith, Gandil and myself in succession and each of us took three swings.

"There was not a called strike nor a foul, other than light foul tips during the inning. Usually fouled strikes and called strikes play a part in retiring the side at the plate. In this case every strike was a missed swing."

DUELLING HAS ALSO FALLEN BY WAYSIDE

France Too Busy in War to Think of Private "Affairs of Honor."

Paris, June 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The duel is one of the ancient institutions of France that has fallen into neglect during the war. The last sensational encounter on the "field of honor"—a bloodless one—took place after the election of the chamber of deputies in 1914, not long before hostilities broke out. It was between Joseph Caillaux, former minister of finance and his unsuccessful opponent Louis d'Allieres. Caillaux fired into the air and d'Allieres fired into the ground.

Since that meeting M. d'Allieres has been grievously wounded an another "field of honor." Acting as intermediary officer between the firing line and the command in the rear, he was hit by a fragment of a shell that claimed him, probably for life.

It is attributed to the fact that so many Frenchmen, like M. d'Allieres, have shed their blood on the battlefield that the duel has been abandoned and there is a well-defined sentiment that it has come to an end for good and all.

Some credit the "sacred union" of parties and classes with this reform while there are certain proofs that it is due to popular deprecation of personal conflicts between Frenchmen while "the Germans are still at Noyon." The "sacred union" has not prevented disputes and provocations.

Two men contesting for a favorable place from which to witness a review of troops on the Esplanade des Invalides came to blows and one of them tossed his card to the other.

"If you are so eager to fight," cried a bystander, "why don't you do as those boys did," pointing to some armless and legless soldiers lined up before the troops to be decorated.

Two young men in a popular cafe exchanged sarcasms followed by insults, blows and an exchange of cards.

"To Verdun with them!" cried the spectators. "Put them out!"

The manager threw both of them into the street where the idlers jeered them until in common defense they made up their quarrel and walked off together.

There are two hypotheses regarding the duel after the war. In some cases the disputants have both been combatants in the great war and will find it ridiculous to make a show of courage against each other after having already shown it together many times against a common enemy.

If they are not both combatants, they will, one or both of them, have been heroes of the "rear," to whom public opinion will say, "No! No fighting!" If you were so thirsty for blood and so particular about your honor, you would have gotten your satisfaction out of the Germans.

In normal times about four times as many telegrams are handled daily in London as in Paris.

Why Society Women Wash Their Own Hair

Few realize how many society women now wash their own hair, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. The thousands who have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only, say they get the best results from a simple home-made canthrox mixture. You can enjoy this, the best that is known, for about three cents a shampoo by getting some canthrox from your druggist, and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

WAR ROBS MAN-EATING SHARKS OF FOOD; TERRORIZE BATHERS.

New York, July 15.—Mother's darling daughter, taking the parental advice, is staying away from the water at the bathing resorts along the Atlantic coast.

Man-eating sharks have taken a death toll of four lives so far this season, and dampened the ardor for bathing, especially on the New York and New Jersey coasts.

Armed men in swift motor boats are patrolling the waters where sharks have been sighted in the hope of killing off the sea tigers.

The man-eater is one of the largest of the shark family, reaching a length of 30 to 40 feet. It frequents all temperate and tropical seas.

Its body is stout and the caudal fin or "tail" large and strong, gives great swimming power. The nose is square and pointed, mouth large and armed in both jaws with five rows of triangular teeth.

This monster ranges the seas seizing and devouring whatever it is able to overcome. A specimen taken in California had a young sea lion weighing 100 pounds in its pauch.

Like other sharks the man-eater follows ships for many days, feeding on offal thrown overboard. One theory advanced for recent visits to Atlantic coast resorts is that on account of the European war there are few liners crossing the ocean and the sharks are coming nearer the shore for food.

Another theory is that the schools of sharks this year are so large the sharks become more courageous and travel in large numbers.

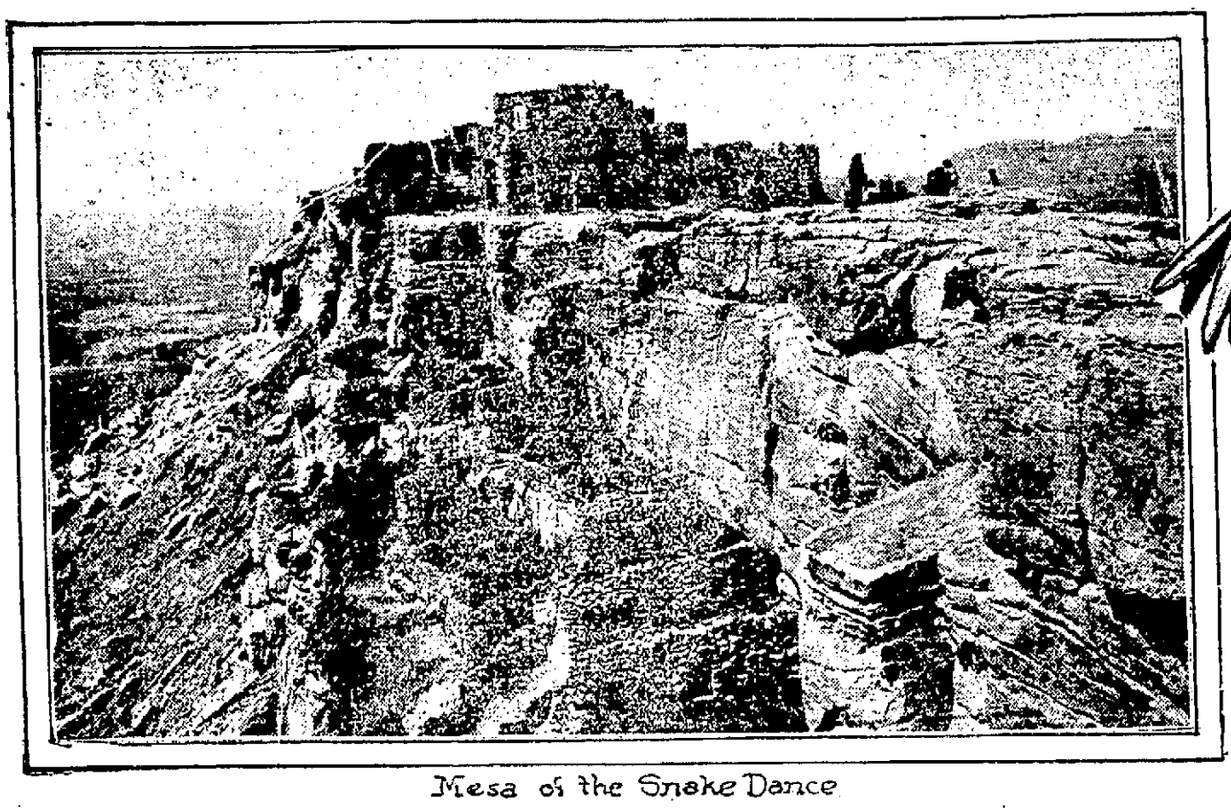
DANCING TO THE GODS



Mesa of the Snake Dance

Indian Rain Makers Have Odd Ceremony Which May Be Carried Out on Reservation This Year. The Snake Dance Is an Annual Feature with Tribes of the Pueblos.

REPORTS from Oklahoma and other sections of the country that the Indian tribes on the reservations are indulging, despite their education, in the old-time superstitious dances handed down as ceremonial rites from medicine men of bygone generations, indicate that the various tribes that formerly indulged unrestrainedly in the many dances that were the most important part of aboriginal Indian ceremonial and festival occasions, still retain their love for such display and their superstitious belief in the legends that surround these dances.

The Creek Indians, particularly, have been unusually active during the early spring, holding a number of tribal celebrations. Plans for the harvest dance have been made by several tribes, and these ceremonies will take place during the late summer, when the harvest moon comes to quarter.

Students of Indian affairs who have given special attention to the dancing proclivities of the red men, are anticipating that besides the many set dances held at stated times during the summer and fall, there will be special rain dances called this year. This belief is engendered by authoritative reports of the likelihood of drought in the country occupied by the tribes. The dances that are expected to be held are those beseeching the Great Spirit to send rain.

There have been many efforts made by scientists and rich men to affect the atmosphere in such a manner as to cause rain. Several schemes have been developed and tried out, very often with success; but the cost of these experiments has been such that the rain-making methods never could be adopted by the farmer in time of need. It seems that the Indians have ways of coaxing rain from the skies that are as successful as any that modern science has been able to develop.

Dynamite Brings Rain

PERHAPS the most successful experiments along this line were those conducted by the late C. W. Post, multimillionaire, at his ranch near Post City, Tex. On several occasions, for the purpose of producing rain, large quantities of dynamite were detonated there. In each instance, according to press reports, rainfall followed, sometimes embracing a large area. Of course, the question remains open whether this was a natural storm, or was precipitation caused by the dynamiting and consequent atmospheric shock.

A certain tribe of Indians in the territory, during the last long period of dryness there, conducted a ceremony that was, so far as concrete results are concerned, as successful as those of Post. The governmental authorities at the time started to interfere with the ceremony, but after a talk with the chiefs of the tribe, concluded that the best thing to do was to let the Indians have their way, especially since they could see that no especial harm would come of the affair.

The Indians, following the instructions handed down by legend through medicine men of a hundred generations, first obtained a snapping turtle, making captive the largest one they could find. This captive was "staked out" on a flat rock, well baked in the sun. Then they danced around the turtle for half a day, the chiefs and medicine men joining in all sorts of incantations, the women looking on, but taking no active part in this section of the ceremony. Following that, the turtle was left until after nightfall, only a guard of honor, composed of the maidens of the tribe, wearing garlands of dried grasses, remaining with the chief medicine man.

When the moon arose, the ceremony entered its second phase. In this all the women except the old and decrepit, joined. To the accompaniment of wierd music and the beat of a drum, the Indian sacred instrument, the dances were resumed with feverish energy, lasting until the sun began to peep over the horizon.

Rain Dance Begins

THEN the third and last part of the ceremony started. This was participated in only by the men—those who would have been the warriors of the tribe in the olden days. Selecting a heavy stick, over which mystic words had been pronounced by the chief medicine man, each Indian took his turn in striking the turtle, gently at first, but gradually increasing the force of his blows until he was exerting all of his muscular strength. All this time, the dancing was continued; and, as each man struck the unfortunate turtle, he emitted a half grunt, half shriek.

Ceremonial Fire Built

THIS was continued until the turtle was reduced to a mere "grease spot." Then a ceremonial fire was built over the remains, and the clubs that had been used in the ceremony were thrown upon it, the fire being carefully watched until the last particle of each stick had been consumed. The ceremony ended when the medicine man and the tribal chief, each taking a handful of the ashes, cast them into the air, and towards each quarter of the compass. About two hours afterwards a heavy rain fell and the entire summer was marked by frequent precipitations.

In the event that the predicted shortage of water comes true, it is expected that those tribes towards the central part of the state, and particularly the ones dependent on the Canadian River for their liquid, will carry out this, or such other ceremonies as their tribal laws prescribe for the bringing of rain.

Among the agricultural tribes of the South and Southwest, particularly in those regions where rainfall is scarce and which now are devoted to irrigation or dry farming by the whites, there were many "rain makers" among the medicine men, but there does not seem to have been any tribal dance in which all participated. Among these tribes, following a period of water scarcity, it was customary to call upon the medicine men to bring a downpour of water. The warriors—and they only, for the women at that time had no standing and no part in any such ceremonies, except the festival of youth and the famous snake dance—would visit the medicine men at their lodges, one after another, beginning with the head medicine man, and continuing until the veriest beginner had been called upon. Then the leaders of the medicine men and the chiefs of the tribe would consult together and name a day for rain-making ceremonies.

On the day appointed, a number of the younger medicine men, chosen by the head of the order, went in procession about the village to the "great medicine lodge," which was a sacred place, the holy of holies. Here it was customary for the priests of the tribe to assemble to sing, gesticulate and burn sweet-smelling herbs to propitiate the Great Spirit.

Rain-Maker Climbs the Roof

THE smoke of the incense escaped from the lodge by an opening in the top, ascending into space as an offering. Then one of the young men climbed to the roof of the cabin, to remain there during the entire day. This was the rain maker, chosen because of his own belief in his powers in making the water fall. There was great rivalry for this honored position and much flow of oratory and boastfulness from the younger medicine men as each endeavored to convince the older heads and the chiefs that he was the one most capable and best fitted to cause the Great Spirit to open the flood gates of the skies.

The rain maker was equipped with bow, arrow and quiver. Otherwise he wore nothing except some wampum. This latter served him as a rosary when he began his ceremonies, which consisted of eloquent prayers to Gitchee Manitou. He prayed as long as there were any untouched beads on his wampum; then he turned to the crowd of villagers assembled beneath him and addressed them in all the fiery eloquence of the Indian. Boastfulness generally was the chief characteristic of this talk: the rain maker told the people of his great powers, laying claim to unusual influence with the Great Spirit because of the superior quality of his "medicine." He wound up his long address by declaring that his buckler would attract the lightning from the clouds.

The concluding part of the ceremony was to draw a gaily ornamented arrow from his quiver and to shoot it with all his strength straight into the heavens, for the purpose of piercing the crust of the clouds and allowing the rain to escape from them.

Authorities say that this produced rain at times, but failed at others. The rain maker who was successful became a hero and powerful medicine man among his people; but he whose medicine failed was compelled to live with the dogs and do the work of a squaw, unless he deserted the tribe.

Worship of springs was a common part of the religions of the dry country tribes, where water was precious and could be found only at widely separated places.

Constant Offerings Made

IN Arizona and New Mexico, on the Western plains and deserts, and ranging south through Central America into Peru, this feature has been found by investigators in the religions of practically all the tribes. Springs, fountains and running streams were the objects of peculiar worship, and legends tell of the mythological spirits that presided over the springs and fountains, causing them to go dry when angered at some action of the Indians, but causing water to flow forth in plenty when the spirit had been propitiated by some sacrificial ceremony. Constant offerings were made, particularly by the maidens of the tribe, to the spirits of the waters in efforts to keep them in a good humor and preserve a plentiful supply for the tribe.

There are many superstitions remaining among the Indians. The Pueblos of Colorado and the states bordering it south and west, where many Indians still live in their aboriginal habitations, are filled with mystic and ceremonial beliefs. The Moquis, one of the Pueblo tribes, are the principals in exploiting the snake dance, and even to the present time these dances are carried out annually with practically all their old-time superstition and ceremony.

First of all, for the snake dance, it is necessary to have about 200 snakes—rattlers preferred. These snakes should be small, if such can be secured, yet it is desirable to have some large ones among the number. The work of gathering snakes starts just one week before the dance is to be held. The young men of the tribe are called to appear before the head medicine man and are commissioned to capture snakes: some go north, some west, some south and others east. Each day the groups move in a different direction, until the final day of the hunt; then, if it appears that there is to be a shortage of snakes, the entire village turns out broadcast to hunt for reptiles. These snakes are kept in the medicine lodge of the village until the time comes for their use.

On the day of the ceremony all those not designated to take part gather at the sacred rock. Near by is erected a special, pen-like structure of buffalo hide, intended for the snakes. Then the procession begins. First comes the head medicine man, painted, as all the others are: The upper part of the face dead black; a white band from the edge of the lower lip to the top of the shoulders; the remainder of the body greenish-black, except for white markings at the wrists and ankles. Rattles of tortoise shell are tied about the knee and each carries in his hand a T-shaped rattle, the combined noises of which give the effect of rain driven by a heavy wind.

Sacred Corn Meal Used

THE head medicine man says a prayer, then sprinkles the ground about him with sacred water, and his chief assistant sprinkles sacred corn meal about; then all prance slowly around the sacred rock, going through the motions of planting corn and chanting a dirge-like music. Then, as a detachment of maids, clad entirely in white and bearing curiously woven baskets filled with corn meal, appears on the scene, the actors who have carried out the first part retire to where the snakes are kept in earthen jars; soon they reappear, carrying the snakes between their teeth. With each snake bearer is a wand bearer, whose duty is to tickle the snake under the chin, distracting its attention from the man who is carrying it, and thus keeping it from biting him. The snakes used in this dance always are venomous, yet there never has been discovered by eye-witnesses any incident of one of the dancers having been bitten.

Those carrying the snakes in their mouths drop them as they approach the line of basket bearers; these, in their turn, sprinkle corn meal over the reptiles; old crones pick them up and carry them to the special pen erected near the sacred rock. When all the reptiles have been so treated, they all are placed on the sacred rock at one time and the warriors and braves dance about the rock to the beating of a drum, while the maidens continue profuse showers of corn meal over snakes and dancers alike.

When the snakes are entirely buried beneath the shower of meal, the music, if it can be so called, ceases; then each of the youths and maidens of the tribe seizes a handful of promiscuous snakes from the pile and darts off at top speed to the limits of the village, where the reptiles are turned loose. While these are running away with the snakes, the others of the Indians, even the onlookers joining in now, dance confusedly about the sacred rock, while the medicine men chant in loud tones until all the bearers have returned. Then all slowly file past the sacred rock and stamp the ground forcibly with the right foot, and the ceremony is concluded.

There are many other interesting dances among the Indians of the various tribes, in some of which sacrifices are used; but it is doubtful if there is any other so dangerous generally to participants and onlookers alike as the snake dance, for all the snakes used, or nearly all, could cause sudden death to any of the Indians if their fangs came into play.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, July 18.—Uneasiness over the black rust danger tended today to harden the price of wheat. The market was bullishly affected also by Liverpool reports that the unfavorable weather in all growing countries was causing British buyers to become nervous.

Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c lower, with July at $1.11 to $1.11½ and September at $1.12½ to $1.12¾, were followed by moderate gains all around.

The close was unsettled, ½c and ¼@⅜c net lower, with July at $1.11⅛ and September at $1.12⅝.

Dry hot weather sent corn prices up. Temperatures of above 100 continued to be reported from the southwest. After opening ¼c to ⅝c higher, the market underwent something of a reaction and then again became firm.

Yesterday's largest sellers were the most active buyers today. The close was nervous, ¼@⅜c net advance.

Hot weather had only a transient bullish effect on oats. Selling by leading houses proved more than an offset.

Higher quotations on hogs gave strength to provisions. The best demand was for lard and ribs.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, July 18.—Pressure against some of the specialities, notably the automobile group, was renewed at the opening of today's operations, with gains in other quarters General Motors broke 22 to 465, and Willys-Overland was again heavy, with a slight recession in Maxwell. Crucible Steel and Utah Copper. American Can rose a point, with as much for Marine preferred. Industrial Alcohol and Cuban Cane Sugar and three for American Tobacco. Rails were firm, with a further inquiry for Lake Erie and Western and Wisconsin Central. Mexicans hardened later.

Price changes became more variable later with alternate advances and declines in specialities, standard stocks, particularly Union Pacific, Reading, St. Paul, U. S. Steel and Marine preferred, were sufficiently firm to impart a measure of stability, except in isolated instances where further unloading of weakened accounts was indicated. Willys-Overland continued to drop, declining to 58¼, its lowest quotation in considerable over a year, but other shares of the same class were comparatively steady. Tobaccos were strong, Lorillard gaining five. Bonds were irregular and lacked especial feature.

Baby Bonds Build Wealth and Character

Baby Bonds are indorsed by many of the local business men, not only because they cultivate savings habits, which they realize is highly desirable in any community, but also for the fact that these savings habits never fail to mold character. Little extravagances, which frequently lead to bad morals, are displaced by a habit of denial which makes character of a higher quality.

Baby Bonds come in $10 denominations, are secured by first mortgages on local real estate, and bear six per cent. interest. There are also some $500 bonds with the same security and the same rate of interest. For further information see the Wildwood Sales Company, Shoaff building.

FORT WAYNE BATTERY MAY MOVE NEXT WEEK

Cavalry and Artillery Merge and Mustering Continues at Headquarters.

Orders have been received at the battery headquarters in Fort Wayne from Adjutant-General Bridges by Captain John C. Scheffer that as soon as recruiting has reached peace strength of 133 men and five horses that they will be given orders to entrain for Fort Benjamin Harrison. Captain Scheffer is of the opinion since the battery and cavalry troop have decided to merge that this number will be reached by the first part of next week.

At noon Tuesday ninety-four men had been mustered into the battery service. The fifty-four men who had expressed their desire of joining the cavalry troop are all able bodied men, the majority having seen service before and it is very likely that all will pass the physical examination. This would bring the total above peace strength. Wednesday evening Captain Scheffer will be in Hoagland with the examining physician where twenty-three men are expecting to join.

Communications from Adjutant-General Bridges stated that no cavalry would be accepted from this state until an additional battalion of artillery was furnished for immediate service. Under these circumstances the adjutant-general advised that Lieutenant Moriarity go in with Captain Scheffer in the battery. He decided to do so and was mustered in Monday evening.

Other Batteries Recruiting.

Word from Rockville and Indianapolis, where the other two batteries are being formed indicate that the work of recruiting is progressing rapidly. It seems very probable that all three batteries will be at Fort Benjamin Harrison next week. The promise has been given that as soon as the men have received a general tryout at Fort Harrison they will be sent to the border.

As soon as definite orders are received for mobilization, officials in charge of the local recruiting station are expecting a wild rush for enlistment since many men who have successfully passed the physical examination have not taken the oath but are awaiting the arrival of the orders. Captain Scheffer believes that when the time comes to leave the city the battery will be up to war strength, which consists of 176 men and five officers.

WHEAT STRAWS COME FROM ARM OF GIRL

Doctors Baffled by Mysterious Case Which Develops Near Bremen.

South Bend, Ind., July 18.—During a period of less than six weeks 200 wheat straws, from one to thirteen inches long, have come from two sores in the hand of Rossetta Irvin, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Irvin, living seven miles northwest of Bremen. This is the assertion of members of the Irvin family, substantiated by several residents of Bremen and a bundle of straws one and one-half inches thick. The little Irvin girl was brought to South Bend several days ago and was examined by several physicians, including Drs. C. C. Terry, Charles Hansel and R. C. Shanklin. No explanation for the phenomena can be made by the doctors.

Six weeks ago an infection developed between the third and fourth fingers of the Irvin girl. This caused considerable pain and a physician was called. The sore was lanced twice. A few days later a straw appeared, issuing through the infection. This was followed by another and another during a period of several days, until 170 straws were in the Irvin collection. Then the infection began to heal.

Hardly had this place healed until infection appeared just at the base of the girl's thumb. More straws began to make their appearance. Thirty of the straws came from this infection.

Following this, the frightened parents brought the child to Dr. Hansel for examination. A box containing the straws was shown to the physicians who were called into consultation. Several X-ray pictures of the girl's hand and arm were taken, but Dr. Shanklin declared no evidence of any foreign substance was shown by the photographs.

Over the telephone today the mother of the Irvin girl declared the hand was practically healed now and no straws had issued since the two-hundredth, which came several days ago. The girl is not suffering pain and it is believed that the phenomena is ended.

During the period the straws were issuing from the girl's hand she declared she could feel them moving along her arm from the elbow down. Some of the straws forced themselves out, while others were pulled out by those attending the girl. Few of the straws are flattened, most of them retaining their cylindrical form.

EYES OF WORLD ON GRANDSON AS DEATH BECKONS FRANZ JOSEPH.

Archduke Charles, heir-apparent to throne, his wife and children; below, Emperor Franz Joseph.

With death beckoning to Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria, the eyes of the world are focused on the heir-apparent to the throne, Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, and his pretty wife, formerly Princess Zita, who soon may be empress of Austria and apostolic queen of Hungary.

Archduke Charles is the grandson of the present emperor. He is 29 years of age and was married to the Princess Zita, daughter of the late duke of Palma, in 1911. They have two children.

The archduke was educated in the public schools of Vienna. He was the first scion of the house of Hapsburg to take his place on the wooden benches among the sons of the people.

Tall, athletic, good looking, fluent in German, French, Hungarian and the Slav tongues, he is as popular in Hungary as in Austria.

He is the son of the late Archduke Otto and the Archduchess Maria-Josepha.

HARRISON HILL EASILY REACHED FROM CITY

Harrison Hill, the charming addition located in the angle formed by Calhoun street and Rudisill boulevard, has the advantage of two of the best and shortest routes from the center of the city to any of the higher class southside residential districts. With both Calhoun street and Harrison street running direct to this addition, the actual distance traveled to reach it from the court house is much less than it is necessary to travel to reach the best sections of Wildwood avenue, and this fact is attracting many prospective home owners who wish the advantages of a southside home but who at the same time wish to be able to get back and forth from the business district quickly. The actual figures regarding the time required to reach this section either by auto, car or afoot may be secured from the promoters, Hilgeman & Schaaf, North American building.

SAYS MILITIAMEN FAIL IN SHOOTING

(By Frederick M. Kerby.)

Washington, D. C., July 18.—"The average militiaman—as well as the average citizen—does not know how to shoot!"

This statement was made by Col. George W. McIver, assistant chief of the division of militia affairs of the army, next to Gen. A. L. Mills, the responsible officer in charge.

The brave boys who go into the service of their country are not provided by the "higher-ups" with proper means to defend their own lives, according to official reports.

The results of the 1915 rifle practice of the militia will not be available for some months, due partly to the 48-headed militia system under which the war department must wait the pleasure and convenience of state adjutant generals in making reports; but the militia division officers say it is little if any better than the previous year's target shooting. And as to that, Gen. Mills says:

"Reports of small-arms target practice for the calendar year 1914 show a very unsatisfactory state of instruction. No improvement is shown over the previous year; if anything, a worse condition is shown to exist. * * * Preliminary training for target practice is generally neglected. According to the lowest standard that could possibly be accepted, target practice can be considered satisfactory IN ONLY EIGHT STATES and is unsatisfactory in all remaining states."

The actual figures of national guard shooting are startling. In 1914, the total strength of organizations armed with the rifle was 91,570 men. Of these only 49,652—a little over half (54.22 per cent)—EVEN FIRED A RIFLE DURING THE YEAR! And of this number just 31,631 men qualified as SECOND CLASS MEN OR BETTER.

In the whole of the organized militia there were only 5,737 expert riflemen.

Compare this with the results attained in the Swiss citizen army. Switzerland can turn out in three days 250,000 perfectly equipped fighting men, "most of whom," according to the report of Lieut. Col. T. Bentley Mott, U. S. A., to our war department, "are fair shots, and all of whom are accustomed to shooting the army rifle."

In Switzerland, universal education in the public schools up to the age of 15 is compulsory, AND IN SWITZERLAND EVERY LAD LEARNS HOW TO SHOOT! From the age of 20 to 48 every Swiss citizen owes military service to the republic, but long before he presents himself in his twentieth year, the Swiss boy knows all about a rifle.

From the age of 11 to 16 years in the schools there exist cadet corps—voluntary organizations—in which setting up and marching exercises are given, and which the state furnishes with a light cadet musket and ammunition for target practice.

Between 16 and 20 the Swiss boy may, if he chooses (and he generally does,) become a member of a preparatory military organization, to which the regular army rifle is furnished by the government.

All over Switzerland, in addition, are shooting clubs—rifle shooting is the national pastime.

The Swiss government sees to it the poorest peasant can practically own a 820 rifle, receive free ammunition, and get more on easy terms; then it is made to his financial advantage to learn to shoot, and every day he puts in on it reduces automatically the time he must spend on it while under military training.

In the United States, in 1914, the "higher-ups" of the militia of four states—Illinois, Montana, Nebraska and Pennsylvania—simply submitted no report at all to the war department on militia rifle firing. North Carolina and West Virginia militia officials submitted reports that were so unintelligible they could not be included in the tables, and in South Carolina and Virginia, NO RIFLE PRACTICE AT ALL WAS HELD IN 1914!

New Course of Study Advocated for Chicago Schools.

Chicago, July 18.—A new course of study to comprise the time-honored reading, writing and arithmetic, is to displace the present system in the Chicago public schools, if a report of a special committee is adopted by the board of education at its meeting tomorrow. The committee agreed on recommendations of John D. Schoop, superintendent of schools at a meeting last night.

The course established a few years ago provided for alternation by semesters of arithmetic, geography and history. The new plan contemplated the teaching of these studies continuously, as for instance, arithmetic from the kindergarten through the Eighth grade in all semesters.
